Railroad Strike Averted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for the nation's railroads and the railway clerks' union reached tentative agreement on a new three-year contract Friday, averting a threatened nationwide strike.

However, the possibility of a second crippling strike remained alive as negotiations between the Postal Service and unions representing 600,000 workers continued. The contract between those two sides expires at midnight Sunday and two of the unions are under a "no contract, no work" mandate from their memberships.

A potential strike against the nation's seventh largest air carrier also loomed. Negotiations between Northwest Airlines and its 1,550 pilots broke off Friday and the Air Line Pilots Association scheduled a strike for 2 a.m. CDT Saturday unless progress was made in the meantime.

The new rail agreement basically is similar to one approved earlier by seven other railway unions providing wage and benefits increases of 41% over three years. However, the new pact includes additional issues of interest to the clerk's union, such as an additional cost of living increase in 1978 and "a satisfactory method to solve job stability," C. L. Dennis, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, said.

He did not say what that method was. The union had been seeking to increase the number of union members exempted from layoffs. It also had been trying to narrow the number of workers exempted from union membership.

The rail pact still must be ratified by the union's general chairman but Dennis predicted the chairmen would approve the contract overwhelmingly when they meet in Washington on Tuesday.

Dennis said the contract was "most satisfactory" and added that he was "pleased the railroad negotiators had the kind of heart necessary to bring the agreement about after several long months of negotiations."

His industry counterpart, William Dempsey, called the settlement "reasonable and fair in our views."

"It is of course a rich one," Dempsey said.

The union had been free to strike since mid-June but agreed to extend a 60-day cooling off period that expired at that time for an additional month.

The union finally called for a strike to start this coming Monday. But on Thursday it agreed to postpone the threatened strike for one week in hopes of working out the minor differences remaining between the two sides.

The negotiations collapsed on Thurday, and no further meetings were scheduled. But during the night, management reconsidered and returned to the bargaining table with a modified proposal, Dempsey said.

That offer was accepted by the union after a 90-minute bargaining session Friday with W. J. Usery Jr., the chief federal mediator.

The union workers currently earn a base wage of $5.66 per hour. There are 117,000 members of the clerk's union — about 25% of the total railroad labor force.

MOONSHINER . . . preserves ancient, illegal art.

Barleycorn Says Shine 'Ain't Never Gonna Die'

UKIAH, Calif. (AP) — "Moonshine ain't never gonna die. It's older than the guvmint," says Michael Barleycorn, who's doing his part to preserve the ancient and illegal art of brewing sour mash whisky in backwoods hideouts.

"Somethin's kinda special and spiritual about moonshine," said Barleycorn, 50, who brews about seven gallons of it yearly on a still on the 160-acre ranch he and his family own in remote northeastern Mendocino County, 150 miles north of San Francisco.

Barleycorn, a logger by trade under his real name, said in an interview that when discussing his hobby he prefers the alias, which is more colorful — and safer. It's also the moniker he used in penning a book called "Moonshiners Manual," which he hopes will contribute to a revival of the art.

"I worked on that book . . . because a lot of young people kept coming up to me and asking how to make moonshine," said Barleycorn, who uses the same still on which he brewed his first brew as a youngster in Kentucky.

As Barleycorn talked, he stood guard over the elaborate contraption, something like a pot-bellied stove attached to a barrel, out of which a gallon of clear, 130-proof liquid was bubbling into a large jug.

Barleycorn, who sports a full gray beard under gnarled cheeks and twinkling eyes, said he never sells his moonshine, but barters it freely with his neighbors.

"It's getting much like the old days up here," he said. "People ain't got much money. And nobody's interested too much in making it. So there's a lot of bartering for what you want. Everybody seems to make out pretty good."

Barleycorn's claim that there are "30 to 50 stills in Mendocino County alone" is disputed by San Francisco agents of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, who are charged with enforcing antimoonshine laws.

"We've only made two arrests on the West Coast in the past 10 years," one agent said. "And we're always checking, checking, checking. Of course, this is not to say someone is not brewing a little somewhere out there."

Trudell Arraigned

Elko, Nev. (UPI) — John F. Trudell, a co-chairman of the American Indian Movement, was arraigned Friday before U.S. Magistrate Jack Ames on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Trudell, 29, released under $10,000 bond, was arrested Thursday night by Bureau of Indian Affairs police at the Duck Water Shoshone-Piaute Reservation in Owyhee, near here.

Governor Makes Yankee Hill Happy

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Yankee Hill residents were elated Friday when Gov. J. James Exon decided not to remodel a building at the Lincoln Regional Center for a penal facility.

Not so happy, however, was Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, chairman of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, who blasted the decision as "another public relations fiasco by the (Exon) administration."

But Wayne Giebelhaus, president of the Yankee Hill Neighborhood Association, said the action proves that if citizens unite they can get action from government.

The focus of the controversy is the plan for a 185-man diagnostic and evaluation center, widely regarded as the top priority in the state's efforts to upgrade its penal system.

Prisoners Evaluated

The center's purpose is to evaluate prisoners and to identify the best correctional program, ranging from maximum security incarceration to immediate parole, best suited to the prisoners.

Instead of remodeling the Y building (so named for its shape) at the regional center, Exon said he will ask the Legislature in January to build the center from scratch at the State Reformatory — roughly two miles west of the regional center site.

Such a center at the Reformatory will roughly double the cost of the center (from $2.4 million to $4.9 million).

But more important, critics of Exon's decision, including Lusdtke, say it will delay the opening of the center — called the "nerve center" of the penal system — by a minimum of two years.

Contracts for the remodeling originally were scheduled to be signed this month.

Two Centers Favored

Luedtke expressed some doubts that the Legislature will agree to Exon's suggestions. A battle might develop with the governor, similar to the controversy on the reformatories, in which the Legislature may favor two diagnostic centers — one in Omaha, one in Lincoln — in accord with the original plans.

The Judiciary Committee's master plan originally proposed locating diagnostic and evaluation centers at the reformatories.

However, in the interests of economy, Exon proposed the center be located at an underused building at the regional center. Luedtke said he was not pleased with the plans he saw at the time but agreed to go ahead in the interests of getting something done.

"Now the governor has fumbled the ball again," Luedtke said, referring a similar citizen protest at Crete which shelved plans for a chemical dependency unit at a deserted missile base.

Approximately 150 Yankee Hill residents petitioned Exon to locate the center elsewhere out of concern for the safety of neighborhood children. Regional center psychiatrists also advised that the penal facility might have some adverse impact on mental patients.

The citizens' protest came somewhat late, because, as Giebelhaus noted, they were not sure at first what a diagnostic and evaluation center was.

Giebelhaus disputed rumors that the Yankee Hill area residents did not consider fighting the state's plans until the Crete area residents won their struggle.

Giebelhaus said the timing was coincidental, although Exon conceded that the Crete decision might have alerted Yankee Hill residents of the possibility of an open ear should they raise their voices.

Exon Convinced

In reaching the decision, Exon said he was "convinced" that it is not a good idea to mix mental patients with prisoners.

Long-range projections also indicate the Lincoln Regional Center will be needing space in the future to accommodate more patients, he said.

Whereas the remodeled Y building would be adequate, he said it will not be as ideal as a new center at the Reformatory.

A major problem posed by scrapping the plans is deciding what to do with mentally ill prisoners who should not be in the general prison population for the welfare of themselves and others.

The security building at the regional center is full. The diagnostic and reception center would have housed the overflow.

Exon said he is studying the possibility of using the present appropriation to remodel the two west wings of the Y building to house mentally disturbed inmates.

She's Taking A Siesta After Trip To Mexico

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

Nila Hoffart has been taking one long siesta since her return from Mexico last week.

That's because traveling south of the border and back on a bus with 26 students and three leaders for 17 days took a lot out of this Southeast High School junior.

"We wanted to do as much as possible while we were there," Nila said. In the time crunch, sleep just got squeezed out.

Sponsored by the Lincoln Public Schools, the trip was Nila's second to Mexico. This year, however, she participated as a student aide — a role she describes as having few concrete responsibilities but one which helps the first-time travelers feel more relaxed.

Helped In Sessions

There were some pre-trip tasks for Nila, though. Ten days before departure she helped the teacher-leaders conduct orientation sessions.

"We'd make up restaurant and cab scenes so the kids could practice their vocabulary," she related. And she also fielded questions like "What did you wear to the bullfights last year?"

With the equivalent of five years of Spanish behind here, Nila found herself the most fluent student traveler. That means her companions often relied on her translating and interpreting skills when communication got a bit murky.

"If you know the language of a country, you can get so much closer to the people," Nila believes. "The people were elated if we tried to speak Spanish."

While the language was no problem for Nila, Mexican bus drivers were a distraction of sorts. "They're not terribly cautious, to put it mildly," she explained. "We were ahead of schedule all over the place because they went so fast."

Mexico Different

Mexico, the second time around, was hardly the same for this 16-year-old. Staying in different hotels in new parts of the big cities provided a change of scenery. But more imporatnt, Nila felt she was "not so afraid to go out and meet people," as she had been on the first trip.

Highlights of the visit for Nila were rides on the world's second largest roller coaster (for only 20 cents each) and a visit to Mexico City's Olympic Stadium.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwain Hoffart, 3440 S. 40th, Nila brought back a bit of Mexico with her.

One of her souvenirs, a big straw bag, is an original, she believes. Woven into the top is "ACAULCO" — the name of the resort city with the "P" left out.

"Maybe they ran out of yarn," she laughed.

Police Chief Field Narrowed To 22 Men

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

A four-member committee picked by Mayor Helen Boosalis to screen 90 applicants for police chief has narrowed the field to 22.

Mayor Boosalis said Friday that the screening committee has been meeting for a number of weeks. The committee now is waiting for applicants' responses to a questionnaire.

In reviewing the 22 applicants even further, the mayor said the committee will only know the applicants by their Social Security numbers, not by name.

This is apparently an attempt on the mayor's part to shield the citizens' panel from the tremendous pressures which have been applied to her since she took office May 19.

Mayor Pressed

Mrs. Boosalis has been under pressure to make her preferences known particularly since different factions within the Lincoln Police Department itself and the community as a whole are reportedly backing two Lincoln police officers for the chief's job.

Dale Adams, who has been acting police chief since Chief Joe Carroll retired in March, and Leighton Wessel, community relations coordinator, are jockying for the job.

Reportedly, the candidacy of the two men for the top job has created some morale problems within the department.

By not knowing the applicants' names, presumably the committee still will be able to retain its objectivity on the police chief question.

Committee members are John Beecham, personnel director for State Farm Insurance and a member of the city's personnel board; Lela Shanks, a homemaker; the Rev. James Dawson, superintendent of schools for the Catholic Diocese of Lincoln, and Francis Minard, vice president of the Lincoln Drug .Co.

Second Group Later

When the citizens pare down the list even further, a second committee will take over the job from there.

Mayor Boosalis officially hasn't named that group yet. At least one member will be someone knowledgeable in law enforcement.

While the mayor says she has left the screening job up to the committee, she did tell them what she is looking for in Lincoln's next police chief.

The next chief should be a skilled professional who could manage a multimillion-dollar agency "which has one of the best track records in the country."

Although the mayor wants someone with a "good, sound background in law enforcement," she would like a person who is "not wedded to the old, traditional approach to law enforcement."

Standout Not Eliminated

However, Mrs. Boosalis stated, those qualifications should not eliminate the "exceptional candidate" who didn't come up through the ranks.

The next chief should have an ability as an administrator and leader. The next chief should have his or her own ideas about personnel and how, as chief, he or she would use police personnel.

The new chief, Mayor Boosalis said, must be one who will "initiate and encourage new ideas, seek new ways and approaches to reducing crime and maintaining peace and serve the community."

Mayor Boosalis has told the City Council that she is in no great hurry to appoint the police chief, since she views this appointment as probably the most important one she will make during her four-year term. The council must confirm her appointment to the chief's post.

Better Lincoln Seen As Possible

"We can make it better," say Lincoln architects about the city. For this report from a team of Lincoln Star staff members, see Column A, Page 1, Monday morning.

Pickup Leaves Road; Man Dies

Officials said the man, whose identity was being withheld until relatives were notified, was northbound on Highway 10 at the intersection with Highway 30 when it left the road, skidded into a ditch, continued across Highway 30 and ended in a field near the road.

Witnesses said the man was conscious shortly after the accident, but then slumped over his steering wheel.

The man was alone in his vehicle at the time of the mishap.

Sales Won't Raise Bread Prices—Butz

Washington (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said Friday America could export a billion bushels of wheat this year — many times the amount sold to Russia — without driving up bread prices.

But the American Bakers Association, accused by Butz of mounting "phony campaigns" on the bread price issue, said it is too early to tell whether the 3.2 million tons (117.44 million bushels) of wheat recently sold to the Soviets will have any real impact on bread prices.

"The sales reported so far are clearly not big enough to cause any alarm," an ABA spokesman said. The crucial question, he said, is whether future sales to foreign buyers will produce increases in wheat prices.

Butz, however, told reporters a record U.S. wheat crop apparently will allow U.S. farmers to export "at least a billion" bushels without driving up the price of bread or beef the way a massive 1972 Soviet grain deal did.

The grain just sold to the Soviets by two U.S. firms amounts to only a little more than 110 million bushels.

"It's only been a year and a half since the American Bakers Association had this phony campaign that bread was going to go to a dollar a loaf if we didn't stop the export sales of wheat," Butz said.

"Since tht time, the price of wheat has come down about a dollar and a half a bushel and the price of bread has gone up about a nickel. I've never had the bakers explain to me what happened on that."

The ABA official said each $1 per bushel increase in wheat sends the price of a one-pound loaf of white bread up about 1.5 cents. On that basis, July wheat increases could, theoretically at least, add about one cent to bread prices.

In another development, a team of American farm experts headed for the Soviet Union Friday to make on-site inspections of that country's drought-plagued wheat crop

Railroad Strike Averted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for the nation's railroads and the railway clerks' union reached tentative agreement on a new three-year contract Friday, averting a threatened nationwide strike.

However, the possibility of a second crippling strike remained alive as negotiations between the Postal Service and unions representing 600,000 workers continued. The contract between those two sides expires at midnight Sunday and two of the unions are under a "no contract, no work" mandate from their memberships.

A potential strike against the nation's seventh largest air carrier also loomed. Negotiations between Northwest Airlines and its 1,550 pilots broke off Friday and the Air Line Pilots Association scheduled a strike for 2 a.m. CDT Saturday unless progress was made in the meantime.

The new rail agreement basically is similar to one approved earlier by seven other railway unions providing wage and benefits increases of 41% over three years. However, the new pact includes additional issues of interest to the clerk's union, such as an additional cost of living increase in 1978 and "a satisfactory method to solve job stability," C. L. "We can make it better," say Lincoln architects about the city. For this report from a team of Lincoln Star staff members, see Column A, Page 1, Monday morning.

Officials said the man, whose identity was being withheld until relatives were notified, was northbound on Highway 10 at the intersection with Highway 30 when it left the road, skidded into a ditch, continued across Highway 30 and ended in a field near the road.

Witnesses said the man was conscious shortly after the accident, but then slumped over his steering wheel.

The man was alone in his vehicle at the time of the mishap.

Sales Won't Raise Bread Prices—Butz

Washington (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said Friday America could export a billion bushels of wheat this year — many times the amount sold to Russia — without driving up bread prices.

But the American Bakers Association, accused by Butz of mounting "phony campaigns" on the bread price issue, said it is too early to tell whether the 3.2 million tons (117.44 million bushels) of wheat recently sold to the Soviets will have any real impact on bread prices.

"The sales reported so far are clearly not big enough to cause any alarm," an ABA spokesman said. The crucial question, he said, is whether future sales to foreign buyers will produce increases in wheat prices.

Butz, however, told reporters a record U.S. wheat crop apparently will allow U.S. farmers to export "at least a billion" bushels without driving up the price of bread or beef the way a massive 1972 Soviet grain deal did.

The grain just sold to the Soviets by two U.S. firms amounts to only a little more than 110 million bushels.

"It's only been a year and a half since the American Bakers Association had this phony campaign that bread was going to go to a dollar a loaf if we didn't stop the export sales of wheat," Butz said.

"Since tht time, the price of wheat has come down about a dollar and a half a bushel and the price of bread has gone up about a nickel. I've never had the bakers explain to me what happened on that."

The ABA official said each $1 per bushel increase in wheat sends the price of a one-pound loaf of white bread up about 1.5 cents. On that basis, July wheat increases could, theoretically at least, add about one cent to bread prices.

In another development, a team of American farm experts headed for the Soviet Union Friday to make on-site inspections of that country's drought-plagued wheat crop.

Mobs Attack Communist Headquarters

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Thousands of Communists and moderate leftists were at the brink of confrontation in Portugal's two largest cities Friday night, and the military government met with political leaders in an attempt to defuse the country's worst crisis since the revolution 15 months ago.

With the military on full alert, mobs attacked Communist headquarters in several towns Communist militants erected barricades around Lisbon and in Oporto, 175 miles northeast, in an effort to keep Socialists from massing to protest the extreme leftward drift of the military government

But Socialists removed the barriers in Oporto, apparently with little resistance, and 70,000 of them poured into a soccer stadium to hear party leader Mario Soares declare "We are ready to defend ourselves and democracy by all means"

'The Communist party is engaged in a totalitarian adventure," Soares said. "They are trying to impose a dictatorship on us We say no, no and no"

The overflow crowd jumped to its feet and shouted repeatedly, "Down with Communism."

"It is time to ask the Armed Forces Movement whether it is going to govern with the support of the majority of the people or against them," Soares said.

Throughout Portugal the divisions between the vocal leftist minority and the moderate majority were drawn more deeply than at any time since the coup against the rightist dictatorship — with the possibility widespread violence could flare with any provocation.

In addition, the pro-Communist premier, Gen. Vasco Goncalves, was reported under strong pressure from more moderate colleagues on the all-powerful Supreme Revolutionary Council to step down.

The Communist party called its supporters into the streets to combat "counter-revolutionary reactionaries."

Using similiar language, the military security force known by its Portuguese initials COPCON at first warned it would use "the force of its arms" against possible action by "foreign counter-revolutionary forces."

Later COPCON said the Communist barricades around Lisbon were "unnecessary."

"The current mobilization is not justified by the actual situation, and might even increase the tension created during the past few days," a COPCON statement said.

COPCON said its efforts would be coordinated with "all those political movements really interested in blocking the way of reactionary forces that oppose the revolutionary process now under way."

For the past two days the Communist party and the Communist-dominated Intersindical Central trade union have escalated a campaign against the Socialist party — which last week quit the coalition government and criticized the military — accusing the Socialists of leading reactionary forces that want to destroy the gains of the revolution.

The Popular Democrats, Portugal's second largest party — who with the Socialists gained two-thirds of the vote in recent constitutional assembly elections compared with 18% for the Communist groups — quit the government this week.

New York Times News Summary

Mrs. Peron Just Resting

Buenos Aires — The government of Argentina sought to quell rumors and local newspaper reports that President Isabel Martinez de Peron was seeking a leave of absence and wished to go abroad. Mrs. Peron, reportedly suffering from a cold, has been secluded in the presidential mansion. The Argentine constitution allows the president, with Senate approval, to take a leave of absence of up to 60 days.

No Hard Evidence Found

Washington — Sen. Frank Church, chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Activities, said that the committee had thus far found "no hard evidence" linking former presidents to alleged attempts by the Central Intelligence Agency to assassinate foreign heads of state. He said he had now concluded that there was "a very real possibility" that the CIA had conceived and attempted to carry out such plots independently.

Shapp Seeks Office

Washington — Gov. Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for president, bringing to seven the number of prominent Democratic politicians who have declared themselves as candidates. Shapp, who is 63 years old, said he was delaying his official announcement until early fall as "a matter of timing." Meanwhile, his backers have begun a fund-raising drive to enable him to compete in a selected group of primaries.

Arab Infiltrators Killed

Tel Aviv — The military command said Friday that Israeli troops had killed three Arab infiltrators from Lebanon, blocking an attempt to seize hostages in the frontier area. The Arabs were said to belong to the Iraqi-backed Popular Struggle Front, which is part of an Arab bloc opposing Egyptian moves to negotiate an accommodation with Israel.

Killing Ban Softened

Washington — President Ford issued an executive order softening a 1972 ban by Nixon on the use of chemical toxicants to kill predatory animals on federal lands. Nessen, describing it as "a moderate position in this somewhat sensitive issue," says Ford order will permit for one year government research to find chemicals that will kill coyotes without harming other animal species.

Spacemen Declare 'New Era' For Man

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — American and Soviet spacemen celebrated a festival of friendship aboard united ships Friday and proclaimed their adventure in detente as the dawn of "a new era" for man.

"When we opened this hatch in space we were opening back on earth a new era in the history of man," Thomas P. Stafford, the American commander, said during a 30-minute news conference from space.

The astronauts and cosmonauts, in a hymn of hope, talked of a vast new age of cooperation and peace, of factories in space, of international voyages to new worlds, and of peace among all men.

Televised views of the men during the news conference showed Stafford and Alexei Leonov, the Russian commander, together in th Soviet Soyuz spacecraft. Americans Donald K. Slayton and Vance D. Brand were grouped with cosmonaut Valeri Kubasov in the Apollo craft.

The conference came only a few hours before farewells and the final closing of hatches, separating the men of Soyuz and Apollo for the last time in space. The spacecraft will undock and part on Saturday.

Leonov said he viewed their joint space flight as "only the beginning of a great human journey into outer space,"and called the adventure "a great, grandiose human effort in space.

Cooperation between men, said Brand, will lead mankind to new and distant worlds.

"The time will come when we'll explore planets together," he said. "It would bring benefits back to the whole world."

Kubasov, who became the first welder in space on an earlier Soviet flight, forecast an age when space would create a better life on earth.

"The time will come when space will have whole plants, factories for the production of new materials and new substances with new properties which could be made only in space," he said.

The news conference came during a daylong open house in space. Astronauts and cosmonauts shuttled back and forth between the linked craft. They shared meals, hosted televised tours of their space cabins and provided a scenic travelogue of their nations passing 140 miles below.

Earlier experiments in space have raised the hope that by smelting metals in space, where there is no gravity, they will be stronger and more durable. Molten metals cooling on earth develop weak spots due to the affects of gravity.

Slayton, a World War II pilot over Europe, was asked how the continent looked from space now and he called "mighty beautiful from up here. . .I just wish everybody down there could have the opportunity to look at it (from space) for themselves."

Leonov was asked about his sketches in space and the Soyuz commander produced what he called a "portrait gallery in space." The sketches done in orbit included two of Stafford and a whimsical view of Slayton wearing a cowboy hat.

Leonov began by showing what he called "drawings made a long time ago" holding up side-by-side American and Soviet flags.

Asked what he would like to hear as news from earth, Brand said "it would be nice to hear that everything was more peaceful over many areas of the world, that the world is really coming together."

A short while after the news conference the spacemen gave their final farewells.

Stafford gave Leonov a box of white spruce seeds, a special variety developed for cold climates such as the Soviet commander's native Siberia. There were enough seeds in the box to plant a whole acre of trees and Leonov said they would do well "in the climate of our country."

In his final remarks, Stafford said: "I am sure that this flight will open the way to further cooperation and friendship between our countries. Let the things that went on in our flight be a good thing for both our peoples."

In the second day of united space work, the men of Apollo and Soyuz performed joint experiments and scurried back and forth between spaceships in a series of carefully planned visits.

Brand, hosted by Kubasov in the Soyuz craft, spoke to Soviet television viewers in a special telecast.

"We have found very good hospitality here aboard the Soyuz," said the astronaut. "We are friends. We understand each other very well."

Kubasov, the proud father of two, showed Brand a photograph of his family and the astronaut told him he had "a good-looking family."

Albuquerque Police Strike Ended With Resignations

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Positions hardened in Albuquerque's weeklong police strike Friday after officers, some openly weeping, delivered more than 300 badges and resignations to city officials.

Eighteen sheriff's deputies for Bernalillo County, where Albuquerque is located, called in sick or returned to headquarters Friday, saying they they were ill in an apparent show of support for the city officers.

About 180 remaining city officers, most of them supervisors and administrators, were manning patrol cars on 12-hour shifts in this city of 300,000 residents.

A police spokesman said the city remained relatively quiet, with "about the average number of calls coming in." He said the 33 patrol cars on the streets was a little more than half the normal strength

"We've been able to accept all priority calls. That's all we're handling," he said.

There was no indication of a crime spree in the officers' absence. The burglary and robbery rates rose only slightly while the rate of more serious crimes was down since the strike began.

One police official said the city remained quiet because it's "no fun to play cops and robbers unless you've got cops.

"Burglars would rather confront a policeman than an irate citizen. A policeman is trained to use restraint. A citizen is not," said Capt. Tom Chappell. He said more store owners were sleeping in their stores at night, and more homeowners were staying home.

The resignations were accepted Thursday night by Mayor Harry Kinney, who said his financially pressed city cannot afford to increase its contract offer.

The police have been working without a contract since June 1, and negotiations dragged on more than a month without success.

The city's offer would give them 8% pay raise along with an annual 4% merit increase.

Kinney said the offer would mean "a patrolman first class with two years experience, who now receives $9,464 per year, would have received a salary of $10,587."

The police association is demanding a 12% wage hike, plus the merit increase, and a no layoff clause.

Dennis Brandt, an Albuquerque Police Officers Association negotiator, said the officers resigned rather than continue to defy a court injunction ordering them back to work.

Brandt delivered the badges, piled in a cardboard box, to the mayor.

Brandt said the "resignations are permanent, if that's the way it turns out."

Chief Bob Stover said he is caught in the middle. "I don't have accesss to the purse strings. There's no way I can give them the money they wanted," he said.

Nixon Takes Charge At Accident Scene

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon tried vainly for an hour to save the lives of three Marines at a fatal traffic accident Thursday, a base spokesmen said Friday.

"Mr. Nixon took charge of the accident scene," said Marine Capt. Lou Chatelle.

"He directed his Secret Service men to call for a medi-vac unit and he and one of his aides tried to help one Marine who was still alive."

A spokesman at Nixon's seaside home in nearby San Clemente confirmed the incident and said the former chief executive stayed at the scene for an hour, directing the operation.

A spokesman for Camp Pendleton, a sprawling base north of San Diego, gave this acaccount:

Nixon was returning with his son-in-law and daughter, Edward and Tricia Cox, from a Marine Corps golf course Thursday afternoon when the accident took place directly in front of his car.

A Secret Service agent driving the Nixon car stopped and Nixon asked him to radio for medical aid.

Nixon and Cox then tried to free a Marine pinned in the wreckage where two other men were dead. Cox used a crowbar, but the third man was pronounced dead at the base hospital five hours later.

In the Nixon car immediately behind the Marines' vehicle which crashed off Las Pulgas Road on the base were Col. Jack Brennan, the former President's aide, and a Navy corpsman.

Details of the accident were unclear and the incident was under investigation, a base spokesman said.

"All I know is that it was a head-on collision on Las Pulgas," said Capt. Chatelle, a public information officer.

The dead Marines were identified as Sgt. Davis A. Vandal, 28, of nearby Oceanside; Cpl. Ramiro A. Delgado Jr., 20, of San Antonio, Tex., and Sgt. Larry W. Grise, 24, of San Clemente.

Sex Integration Required

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under pressure from women and civil rights groups, the House reversed itself Friday and voted to require schools to integrate physical education courses by sex.

Rep. Bella Abzug, the New York Democrat who stood by the House entrances buttonholing members for their votes, said she was pleased her colleagues "have reiterated their commitment to equal opportunity for girls and women."

"It's not just a matter of sports — it is women's economic and political futures we're talking about," she said.

The vote was 215 to 178 to delete from a $7.9-billion educational aid bill a provision by Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., to let local schools decide which physical education courses girls could enter and which should be kept for boys only.

The House vote sent the bill to the White House, where it may be vetoed for being $1.5 billion above President Ford's budget.

Nebraska Republican Reps. John Y. McCollister and Virginia Smith voted against the amendment, while Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., voted with the minority.

Two days earlier, the House had balked at deleting the Casey amendment by 212 to 211.

One of the key supporters, Rep. Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, had to leave the House without voting, after giving a speech in favor of deleting the Casey amendment, when she learned her daughter had been injured critically in a car wreck in Ithaca, N.Y.

Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., noted that football teams are bused long distances to play competing teams. But she said girl athletes are lucky if they can use the track facilities after school and said the inequities in athletics "are the beginning of the feeling of being not that important . . . of being not quite a citizen."

If the Casey amendment had become law, it would have affected the new rules banning sex discrimination in education which are scheduled to take effect Monday.

As a result of the House reversal, the so-called Title 9 rules will become law without any changes, with the impact expected to come in classrooms and gymnasiums this fall.

Oil Price Rollback OKd

Washington (AP) — The House Friday passed by a 239-172 vote a bill to roll back the price of oil.

The bill affects about 40% of U.S.-produced oil and extends price control authority from Aug. 31 to Dec. 31.

Nebraska Republican Reps. John Y. McCollister, Virginia Smith and Charles Thone all voted against the bill.

Amin Calls For Destruction Of South Africa

Kampala, Uganda (UPI) — President Adi Amin opened a meeeting of the Organization of African Unity Friday with a call for the destruction of South Africa, by widespread warfare if necessary.

In a one-hour speech that was one of the toughest ever delivered to a meeting of the organization, Amin also called for the creation of a single African army to fight white minority regimes such as South Africa's, the total economic isolation of the Pretorian regime and its expulsion from the United Nations.

The two-week conference, called to try to solve Africa's major problems, also admitted four new member states on the first day — Mozambique, Sao Tome and Principe, Cape Verde and Comoros which declared unilateral independence from France on July 6. There are now 46 members of the organization.

Tanzania, Zambia and Botswana, the three most vocal opponents of the Amin government, were not present at the opening ceremonies. There had been earlier reports these countries were trying to organize a boycott of the conference.

Amin, dressed in his favorite blue commander-in-chief's uniform and Scottish Glengarry cap, told applauding delegates, "(Prime Minister John) Vorster of South Africa plans to destroy our black brothers, but it is Vorster who must be destroyed.

"He is a criminal who has robbed our brothers of their land. Vorster and his regime must be uprooted, by force of arms if necessary.

South African attempts at detente with black Africa he said, were "poison" and detente was merely "a technical retreat by South Africa to regroup its forces. Vorster needs this respite badly. We must not allow him to have it. We have the initiative. We must use it."

Amin revived an old idea for a joint African army on the lines of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"We must at least allow our armies to have a working relationship with one another like NATO or the Warsaw Pact," he said.

Soviet Author Gets Award On Birthday

Moscow (UPI) — President Nikolai V. Podgorny presented the Soviet Union's highest honor, the Order of Lenin, to Nobel Prize-winning author Mikhail Sholkokhov to mark his birthday.

Sholokhov, whose novel about World War I and the Bolshevik Revolution, "And Quiet Flows the Don," became an international best-seller, was 70 last May 24.

REED: INSURGENT MEXICO

1972 Mexico (Spanish with English Subtitles)

REED: INSURGENT MEXICO is a fictionalized account of John Reed's press coverage and eventual participation in the Mexican Revolution of 1913. It explores the tenuous line that divides the detached observer from the committed man of action. John Reed himself had gone to Mexico in 1913 and travelled with the revolutionairies. Subsequently, he wrote the book INSERGENT MEXICO.

Mobs Attack Communist Headquarters

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Thousands of Communists and moderate leftists were at the brink of confrontation in Portugal's two largest cities Friday night, and the military government met with political leaders in an attempt to defuse the country's worst crisis since the revolution 15 months ago.

With the military on full alert, mobs attacked Communist headquarters in several towns. Communist militants erected barricades around Lisbon and in Oporto, 175 miles northeast, in an effort to keep Socialists from massing to protest the extreme leftward drift of the military government.

But Socialists removed the barriers in Oporto, apparently with little resistance, and 70,000 of them poured into a soccer stadium to hear party leader Mario Soares declare: "We are ready to defend ourselves and democracy by all means."

"The Communist party is engaged in a totalitarian adventure," Soares said. "They are trying to impose a dictatorship on us. We say no, no and no."

The overflow crowd jumped to its feet and shouted repeatedly, "Down with Communism."

"It is time to ask the Armed Forces Movement whether it is going to govern with the support of the majority of the people or against them," Soares said.

Throughout Portugal the divisions between the vocal leftist minority and the moderate majority were drawn more deeply than at any time since the coup against the rightist dictatorship — with the possibility widespread violence could flare with any provocation.

In addition, the pro-Communist premier, Gen. Vasco Goncalves, was reported under strong pressure from more moderate colleagues on the all-powerful Supreme Revolutionary Council to step down.

COPCON said its efforts would be coordinated with "all those political movements really interested in blocking the way of reactionary forces that oppose the revolutionary process now under way."

For the past two days the Communist party and the Communist-dominated Intersindical Central trade union have escalated a campaign against the Socialist party — which last week quit the coalition government and criticized the military — accusing the Socialists of leading reactionary forces that want to destroy the gains of the revolution.

The Popular Democrats, Portugal's second largest party — who with the Socialists gained two-thirds of the vote in recent constitutional assembly elections compared with 18% for the Communist groups — quit the government this week.

Albuquerque Police Strike Ended With Resignations

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Positions hardened in Albuquerque's weeklong police strike Friday after officers, some openly weeping, delivered more than 300 badges and resignations to city officials.

Eighteen sheriff's deputies for Bernalillo County, where Albuquerque is located, called in sick or returned to headquarters Friday, saying they they were ill in an apparent show of support for the city officers.

The city's offer would give them 8% pay raise along with an annual 4% merit increase.

Kinney said the offer would mean "a patrolman first class with two years experience, who now receives $9,464 per year, would have received a salary of $10,587."

The police association is demanding a 12% wage hike, plus the merit increase, and a no layoff clause.

Dennis Brandt, an Albuquerque Police Officers Association negotiator, said the officers resigned rather than continue to defy a court injunction ordering them back to work.

Brandt delivered the badges, piled in a cardboard box, to the mayor.

Brandt said the "resignations are permanent, if that's the way it turns out."

Chief Bob Stover said he is caught in the middle. "I don't have accesss to the purse strings. There's no way I can give them the money they wanted," he said.

Nixon Takes Charge At Accident Scene

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon tried vainly for an hour to save the lives of three Marines at a fatal traffic accident Thursday, a base spokesmen said Friday.

"Mr. Nixon took charge of the accident scene," said Marine Capt. Lou Chatelle.

"He directed his Secret Service men to call for a medi-vac unit and he and one of his aides tried to help one Marine who was still alive."

A spokesman at Nixon's seaside home in nearby San Clemente confirmed the incident and said the former chief executive stayed at the scene for an hour, directing the operation.

A spokesman for Camp Pendleton, a sprawling base north of San Diego, gave this account:

Nixon was returning with his son-in-law and daughter, Edward and Tricia Cox, from a Marine Corps golf course Thursday afternoon when the accident took place directly in front of his car.

A Secret Service agent driving the Nixon car stopped and Nixon asked him to radio for medical aid.

Nixon and Cox then tried to free a Marine pinned in the wreckage where two other men were dead. Cox used a crowbar, but the third man was pronounced dead at the base hospital five hours later.

In the Nixon car immediately behind the Marines' vehicle which crashed off Las Pulgas Road on the base were Col. Jack Brennan, the former President's aide, and a Navy corpsman.

Details of the accident were unclear and the incident was under investigation, a base spokesman said.

"All I know is that it was a head-on collision on Las Pulgas," said Capt. Chatelle, a public information officer.

The dead Marines were identified as Sgt. Davis A. Vandal, 28, of nearby Oceanside; Cpl. Ramiro A. Delgado Jr., 20, of San Antonio, Tex., and Sgt. Larry W. Grise, 24, of San Clemente.

Sex Integration Required

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under pressure from women and civil rights groups, the House reversed itself Friday and voted to require schools to integrate physical education courses by sex.

Rep. Bella Abzug, the New York Democrat who stood by the House entrances buttonholing members for their votes, said she was pleased her colleagues "have reiterated their commitment to equal opportunity for girls and women."

"It's not just a matter of sports — it is women's economic and political futures we're talking about," she said.

The vote was 215 to 178 to delete from a $7.9-billion educational aid bill a provision by Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., to let local schools decide which physical education courses girls could enter and which should be kept for boys only.

The House vote sent the bill to the White House, where it may be vetoed for being $1.5 billion above President Ford's budget.

Nebraska Republican Reps. John Y. McCollister and Virginia Smith voted against the amendment, while Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., voted with the minority.

Two days earlier, the House had balked at deleting the Casey amendment by 212 to 211.

One of the key supporters, Rep. Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, had to leave the House without voting, after giving a speech in favor of deleting the Casey amendment, when she learned her daughter had been injured critically in a car wreck in Ithaca, N.Y.

Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., noted that football teams are bused long distances to play competing teams. But she said girl athletes are lucky if they can use the track facilities after school and said the inequities in athletics "are the beginning of the feeling of being not that important . . . of being not quite a citizen."

If the Casey amendment had become law, it would have affected the new rules banning sex discrimination in education which are scheduled to take effect Monday.

As a result of the House reversal, the so-called Title 9 rules will become law without any changes, with the impact expected to come in classrooms and gymnasiums this fall.

Oil Price Rollback OKd

Washington (AP) — The House Friday passed by a 239-172 vote a bill to roll back the price of oil.

The bill affects about 40% of U.S.-produced oil and extends price control authority from Aug. 31 to Dec. 31.

Nebraska Republican Reps. John Y. McCollister, Virginia Smith and Charles Thone all voted against the bill.

Amin Calls For Destruction Of South Africa

Kampala, Uganda (UPI) — President Adi Amin opened a meeeting of the Organization of African Unity Friday with a call for the destruction of South Africa, by widespread warfare if necessary.

In a one-hour speech that was one of the toughest ever delivered to a meeting of the organization, Amin also called for the creation of a single African army to fight white minority regimes such as South Africa's, the total economic isolation of the Pretorian regime and its expulsion from the United Nations.

The two-week conference, called to try to solve Africa's major problems, also admitted four new member states on the first day — Mozambique, Sao Tome and Principe, Cape Verde and Comoros which declared unilateral independence from France on July 6. There are now 46 members of the organization.

Tanzania, Zambia and Botswana, the three most vocal opponents of the Amin government, were not present at the opening ceremonies. There had been earlier reports these countries were trying to organize a boycott of the conference.

Amin, dressed in his favorite blue commander-in-chief's uniform and Scottish Glengarry cap, told applauding delegates, "(Prime Minister John) Vorster of South Africa plans to destroy our black brothers, but it is Vorster who must be destroyed.

"He is a criminal who has robbed our brothers of their land. Vorster and his regime must be uprooted, by force of arms if necessary.

South African attempts at detente with black Africa he said, were "poison" and detente was merely "a technical retreat by South Africa to regroup its forces. Vorster needs this respite badly. We must not allow him to have it. We have the initiative. We must use it."

Amin revived an old idea for a joint African army on the lines of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"We must at least allow our armies to have a working relationship with one another like NATO or the Warsaw Pact," he said.

Policeman Told To Decide On Tests

By WES ALBERS
Star Staff Writer

A Lincoln police officer suspended Wednesday for possible mental instability has been given "a couple more days" to decide whether to take the examinations required for his reinstatement, acting Police Chief Dale Adams said Friday night

Stuart J. Wetzler, 31, of 1630 N. 56th, Apt. 13 — who complained to the mayor and the Lincoln Journal in June and July about department administration and policies — asked for the delay Friday afternoon, Adams said.

Wetzler was involuntarily placed on sick leave last Wednesday after acting Asst. Chief John Miller told him he would have to take a mental and physical examination or be fired.

Miller said a principal factor in the suspension was Wetzler's 30-day tardiness in submitting a hit-and-run accident report and concern "expressed by a number of people" about his mental stability.

Wetzler says his suspension is the result of his June 10 letter to Mayor Helen Boosalis and a July 9 talk with the Lincoln Journal about his dissatisfaction with some department operations.

In the letter to Mayor Boosalis, Wetzler said he criticized Adams' administrative abilities, the lack of a grievance process to hear disputes between an officer and his supervisor, and what Wetzler called unfair discipline and promotion procedures.

When Mrs. Boosalis did not respond to his letter, Wetzler said, he went to the evening newspaper.

Mrs. Boosalis said Friday she did not take any immediate action on Wetzler's charges because she thought Wetzler had written the letter simply for her use in choosing the next police chief.

The mayor didn't meet with Wetzler, but her administrative assistant, Mike Merwick, spoke with him several times, Mrs. Boosalis said. Merwick said Wetzler told him he didn't need to discuss the matter with the mayor.

Police officials, including Adams, deny that Wetzler's suspension was a direct result of his letter to Boosalis, a letter which Wetzler said basically expressed "the belief that Dale Adams should not be appointed as chief."

Miller refused to say specifically why he ordered Wetzler to undergo physical and mental testing, but said it was connected with Wetzler's emotional stability.

He said similar testing has been required of other police personnel

Miller conceded that Wetzler received acceptable ratings in 33 of 38 categories on a service rating form prepared by his sergeant June 6

Wetzler said Miller told him Police Community Relations Coordinator Leighton Wessel said he thought Wetzler was unstable Miller denies telling Wetzler that, but Inspector Dean Leitner said Wessel told him he was "concerned about his (Wetzler's) emotional stability."

Wessel, who along with Adams is being considered for police chief, said he did not use the words "emotional stability" with Miller or Leitner. He did tell Miller he thought Wetzler was "under strain — possibly because of the pressures of his job," Wessel said.

The police chief position became open when Joe Carroll retired after more than 30 years with the department

The Wetzler suspension has sparked speculation that the department is divided into factions, group supporting Adams and another supporting Wessel

Miller denied that such a split exists, and Wessel said he does not believe the fact that he and Adams are seeking the chief's job has any connection with the suspension

Wessel refused to comment specifically on department morale, but said long-range planning is not taking place while the chief's spot is vacant. He denied, however, that bickering between officers supporting him and those supporting Adams is disrupting department efficiency.

Wetzler's complaints also include charges that a "clique" of officers runs the department and acts favorably toward friends of the clique, that motorcycle officers are more likely to be promoted than other officers, that some sergeants have set "ticket quotas" and that people arrested for drunken driving are sometimes not allowed a phone call

Responding to Wetzler's criticisms, Miller said, "I personally feel that the community, through the Bruckner report, had the opportunity to look into most of those allegations.

"It would have come out if those charges were true. My personal observation is that I have never seen higher morale among the entirety of the police department than I see at the present time."

Mayor Boosalis said following a special meeting with police officials Friday afternoon she believes the matter "is being handled through normal procedures by the department head."

The mayor said she made that decision after talking to Adams and the personnel and law departments.

Councilmen Urge Omaha To Raze Empty Buildings

Omaha (AP) — Two city councilmen said Friday that vacant buildings owned by the city on the site of the planned Central Park Mall should be razed immediately

The statements were by Councilmen Jerry Hassett and Robert Cunningham

"We're not in a very good position to tell private individuals to tear down hazardous buildings if the city isn't following its own laws," Hassett said.

Officials admitted the buildings would be condemened if privately owned. But the city doesn't have the money budgeted for demolition of all the empty buildings, officials said

The Omaha Fire Department said buildings in the block bounded by 11th, 13th, Douglas and Farnam Streets are a hazard. There have been at least two fires there.

Hassett has asked the Housing and Community Development Department to give the City Council a report on the problem.

"Those buildings should be knocked down as fast as possible," Hassett said, "even if that means using money that was going to be spent on development of the first block "

Cunningham said he wants the buildings razed, but is against delaying decelopment of the first block

Wyatt Fined For Violating Campaign Law

Washington (AP) — Former Rep Wendell Wyatt, R-Ore., was fined $750 for a violation of federal campaign contribution' laws during the 1972 Nixon reelection campaign

Wyatt, who completed 10 years as a House member last December, could have received up to a year in prison and been fined as much as $1,000

Outside the courtroom, his voice trembling, Wyatt said, "I have maintained since the very beginning that my violation was not intentional. I think what the court has done is a recognition of that fact."

Wyatt, partner in a Portland, Ore , law firm and a former FBI agent, pleaded guilty June 11 to failure to report a $5,000 cash contribution from the Time Oil Co. of Seattle.

UP Asks PSC For OK To Stop Lyman Service

By The Associated Press

The Union Pacific Railroad has filed an application with the Nebraska Public Service Commission asking permission to delete service to Lyman

The application asks that the railroad be allowed to transfer business handled at Lyman to Gering, 25 miles east Lyman is located near the Wyoming-Nebraska border

The railroad said it will pay all telephone charges for long distance railroad business calls

A UP spokesman said there is not enough business at Lyman to warrant continued operation of an agency there He said there would be no changes in train service or handling of freight shipments

Fort Peck Reservoir Is Lowered

Omaha (AP) — For the first time since mid-May, the 35,000 cubic feet per second flow being discharged from the Fort Peck Dam in Montana Friday exceeded the amount of water flowing into the reservoir, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The present discharge rate will be maintained for several weeks, a spokesman for the Corps' Missouri River Division said Friday

The goal is to lower the lake in an effort to provide a flood storage reserve for possible heavy rainfalls

Lake Sakakawea, behind Garrison Dam in North Dakota, is expected to crest next week, and small amounts of water may go over the top of the dam's spillway gates if the right wind conditions prevail, the spokesman said Tunnel releases from the Garrison Dam will be adjustee to compensate.

Further down the Missouri River main stem, releases from the Gavins Point and Fort Randall Dams in South Dakota are being gradually increased, and will reach 60 000 cfs by the middle of next week to begin the evacuation of flood waters stored to the north and west

Milan, Italy (AP) — A large fresco of the Virgin Mary and Child, believed to be of the Leonardo da Vinci school, has been discovered at St Mark's church under a 17th century portrait of St Barbara.

Lake Renovation To Be Decided

By United Press International

The Game and Parks Commission said Friday it will make a final decision on the proposed renovation of Wagon Train Lake at its July 25 meeting.

The renovation would include lowering the reservoir's water level about five feet and using toxic chemicals to kill the fish The commission said the lake is overrun with stunted white perch and offers very poor fishing The lake would be restocked with other species.

The lake will be seined in an attempt to salvage game fish before the chemicals are added, the commission said

The commission will also discuss the status of Kimball Reservoir The Kimball Irrigation District said it is considering draining the reservoir and abandoning it to save repair costs

Nationwide Test Next For Hula Hoop Winners

Sterling Brooks of Lincoln and Jodi Gonzles of Grand Island "knee-knockered" and "alley-opped" with their Hula Hoops Friday night to win the state Hula Hoop tournament at the Gateway Shopping Center Mall

Contestants were judged on their performance in five different ricks with their Hula Hoops. Brooks, 12, and Gonzales, 13, will now compete in the national tournament Aug 1 in St. Paul, Minn.

Brooks also won the boys' city-wide Hula Hoop tournament Thursday night at Gateway Donna Charvat, 13, captured the Lincoln title in the girls' division.

Rosalind Brown and Rick Welchoff, new city champs in Thursday night's Frisbee competition at Gateway, will compete in Omaha Monday for the state title.

Both the Frisbee and Hula Hoop contests are sponsored by a national toy company.

Cable Burns Out; Big Part Of North Platte Loses Power

North Platte (AP) — An approximate 240-block area of North Platte was without electricity early Friday night as the result of a burned out cable running from an underground power line to an overhead transformer.

A spokesman for the municipal light and water department said the outage had been building all day as a result of increasing usage of electricity in the city as temperatures climbed

He said other power failures would occur in North Platte if usage of electricity is not curtailed during peak demand hours of 4 to 6 p.m.

Friday's outage was the second in as many days for North Platte Thursday power was out in the downtown area.

The spokesman said availability of electricity is not the problem, but rather the capacity of the transmission system in North Platte.

The city purchases power from the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD)

Policeman Told To Decide On Tests

By WES ALBERS
Star Staff Writer

A Lincoln police officer suspended Wednesday for possible mental instability has been given "a couple more days" to decide whether to take the examinations required for his reinstatement, acting Police Chief Dale Adams said Friday night.

Stuart J. Wetzler, 31, of 1630 N. 56th, Apt. 13 — who complained to the mayor and the Lincoln Journal in June and July about department administration and policies — asked for the delay Friday afternoon, Adams said.

Wetzler was involuntarily placed on sick leave last Wednesday after acting Asst. Chief John Miller told him he would have to take a mental and physical examination or be fired.

Miller said a principal factor in the suspension was Wetzler's 30-day tardiness in submitting a hit-and-run accident report and concern "expressed by a number of people" about his mental stability.

Wetzler says his suspension is the result of his June 10 letter to Mayor Helen Boosalis and a July 9 talk with the Lincoln Journal about his dissatisfaction with some department operations.

In the letter to Mayor Boosalis, Wetzler said he criticized Adams' administrative abilities, the lack of a grievance process to hear disputes between an officer and his supervisor, and what Wetzler called unfair discipline and promotion procedures.

When Mrs. Boosalis did not respond to his letter, Wetzler said, he went to the evening newspaper.

Mrs. Boosalis said Friday she did not take any immediate action on Wetzler's charges because she thought Wetzler had written the letter simply for her use in choosing the next police chief.

The mayor didn't meet with Wetzler, but her administrative assistant, Mike Merwick, spoke with him several times, Mrs. Boosalis said. Merwick said Wetzler told him he didn't need to discuss the matter with the mayor.

Police officials, including Adams, deny that Wetzler's suspension was a direct result of his letter to Boosalis, a letter which Wetzler said basically expressed "the belief that Dale Adams should not be appointed as chief."

Miller refused to say specifically why he ordered Wetzler to undergo physical and mental testing, but said it was connected with Wetzler's emotional stability.

He said similar testing has been required of other police personnel.

Miller conceded that Wetzler received acceptable ratings in 33 of 38 categories on a service rating form prepared by his sergeant June 6.

Wetzler said Miller told him Police Community Relations Coordinator Leighton Wessel said he thought Wetzler was unstable. Miller denies telling Wetzler that, but Inspector Dean Leitner said Wessel told him he was "concerned about his (Wetzler's) emotional stability."

Wessel, who along with Adams is being considered for police chief, said he did not use the words "emotional stability" with Miller or Leitner. He did tell Miller he thought Wetzler was "under strain — possibly because of the pressures of his job," Wessel said.

The police chief position became open when Joe Carroll retired after more than 30 years with the department.

The Wetzler suspension has sparked speculation that the department is divided into factions, group supporting Adams and another supporting Wessel.

Miller denied that such a split exists, and Wessel said he does not believe the fact that he and Adams are seeking the chief's job has any connection with the suspension.

Wessel refused to comment specifically on department morale, but said long-range planning is not taking place while the chief's spot is vacant. He denied, however, that bickering between officers supporting him and those supporting Adams is disrupting department efficiency.

Wetzler's complaints also include charges that a "clique" of officers runs the department and acts favorably toward friends of the clique, that motorcycle officers are more likely to be promoted than other officers, that some sergeants have set "ticket quotas" and that people arrested for drunken driving are sometimes not allowed a phone call.

Responding to Wetzler's criticisms, Miller said, "I personally feel that the community, through the Bruckner report, had the opportunity to look into most of those allegations.

"It would have come out if those charges were true. My personal observation is that I have never seen higher morale among the entirety of the police department than I see at the present time."

Mayor Boosalis said following a special meeting with police officials Friday afternoon she believes the matter "is being handled through normal procedures by the department head."

The mayor said she made that decision after talking to Adams and the personnel and law departments.

Lake Renovation To Be Decided

By United Press International

The Game and Parks Commission said Friday it will make a final decision on the proposed renovation of Wagon Train Lake at its July 25 meeting.

The renovation would include lowering the reservoir's water level about five feet and using toxic chemicals to kill the fish. The commission said the lake is overrun with stunted white perch and offers very poor fishing. The lake would be restocked with other species.

The lake will be seined in an attempt to salvage game fish before the chemicals are added, the commission said.

The commission will also discuss the status of Kimball Reservoir. The Kimball Irrigation District said it is considering draining the reservoir and abandoning it to save repair costs.

Nationwide Test Next For Hula Hoop Winners

Sterling Brooks of Lincoln and Jodi Gonzles of Grand Island "knee-knockered" and "alley-opped" with their Hula Hoops Friday night to win the state Hula Hoop tournament at the Gateway Shopping Center Mall.

Contestants were judged on their performance in five different ricks with their Hula Hoops. Brooks, 12, and Gonzales, 13, will now compete in the national tournament Aug. 1 in St. Paul, Minn.

Brooks also won the boys' citywide Hula Hoop tournament Thursday night at Gateway. Donna Charvat, 13, captured the Lincoln title in the girls' division.

Rosalind Brown and Rick Welchoff, new city champs in Thursday night's Frisbee competition at Gateway, will compete in Omaha Monday for the state title.

Both the Frisbee and Hula Hoop contests are sponsored by a national toy company.

Cable Burns Out; Big Part Of North Platte Loses Power

North Platte (AP) — An approximate 240-block area of North Platte was without electricity early Friday night as the result of a burned out cable running from an underground power line to an overhead transformer.

A spokesman for the municipal light and water department said the outage had been building all day as a result of increasing usage of electricity in the city as temperatures climbed.

He said other power failures would occur in North Platte if usage of electricity is not curtailed during peak demand hours of 4 to 6 p.m.

Friday's outage was the second in as many days for North Platte. Thursday power was out in the downtown area.

The spokesman said availability of electricity is not the problem, but rather the capacity of the transmission system in North Platte.

The city purchases power from the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

Councilmen Urge Omaha To Raze Empty Buildings

Omaha (AP) — Two city councilmen said Friday that vacant buildings owned by the city on the site of the planned Central Park Mall should be razed immediately.

The statements were by Councilmen Jerry Hassett and Robert Cunningham.

"We're not in a very good position to tell private individuals to tear down hazardous buildings if the city isn't following its own laws," Hassett said.

Officials admitted the buildings would be condemened if privately owned. But the city doesn't have the money budgeted for demolition of all the empty buildings, officials said.

The Omaha Fire Department said buildings in the block bounded by 11th, 13th, Douglas and Farnam Streets are a hazard. There have been at least two fires there.

Hassett has asked the Housing and Community Development Department to give the City Council a report on the problem.

"Those buildings should be knocked down as fast as possible," Hassett said, "even if that means using money that was going to be spent on development of the first block."

Cunningham said he wants the buildings razed, but is against delaying decelopment of the first block.

Wyatt Fined For Violating Campaign Law

Washington (AP) — Former Rep. Wendell Wyatt, R-Ore., was fined $750 for a violation of federal campaign contribution' laws during the 1972 Nixon reelection campaign.

Wyatt, who completed 10 years as a House member last December, could have received up to a year in prison and been fined as much as $1,000.

Outside the courtroom, his voice trembling, Wyatt said, "I have maintained since the very beginning that my violation was not intentional. I think what the court has done is a recognition of that fact."

Wyatt, partner in a Portland, Ore., law firm and a former FBI agent, pleaded guilty June 11 to failure to report a $5,000 cash contribution from the Time Oil Co. of Seattle.

UP Asks PSC For OK To Stop Lyman Service

By The Associated Press

The Union Pacific Railroad has filed an application with the Nebraska Public Service Commission asking permission to delete service to Lyman.

The application asks that the railroad be allowed to transfer business handled at Lyman to Gering, 25 miles east. Lyman is located near the Wyoming-Nebraska border.

The railroad said it will pay all telephone charges for long distance railroad business calls.

A UP spokesman said there is not enough business at Lyman to warrant continued operation of an agency there. He said there would be no changes in train service or handling of freight shipments.

Fort Peck Reservoir Is Lowered

Omaha (AP) — For the first time since mid-May, the 35,000 cubic feet per second flow being discharged from the Fort Peck Dam in Montana Friday exceeded the amount of water flowing into the reservoir, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The present discharge rate will be maintained for several weeks, a spokesman for the Corps' Missouri River Division said Friday.

The goal is to lower the lake in an effort to provide a flood storage reserve for possible heavy rainfalls.

Lake Sakakawea, behind Garrison Dam in North Dakota, is expected to crest next week, and small amounts of water may go over the top of the dam's spillway gates if the right wind conditions prevail, the spokesman said. Tunnel releases from the Garrison Dam will be adjustee to compensate.

Further down the Missouri River main stem, releases from the Gavins Point and Fort Randall Dams in South Dakota are being gradually increased, and will reach 60,000 cfs by the middle of next week to begin the evacuation of flood waters stored to the north and west.

Old Fresco Found

Milan, Italy (AP) — A large fresco of the Virgin Mary and Child, believed to be of the Leonardo da Vinci school, has been discovered at St. Mark's church under a 17th century portrait of St. Barbara.

Why The Sham?

When President Ford nominated Nelson Rockefeller as vice president he told the nation that he was choosing, in his opinion, the best-qualified American for the job.

Certainly few people would doubt that Rockefeller's 40-some year career in public service places him in the front rank so far as experience and ability are concerned. His detractors can disagree with his philosophy and positions and they don't have to cotton to his personality, but they should, however grudgingly, respect the fact that after decades in federal service and as a state chief executive and international businessman and traveler and diplomat and with all the resources he has to inform himself, Rocky knows what's happening.

Ford called on that one-man reservoir of talent and experience to be the second man on a team which took over the United States government under the strangest circumstances in the nation's history.

The uncertain, newly-appointed President turned to a rock of stability and competence — the former governor of New York — to help give the new administration sturdy underpinnings after the previous administration completely unraveled.

Ford not too long ago repeated his admiration for Rockefeller and said he supported him as his running mate in 1976, but that the delegates to the Republican national Convention will have to decide.

It was expected then, and it still is, that Ford will vigorously plug for Rockefeller once his own nomination is assured.

So why the sham now of pretending that the two aren't a team? Why should Rockefeller be humiliated by the Ford election organization acting as if he didn't exist? Why all this fraudulent appeasing of the Republican right when the GOP right, center and left, the Independents and the Democrats know that Ford wants Rocky on the ticket and will recommend him once the presidential nomination is his?

Or didn't Ford, the open, candid, honest President, mean it last year when he said Rockefeller was the most qualified to join the administration as stand-in President and this year when he reaffirmed his admiration for the vice president?

He probably meant it, and if so, he should stick by it and retrieve Rockefeller from limbo and dispense with the sham.

Ford may be in trouble with the conservatives for his defense of Rockefeller (why, to most people is completely incomprehensible), but he will be in trouble with many moderate and liberal Republicans and independents and those Democrats who might be enticed to vote GOP out of desperation if he allows Rockefeller to be dumped from the ticket. A Ford-Rockefeller ticket is strong and has balance, a quality not entirely passe. A majority of Americans — whether or not all of them LIKE Rockefeller is not important — would probably feel more confident in that ticket than if Ford were paired with anyone else.

The suicidal Republican right ought to be worried about the ultimate political consequences of their fanatical anti-Rockefeller vendetta. And Ford should worry, too.

He'll Not Retire

There are many who want U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas to retire — for political reasons.

There are many who desire that he stay on — for political reasons.

And in the basically political, or philosophical, argument, the issue of his health becomes distorted. Both sides tend to bend it to their own purposes. He is too sick to continue to serve, they say. He writes only an occasional opinion, whereas he used to be the court's most prolific writer. The court will not come to a decision if he casts the deciding vote. Those who know best of his condition are guarded, indicating that he truly is in physical decline. On the other hand, they say he goes to the law library frequently to do research and he enjoys eating out with friends and entertaining guests at the rehabilitation hospital in New York where he has been since April. They say while wheelchair-bound, his mental faculties are still sharp. Much of what is said on both sides is hearsay or not pertinent.

What it all boils down to is that Douglas will leave the court only when he dies or wants to leave under his own power. He said this week he'll be there when the court's new term begins in October and "there's no chance I'll retire."

The vast majority of Douglas' detractors and supporters are not physicians. They should quit playing politics with his health.

Danger Flags Of Summer

NEW YORK — During the summer months, the dangers of food poisoning rise sharply.

So, in the kitchen, take pains . . . or your stomach will.

Government and food industry groups are in an all-out drive to check the dangers of botulism and salmonella, two potentially deadly disorders caused by harmful bacteria.

Botulism is the result of improperly canned or preserved foods — and is a growing danger now that inexperienced home gardeners are experimenting with their own produce.

Salmonella is an organism that thrives in some foods.

Housewives and house-husbands are urged to observe the following rules:

Never buy canned, frozen or packaged food which is in a damaged or torn container.

Buy foods labeled "Keep Under Refrigeration" only if they are under refrigeration in the store.

Never allow frozen meat, especially chicken or pork, to thaw on work surfaces where other foods are kept.

And thoroughly wash knives, drain and cutting boards and other utensils which have been used on raw chicken or pork, before touching them to other foods.

Don't use cracked or broken eggs unless they've been thoroughly cooked. A 160-degree temperature is needed to kill salmonella organisms — and many soft-boiled, scrambled and even fried eggs never reach that temperature.

Never stuff poultry and then refrigerate it before roasting. The center of the stuffing may never reach 160 degrees before the bird is finished cooking.

Do not taste — or allow children to taste — batters before they are baked. The old-fashioned habit of "licking the pan" or the spoon can be, in some cases, dangerous.

Don't wait for leftovers to reach room temperature before putting them in the refrigerator. If perishables are not refrigerated promptly, health authorities say, they should be garbage-bagged.

The bacteria that cause botulism grow principally in an airless environment, inside jars and cans. To keep them from flourishing, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, keep them from living: use a pressure cooker or very high heat in cooking-before-canning.

And then follow, to the letter, the instructions that accompany home-canning equipment.

If you follow this advice, you should be relatively safe and secure in the kitchen and dining room . . .

Now all you have to worry about is hay fever.

Oh no, you may be thinking. Hay fever has nothing to do with you; your nose is as dry as an unhealthy dog's.

But hay fever is sneaky, the way it creeps up and assaults a nose, often quite late in life. One day your proboscis is normal and itchless — and the next Thursday about noon, suddenly all smell breaks loose and is replaced by an angry tickle that has come to roost until Labor Day.

Unfortunately, many Americans who have gone through youth relatively dry-nosed discover, in the prime of life, that they are allergic to a potpourri of pollens in the air.

In the U.S., there are many millions of citizens who have hay fever, suffer from it annually, and know what to expect following the July 4th holiday. But there also are hundreds of thousands who have it and don't recognize it. They are the persons who give the common cold more of a bad reputation than it deserves.

It is no wonder so many suffer from HF when you consider:

A single mature ragweed plant gives off one billion pollen grains, any one of which can rouse a sneeze in an allergic nose.

And one square mile of ragweed produces 16 tons of pollen each summer season.

Since ragweed causes 95% of all the hay fever, it would seem a sensible idea to kill off the weed which stretches across our rural scene and blows potential poisons into the innermost regions of our big cities. But a hay fever expert told me that no concerted effort is made to do so because hay fever is considered only a nuisance disease. It has been called the "neglected step-child" in medical education for more than a century.

People who don't have hay fever don't worry much about it.

And people who have it are so miserable for three months of the year, they can't think of anything constructive . . .

In Defense Of Single Parenthood

Seven Million Others

Lincoln, Neb.

As a single parent and a friend of Julie Geier, I am disturbed by the article, "Women Try Going It Alone," which appeared on July 11.

No 1: As a single parent, Julie is not "trying" to go it alone. She is "doing" it alone, as are approximately seven million other single parents who just happen to be women.

No. 2: The article failed to make several points that are very important to single parents. Discrimination against working mothers, the refusal of firms to hire pregnant women, the lack of good quality, affordable child care and the emotional and psychological difficulties imposed by a society which accepts the nuclear family as the norm are all problems that were ignored in the article.

The article implied a sense of irresponsibility on the part of Julie and Pat Dean with regard to their decision to have a baby and not have a husband. Both Julie and Pat are responsible women. They knew the responsibilities and duties as well as the joys when they chose single parenthoods. Many women have children while married and when their husbands are no longer part of the family, they are single parents by chance, not choice.

I think choice is better.

Stigma Is Problem

Lincoln, Neb.

I'm replying to The Star's July 11 article, "Women Try Going It Alone." Knowing both Pat and Julie, I don't feel they're "trying" to go it alone; they ARE going it alone.

Being what society calls an "unwed" mother, I was interested in the article. I feel it left a lot of leeway for those people who tend to read into a situation things that don't exist. The article was tipped toward the negative side of parenthood and not being married. Didn't Julie and Pat give any positive feedback on their lives as single parents? If not, I would like to tell about mine.

I chose to become pregnant, not get married, and Tai Chi Ananda was born June 10, 1974. I wasn't alone. I had close friends by my side throughout the pregnancy and birth of my daughter.

Our first few months were spent with great loving friends who filled the gap of family desertion. Through Tai Chi's first year, we've grown together and in our own ways, and will continue to do so. Any relationship should. I'm proud of my child and hope she grows up proud and content with who SHE is.

One major problem that we have to hurdle is the stigma that ignorant people put on "unwed" mothers and "illegitimate" children. I don't have to have a license to be a mother and my child is legitimate in every sense of the word! As Julie said, I'm not a baby machine, and I won't be one. My child is my choice.

I wonder if people will understand a defensive attitude, as we single parents have some heavy problems other than "Johnny won't be good. He needs a mommy or daddy." If people want to look at some problems that single unmarried parents have, take a look at people who refuse us apartments and jobs, people who consider us promiscuous — and our children bastards — and people who carry on the attitude that we're welfare free-loaders.

Take a closer look at us — not titles.

Additional Information

Lincoln, Neb.

The article, "Women Try Going It Alone," in the July 11 Star failed to carry across most of the ideas Julie Geier and I expressed to the interviewer.

I am a single parent. I stressed repeatedly that the use of this appellation has become very important. Unmarried women are only one group of several emerging parent categoreis. There are also fathers who take custody of children after divorce; there are an increasing number of single parent adoption placements, to both sexes; and there are single men who care enough about children to take a parent role responsibility seriously.

Which is more disturbing for children? If they are victims of divorce, society accepts the new status of the family members, but the pain is internal, generated by the adults' difficulties and simply there for the children to cope with. An alternative, for parents who want to keep their personal relationship free of the strange encumbrances modern marriage seems to thrust upon people, is to choose not to marry and live togehter, but maintain positive commitments to the children and each other.

In the article, it was said that my child's father was not included in the decision to continue my pregnancy. The corollary information is that there will be a father-daughter relationship for Jessica, as well as acceptance by her father's family. I knew this when I made up my mind, and it happened when she was born.

The suffering inflicted on unmarried parents by society ultimately hinders the growth of the child whose mother or father is constantly under pressure to compensate for "depriving" the child of a "normal" home. The idea that it's abnormal becomes a haunting specter, no matter how hard you are trying, which erodes your confidence as fast as you try to build it up.

It would help a great deal for the community to take note of us who are trying as honestly as possible to progress through the stereotypes and bequeath to our children the strength we gain from doing so. It takes a certain amount of compassion and maturity not to get bitter when, in order to foster awareness in others, we offered freely for objective consideration the details of our pasts and our reasons for what we are doing, only to be relegated back to unwed motherhood in the article, a concept which seems more medieval the longer it's used in print.

Much of our current growth in Lincoln stems from attending group meetings devoted to single parenthood, which were not mentioned — in fact, the interviewer's source of subject material came from a membership list of one of these. Available now, and offering tremendous support to us, are the nationally affiliated chapter of MOMMA, rap groups at the YWCA for single and divorced mothers, and seminars on parenting skills through the Child Guidance Center and the Open Door Health Center.

At the very least, this basic information should have been included, reflecting our attempts to be aware and to function satisfactorily as whole people.

Enjoys Farmers' Market

Lincoln, Neb.

I am glad that our capital city takes care of the diverse needs of the population. It was a pleasure to see and listen to the opera, "Carmen," during this hot season. My best words for the performers and orchestra.

For the first time on July 12, I went to the farmers' market on 12th Street between N and O. It is nice to meet producers in from the suburbs or from the country face to face and to acquire items at low prices. The opinion sometimes prevails abroad that the USA is a land of super-enterprises, neglecting the interests of the poor people.

I enjoy buying from these producers, and especially honey, as Nebraska is the third in the nation in this product.

Social Security Views

Washington, D.C.

I cannot permit to go unchallenged the gross distortions of my statement on Social Security which were made in a letter to The Star printed on July 5.

Here's what I said. The Social Security system is financially troubled and needs urgent attention. It is imperative that we retain a program to require individuals to prepare for their retirement years, and I prefer the insurance approach utilized by Social Security. There are four ways to salvage the present system: raise taxes, increase the taxable wage base, cut back or adjust the rate of benefit increases or use general tax revenues to meet the large accrued liabilities owed by the Social Security Trust Fund to the next generation which is presently contributing to the system.

I noted that the situation is so serious that we should not be bound in our thinking merely to tax increases or benefit cuts, but should be open to wholly fresh approaches to providing guaranteed retirement incomes for today's workers. One of these might utilize the new government Pension Benefit Guarantee Corporation which Congress created last year.

The House Ways and Means Committee is considering all of these approaches. I cited an economic study which showed that the Social Security Trust Fund is running annual deficits and will be depleted by 1980 and another which estimated that the present system of providing Social Security benefits was depressing the economy.

It is a clear matter of record what is happening to Social Security reserves. Face the problem or not, the reserves will disappear unless we do something. This isn't a "scare tactic." I firmly believe, and said so, that the Social Security system must continue to provide benefit protection to those who have paid into it. I would be the last person to suggest that the government break, bend or even hedge its commitments to Social Security particpants and beneficiaries. The system will continue, no matter what. That is not even a question. The question is, how to finance it: through employe and employer payroll taxes or through the income tax or through some other means. Any suggestions that Social Security might not honor its obligations is a "scare tactic," but it is one employed by The Star's letter-writer, not by me.

The letter-writer and I do agree on at least one thing: "Social Security . . . is a built-in part of American life. It is here to stay." And I for one would have it no other way.

We cannot, however, continue to duck hard public policy questions and offer up "marshmallow" non-solutions to the very serious problems which this nation faces. That kind of do-nothingism can have no place in a time when problems are mounting up and when the government has grown so large that its every decision (or lack of decision) has an important impact on the lives of everyone in the country.

Art Or Monstrosities?

Disappointed In Sculptures

Holdrege, Neb.

The Holdrege Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors voted unanimously on July 15, 1975, to go on record as opposing the designs recently selected for the Interstate 80 sculptures.

We feel strongly that reconsideration should be given to a better representation of Nebraska's heritage. As it stands, we feel the present sculptures are a waste of the Nebraska taxpayers' money.

We do appreciate and support what the Nebraska Interstate 80 Bicentennial Sculpture Corporation is trying to do as a project to celebrate the Bicentennial in Nebraska. However, we do not support the designs that were selected.

We hope other citizens will speak out in opposition to these selected sculptures.

Plenty Of Home-Grown Talent

Lincoln, Neb.

One cannot but wonder at the lack of justice in various life situations. An example in point lies in the following facts:

(1) Over the past two months, nearly two dozen high-school drama students, members of the Lincoln Public Schools Repertoire Theatre, have averaged approximately 10 hours a day preparing and now performing three delightful summer productions for the benefit and enjoyment of the people of Lincoln.

(2) A group of well-scrubbed, polite and apple-cheeked young Russian athletes visited Lincoln for a few days as part of an American-Russian track meet.

(3) The local press outdid itself in generosity publicizing the Russian visitors with a multitude of photos, numerous reportorial columns, and a few personal-interest interviews. Each of these items received front-page placement or at the least were choicely located.

(4) There has not, to my knowledge (and I've looked) been a feature article of any kind on the Repertoire Theatre and its summer activities. There has been an article on one of its members but only in refrence to his having had a role in the movie, "Jaws," a reference to the Rep Theatre's being made quite obliquely — and bleakly.

Granted, the arrival of the Russian athletes certainly merited press coverage — maybe even to a maximum — but do not the enormous effort and excellent results of our own youth also deserve press coverage — if only to a modicum? In the event that fair play comes not forth, may I herewith insert a plug — Moliere's "Tartuffe," musical version of "Alice in Wonderland," and an evening of three assorted one-act plays, all at the Community Playhouse. Truly delightful and it's all "home-grown."

On April 12, The Lincoln Star in a Page One "Youth In Action" story featured student Mark Harper and his role in "Tartuffe." The Sunday Journal and Star on June 29 again reviewed the upcoming repertoire season, describing the plays and playwrights, and listing a schedule of performance dates and curtain times. The July 6 Sunday paper also ran a short story announcing the season's opening. Finally, on July 12, The Star featured David Graupner for his extra part in the movie "Jaws," and how that was useful in his Lincoln and future drama experience. Photographs accompanied the stories.

Why The Sham?

When President Ford nominated Nelson Rockefeller as vice president he told the nation that he was choosing, in his opinion, the best-qualified American for the job.

Certainly few people would doubt that Rockefeller's 40-some year career in public service places him in the front rank so far as experience and ability are concerned. His detractors can disagree with his philosophy and positions and they don't have to cotton to his personality, but they should, however grudgingly, respect the fact that after decades in federal service and as a state chief executive and international businessman and traveler and diplomat and with all the resources he has to inform himself, Rocky knows what's happening.

Ford called on that one-man reservoir of talent and experience to be the second man on a team which took over the United States government under the strangest circumstances in the nation's history.

The uncertain, newly-appointed President turned to a rock of stability and competence — the former governor of New York — to help give the new administration sturdy underpinnings after the previous administration completely unraveled.

Ford not too long ago repeated his admiration for Rockefeller and said he supported him as his running mate in 1976, but that the delegates to the Republican national Convention will have to decide.

It was expected then, and it still is, that Ford will vigorously plug for Rockefeller once his own nomination is assured.

So why the sham now of pretending that the two aren't a team? Why should Rockefeller be humiliated by the Ford election organization acting as if he didn't exist? Why all this fraudulent appeasing of the Republican right when the GOP right, center and left, the Independents and the Democrats know that Ford wants Rocky on the ticket and will recommend him once the presidential nomination is his?

Or didn't Ford, the open, candid, honest President, mean it last year when he said Rockefeller was the most qualified to join the administration as stand-in President and this year when he reaffirmed his admiration for the vice president?

He probably meant it, and if so, he should stick by it and retrieve Rockefeller from limbo and dispense with the sham.

Ford may be in trouble with the conservatives for his defense of Rockefeller (why, to most people is completely incomprehensible), but he will be in trouble with many moderate and liberal Republicans and independents and those Democrats who might be enticed to vote GOP out of desperation if he allows Rockefeller to be dumped from the ticket. A Ford-Rockefeller ticket is strong and has balance, a quality not entirely passe. A majority of Americans — whether or not all of them LIKE Rockefeller is not important — would probably feel more confident in that ticket than if Ford were paired with anyone else.

The suicidal Republican right ought to be worried about the ultimate political consequences of their fanatical anti-Rockefeller vendetta. And Ford should worry, too.

He'll Not Retire

There are many who want U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas to retire — for political reasons.

There are many who desire that he stay on — for political reasons.

And in the basically political, or philosophical, argument, the issue of his health becomes distorted. Both sides tend to bend it to their own purposes: He is too sick to continue to serve, they say. He writes only an occasional opinion, whereas he used to be the court's most prolific writer. The court will not come to a decision if he casts the deciding vote. Those who know best of his condition are guarded, indicating that he truly is in physical decline. On the other hand, they say he goes to the law library frequently to do research and he enjoys eating out with friends and entertaining guests at the rehabilitation hospital in New York where he has been since April. They say while wheelchair-bound, his mental faculties are still sharp. Much of what is said on both sides is hearsay or not pertinent.

What it all boils down to is that Douglas will leave the court only when he dies or wants to leave under his own power. He said this week he'll be there when the court's new term begins in October and "there's no chance I'll retire."

The vast majority of Douglas' detractors and supporters are not physicians. They should quit playing politics with his health.

Danger Flags Of Summer

NEW YORK — During the summer months, the dangers of food poisoning rise sharply.

So, in the kitchen, take pains . . . or your stomach will.

Government and food industry groups are in an all-out drive to check the dangers of botulism and salmonella, two potentially deadly disorders caused by harmful bacteria.

Botulism is the result of improperly canned or preserved foods — and is a growing danger now that inexperienced home gardeners are experimenting with their own produce.

Salmonella is an organism that thrives in some foods.

Housewives and house-husbands are urged to observe the following rules:

Never buy canned, frozen or packaged food which is in a damaged or torn container.

Buy foods labeled "Keep Under Refrigeration" only if they are under refrigeration in the store.

Never allow frozen meat, especially chicken or pork, to thaw on work surfaces where other foods are kept.

And thoroughly wash knives, drain and cutting boards and other utensils which have been used on raw chicken or pork, before touching them to other foods.

Don't use cracked or broken eggs unless they've been thoroughly cooked. A 160-degree temperature is needed to kill salmonella organisms — and many soft-boiled, scrambled and even fried eggs never reach that temperature.

Never stuff poultry and then refrigerate it before roasting. The center of the stuffing may never reach 160 degrees before the bird is finished cooking.

Do not taste — or allow children to taste — batters before they are baked. The old-fashioned habit of "licking the pan" or the spoon can be, in some cases, dangerous.

Don't wait for leftovers to reach room temperature before putting them in the refrigerator. If perishables are not refrigerated promptly, health authorities say, they should be garbage-bagged.

The bacteria that cause botulism grow principally in an airless environment, inside jars and cans. To keep them from flourishing, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, keep them from living: use a pressure cooker or very high heat in cooking-before-canning.

And then follow, to the letter, the instructions that accompany home-canning equipment.

If you follow this advice, you should be relatively safe and secure in the kitchen and dining room . . .

Now all you have to worry about is hay fever.

Oh no, you may be thinking. Hay fever has nothing to do with you; your nose is as dry as an unhealthy dog's.

But hay fever is sneaky, the way it creeps up and assaults a nose, often quite late in life. One day your proboscis is normal and itchless — and the next Thursday about noon, suddenly all smell breaks loose and is replaced by an angry tickle that has come to roost until Labor Day.

Unfortunately, many Americans who have gone through youth relatively dry-nosed discover, in the prime of life, that they are allergic to a potpourri of pollens in the air.

In the U.S., there are many millions of citizens who have hay fever, suffer from it annually, and know what to expect following the July 4th holiday. But there also are hundreds of thousands who have it and don't recognize it. They are the persons who give the common cold more of a bad reputation than it deserves.

It is no wonder so many suffer from HF when you consider:

A single mature ragweed plant gives off one billion pollen grains, any one of which can rouse a sneeze in an allergic nose.

And one square mile of ragweed produces 16 tons of pollen each summer season.

Since ragweed causes 95% of all the hay fever, it would seem a sensible idea to kill off the weed which stretches across our rural scene and blows potential poisons into the innermost regions of our big cities. But a hay fever expert told me that no concerted effort is made to do so because hay fever is considered only a nuisance disease. It has been called the "neglected stepchild" in medical education for more than a century.

People who don't have hay fever don't worry much about it.

And people who have it are so miserable for three months of the year, they can't think of anything constructive . . .

In Defense Of Single Parenthood

Seven Million Others

Lincoln, Neb.

As a single parent and a friend of Julie Geier, I am disturbed by the article, "Women Try Going It Alone," which appeared on July 11.

No 1: As a single parent, Julie is not "trying" to go it alone. She is "doing" it alone, as are approximately seven million other single parents who just happen to be women.

No. 2: The article failed to make several points that are very important to single parents. Discrimination against working mothers, the refusal of firms to hire pregnant women, the lack of good quality, affordable child care and the emotional and psychological difficulties imposed by a society which accepts the nuclear family as the norm are all problems that were ignored in the article.

The article implied a sense of irresponsibility on the part of Julie and Pat Dean with regard to their decision to have a baby and not have a husband. Both Julie and Pat are responsible women. They knew the responsibilities and duties as well as the joys when they chose single parenthoods. Many women have children while married and when their husbands are no longer part of the family, they are single parents by chance, not choice.

I think choice is better.

Stigma Is Problem

Lincoln, Neb.

I'm replying to The Star's July 11 article, "Women Try Going It Alone." Knowing both Pat and Julie, I don't feel they're "trying" to go it alone; they ARE going it alone.

Being what society calls an "unwed" mother, I was interested in the article. I feel it left a lot of leeway for those people who tend to read into a situation things that don't exist. The article was tipped toward the negative side of parenthood and not being married. Didn't Julie and Pat give any positive feedback on their lives as single parents? If not, I would like to tell about mine.

I chose to become pregnant, not get married, and Tai Chi Ananda was born June 10, 1974. I wasn't alone. I had close friends by my side throughout the pregnancy and birth of my daughter.

Our first few months were spent with great loving friends who filled the gap of family desertion. Through Tai Chi's first year, we've grown together and in our own ways, and will continue to do so. Any relationship should. I'm proud of my child and hope she grows up proud and content with who SHE is.

One major problem that we have to hurdle is the stigma that ignorant people put on "unwed" mothers and "illegitimate" children. I don't have to have a license to be a mother and my child is legitimate in every sense of the word! As Julie said, I'm not a baby machine, and I won't be one. My child is my choice.

I wonder if people will understand a defensive attitude, as we single parents have some heavy problems other than "Johnny won't be good. He needs a mommy or daddy." If people want to look at some problems that single unmarried parents have, take a look at people who refuse us apartments and jobs, people who consider us promiscuous — and our children bastards — and people who carry on the attitude that we're welfare freeloaders.

Take a closer look at us — not titles.

Additional Information

Lincoln, Neb.

The article, "Women Try Going It Alone," in the July 11 Star failed to carry across most of the ideas Julie Geier and I expressed to the interviewer.

I am a single parent. I stressed repeatedly that the use of this appellation has become very important. Unmarried women are only one group of several emerging parent categoreis. There are also fathers who take custody of children after divorce; there are an increasing number of single parent adoption placements, to both sexes; and there are single men who care enough about children to take a parent role responsibility seriously.

Which is more disturbing for children? If they are victims of divorce, society accepts the new status of the family members, but the pain is internal, generated by the adults' difficulties and simply there for the children to cope with. An alternative, for parents who want to keep their personal relationship free of the strange encumbrances modern marriage seems to thrust upon people, is to choose not to marry and live togehter, but maintain positive commitments to the children and each other.

In the article, it was said that my child's father was not included in the decision to continue my pregnancy. The corollary information is that there will be a father-daughter relationship for Jessica, as well as acceptance by her father's family. I knew this when I made up my mind, and it happened when she was born.

The suffering inflicted on unmarried parents by society ultimately hinders the growth of the child whose mother or father is constantly under pressure to compensate for "depriving" the child of a "normal" home. The idea that it's abnormal becomes a haunting specter, no matter how hard you are trying, which erodes your confidence as fast as you try to build it up.

It would help a great deal for the community to take note of us who are trying as honestly as possible to progress through the stereotypes and bequeath to our children the strength we gain from doing so. It takes a certain amount of compassion and maturity not to get bitter when, in order to foster awareness in others, we offered freely for objective consideration the details of our pasts and our reasons for what we are doing, only to be relegated back to unwed motherhood in the article, a concept which seems more medieval the longer it's used in print.

Much of our current growth in Lincoln stems from attending group meetings devoted to single parenthood, which were not mentioned — in fact, the interviewer's source of subject material came from a membership list of one of these. Available now, and offering tremendous support to us, are the nationally affiliated chapter of MOMMA, rap groups at the YWCA for single and divorced mothers, and seminars on parenting skills through the Child Guidance Center and the Open Door Health Center.

At the very least, this basic information should have been included, reflecting our attempts to be aware and to function satisfactorily as whole people.

Enjoys Farmers' Market

I am glad that our capital city takes care of the diverse needs of the population. It was a pleasure to see and listen to the opera, "Carmen," during this hot season. My best words for the performers and orchestra.

For the first time on July 12, I went to the farmers' market on 12th Street between N and O. It is nice to meet producers in from the suburbs or from the country face to face and to acquire items at low prices. The opinion sometimes prevails abroad that the USA is a land of super-enterprises, neglecting the interests of the poor people.

I enjoy buying from these producers, and especially honey, as Nebraska is the third in the nation in this product.

Social Security Views

Washington, D.C.

I cannot permit to go unchallenged the gross distortions of my statement on Social Security which were made in a letter to The Star printed on July 5.

Here's what I said. The Social Security system is financially troubled and needs urgent attention. It is imperative that we retain a program to require individuals to prepare for their retirement years, and I prefer the insurance approach utilized by Social Security. There are four ways to salvage the present system: raise taxes, increase the taxable wage base, cut back or adjust the rate of benefit increases or use general tax revenues to meet the large accrued liabilities owed by the Social Security Trust Fund to the next generation which is presently contributing to the system.

I noted that the situation is so serious that we should not be bound in our thinking merely to tax increases or benefit cuts, but should be open to wholly fresh approaches to providing guaranteed retirement incomes for today's workers. One of these might utilize the new government Pension Benefit Guarantee Corporation which Congress created last year.

The House Ways and Means Committee is considering all of these approaches. I cited an economic study which showed that the Social Security Trust Fund is running annual deficits and will be depleted by 1980 and another which estimated that the present system of providing Social Security benefits was depressing the economy.

It is a clear matter of record what is happening to Social Security reserves. Face the problem or not, the reserves will disappear unless we do something. This isn't a "scare tactic." I firmly believe, and said so, that the Social Security system must continue to provide benefit protection to those who have paid into it. I would be the last person to suggest that the government break, bend or even hedge its commitments to Social Security particpants and beneficiaries. The system will continue, no matter what. That is not even a question. The question is, how to finance it: through employe and employer payroll taxes or through the income tax or through some other means. Any suggestions that Social Security might not honor its obligations is a "scare tactic," but it is one employed by The Star's letter-writer, not by me.

The letter-writer and I do agree on at least one thing: "Social Security . . . is a built-in part of American life. It is here to stay." And I for one would have it no other way.

We cannot, however, continue to duck hard public policy questions and offer up "marshmallow" non-solutions to the very serious problems which this nation faces. That kind of do-nothingism can have no place in a time when problems are mounting up and when the government has grown so large that its every decision (or lack of decision) has an important impact on the lives of everyone in the country.

No Rush Yet For Demo Nomination

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Hess Dyas' decision to seek election to the Senate next year instead of undertaking another House race has not triggered any stampede of Democratic prospects in the First Congressional District.

As his party's congressional nominee last year, Dyas was regarded as a cinch for renomination in 1976 if he chose to take a second crack at Republican Rep. Charles Thone.

Unless he changes his mind, Dyas is now pointed toward a Senate candidacy, seeking the seat which will be vacated by Republican Sen. Roman Hruska.

That determination has not produced any rush of Democratic hopefuls to replace him in the First District.

Party leaders currently know of no one who can be counted as a likely candidate against Thone.

The names most often mentioned are those of Allen O'Donnell of Wayne and Pauline Anderson of Lincoln.

Both were candidates for the Democratic state chairmanship in 1974.

O'Donnell, a political science professor at Wayne State College, was a county manager for Darrell Berg's 1972 congressional campaign.

Away from home for postgraduate studies, O'Donnell has been unavailable for an interview on whether he is actively considering a congressional race.

Mrs. Anderson, full-time coordinator for Berg's 1972 congressional bid, is out of the city and unavailable by telephone.

One party official listed four other persons who might make strong candidates if they could be enticed into the House contest. None has expressed interest.

They include Lincoln Mayor Helen Boosalis, former Senate candidate Wallace Peterson, State Administrative Services Director Stan Matzke and Bert Evans, a University of Nebraska economist and former congressional candidate.

The lack of intense Democratic interest may be the result of a number of factors.

The Dyas decision appears to be firm, but is not yet formal.

July of 1975 is too early for firm decisions by other prospects. The autumn or winter months are a more likely time for decision-making.

Thone is regarded as a tough man to beat.

All of those factors probably contribute to the lack of Democratic activity.

Even with the best organized and most generously financed Democratic campaign for a House seat in Nebraska history, Dyas was unable to overturn the Republican congressman in 1974.

A Republican ticket headed by a popular President in 1976 could make that task even more difficult.

And yet it was in a presidential election year, 1964, that Democrats last won a congressional race in the First District when Clair Callan triumphed over Ralph Beermann.

Future Value?

Even if Thone would be tough to handle next year, one Democratic leader noted, the Democratic nomination could prove to be of enormous future value.

Should 70-year-old Republican Sen. Carl Curtis follow Hruska's example and step aside in 1978, the following election year, Thone is expected to bid for his Senate seat.

That would leave the House seat open, and the 1976 Democratic congressional nominee might be in the most advantageous position to claim it.

Dyas Okays Formation Of Committee Backing Him For Senate

By United Press International

Hess Dyas of Lincoln has approved organization of a committee to support his candidacy for the U.S. Senate nomination in next year's Democratic primary election.

Dyas, unsuccessful First Congressional District candidate in last year's general election, said formation of the committee was not to be interpreted as a formal declaration of candidacy.

But he said it did rule out another try for the First Congressional District seat held by Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb.

Filing of the committee papers, Dyas said, served notice to other Democrats thinking about seeking the Seante seat that he is now committed to a Senate campaign. But he added he might decide later not to run.

He said a decision by Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky to enter the Democratic senatorial primary would not influence his ultimate decision on whether to enter the race.

Rep. John Y. McCollister, R-Neb., of Omaha and former State Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha have announced they will seek the GOP senatorial nomination.

Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., will not try for re-elction.

4 Members Sue NFO For $17,000

Four Lancaster County members of the National Farmers Organization are suing the NFO for $17,000.

The suit, filed Friday in Lancaster District Court, claims the NFO owes them the money for grain the four contracted with the NFO to sell.

They furnished the grain, the suit claims, but the NFO never paid them for it.

The suit was filed by Kenneth Thayer, Loren Kubes, Dean Pillard and Ralph Williams. The suit claims Thayer is owed $6,861, Kubes $850, Pillard $8,949 and Williams $1,123.

The suit contends that NFO officials intentionally misled the four when they had reservations about selling the grain to the NFO because of rumors that it was in financial difficulty.

The money from the sale of their grain was to be deposited in a custodial account established to protect funds belonging to its members.

Under the provisions of the account, according to the suit, no losses are possible from the custodial account unless the money was "misused or isappropriated."

Named as defendants in the suit were NFO president Oren Lee Staley, vice president Devon Woodland, secretary Arthur Phillips, treasurer Chris Walker, Robert Shoup, Willis Rowell, Robert Kessler, Edward Tvrdy and Gene Potter.

Court Rules Welfare Workers Must Choose Bargaining Agent

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A state court has ordered an election among Lancaster County welfare employes to determine if they want the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes to be their exclusive bargaining agent.

Ben Wall, a judge on the State Court of Industrial Relations, rejected the county's argument that the state should be named a codefendent in the suit and ordered a secret ballot election "within a reasonable period" of time.

Wall called a meeting for July 22 between union and county representatives to work out the details of the election.

The county claimed the state should be named in the suit since the county welfare workers are carrying out a state program.

In rejecting that argument, Wall wrote: "The evidence is overwhelming the state interferes in all the minutiae of the operations of the (welfare) devision . . .

"The state even goes so far as to keep one person on the premises at all times to maintain surveillance on the processing of welfare applications.

"Big Brother in this system thus comes in person, rather than through a two-way TV screen," Wall wrote.

Yet, he said, "We find that under the historical development of county government in the United States, and Nebraska in particular, that this manipulation of the tiniest detail of the county's handling of the program by the state is irrelevant to the determination of joint employers or of a joint bargaining unit."

The proposed bargaining unit will include all full-time and regular part-time county welfare workers except for administrators, investigators, legal secretaries, attorneys and supervisors.

Painters' Pay Will Go Up To $8.75

Omaha (AP) — A 46-day strike has ended in Omaha with acceptance by Painters Local 109 members of a contract offer from the Omaha chapter of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America.

The contract provides an immediate 85¢ increase, to be followed by two increases of 80¢ each in the next two years. It will raise the painters' base hourly pay from $7.90 to $8.75, a 10.8% increase.

A spokesman for the painting contractors said the strike affected about 23 firms.

Commission Members Defend I-80 Sculptures

Scottsbluff (AP) — Several members of the Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission (NARBC) came to the defense of the controversial sculpture project for the 10 Nebraska rest areas along Interstate 80.

Meeting here Friday, they discussed the sculpture designs at legnth.

Don Searcy, NARBC executive director, said state senators, the governor's office, commission members and others have been getting a lot of feedback on the sculpture project ever since the designs were released to the public June 9.

The commission has approved $100,000 to be used for the sculpture project.

Searcy said he "feels there is a lack of communication in some areas, and that it is unfortunate that artists who designed the sculptures are not in Nebraska to meet with the people. This would eliminate some of the negative feeling toward the sculptures."

Searcy added that he understands other proposals will be presented for consideration, designs which are are not quite as interpretive in design.

Mrs. William Hasebroock of West Point, commission chairman, said she does not think the sculptures are as "far out" as she thought they might be at first.

The I-80 sculpture project, said commissioner Kay Blackstone of Red Cloud, is federally approved, and one that was selected from a list of over 500.

She said the project is nationally recognized, and one that Nebraska should be proud of.

LES To Become Part-Owner In Planned Nuclear Power Plant

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Electric System (LES) jumped into the nuclear age Friday when the system agreed to become a part-owner in the proposed Fort Calhoun No. 2 nuclear power plant.

The plant will be constructed along the Missouri River by the Omaha Public Power District (OPPD). The LES Administrative Board agreed to buy 13% of the plant's 1,150-megawatt capacity.

That decision came despite strenous protests filed by some 30 people at an LES hearing Friday. One group contended LES wouldn't need the electricity generated by the plant if the city stepped up energy conservation efforts. Others questioned the safety of the nuclear plant.

1983 Power Scheduled

Fort Calhoun No. 2 is scheduled to begin producing power in January 1983.

The LES board unanimously agreed to participate in the plant in order to meet electrical needs in the 1980s.

The move to buy part of the plant was recommended by LES consulting engineers Black and Veatch of Kansas City. The consultants said that fuel costs for energy from nuclear plants is lower than energy produced from coal-fired units.

Since the consultants think this trend will continue, it will cost Lincoln less to buy nuclear power.

The estimated construction cost of the plant is $800 million, with a total cost of around $1 billion. LES probably will have to pay around $100 million. The City Council has agreed to budget $400,000 for 1975-76 to help foot the bill.

Board Satisfied

Board members said they were satisfied that all safety requirements will be met in the plant's construction, operation and eventual deactivation some 30 years henre.

Dan Schlitt, a physicist at the University of Nebraska, charged that nuclear plants pose "serious long-term implications for society" since the plants produce dangerous materials "which will be there for thousands of years."

Schlitt said "it is bad public policy" to encourage nuclear plant construction. He said the issue should be resolved by citizens, not technocrats who, he said, have a vested interest in the nuclear power business.

LES board member Nick Bashara acknowledged that the issue of waste recovery and decommissioning of plants is a thorny problem.

"The entire scientific community has searched long and hard for the answers," he said.

Scientists Unsure

Both Bashara and Schlitt pointed out that scientists are divided over the nuclear power plant issue.

Members said they were satisfied that the storage of radioactive, spent fuel would be taken care of according to government safety standards.

Additionally, LES will have a say in the decommissioning of Fort Calhoun No. 2, according to LES attorney Norm Krivosha.

The contract with OPPD provides that the dismantaling plan must be in accordance with federal, state and local laws, and must also be acceptable to all owners, including LES.

University of Nebraska students, called the Nebraska University Public Interest Research Group, suggested LES should take a greater role in promoting conservation through stricter insulation standards. They also proposed LES restructure the rate schedule to penalize high electric users.

Board members said LES has initiated programs in both those areas.

North Platte Grows By 5% In One Year

North Platte (UPI) — North Platte's population has increased by nearly 5% during the past year, two area officials said Friday.

In a joint announcement, Jack Elliot, superintendent of schools, and Duane Strother, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the latest census figures put North Platte's population at 23,491, up 1,230 over last year.

Elliot said a house-to-house count in conjunction with the annual school census, which now includes adults as well as children, will be continued annually until the next official U.S. census in 1980.

Strother said reliable current population figures were important to the community's growth and development.

Refugees May Apply For Aid

The Nebraska Welfare Department said Friday that Vietnamese refugees are eligible for welfare if their sponsors are unable to meet their obligations.

The department said requests for aid have come from Gage, Cass, Sarpy, Saunders, Pawnee and Douglas Counties.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"
Psalm 2 and Acts 4:25

Webster says a heathen is "one who does not believe in the God of The Bible." They rage to get rid of God's Word, The Bible, its Laws and Commandments for men. An easy and sure way to get rid of The Bible is to neglect, quit reading and remain ignorant! Christ said: "TO HIM THAT HATH SHALL BE GIVEN, BUT FROM HIM THAT HATH NOT SHALL BE TAKEN AWAY THAT WHICH HE SEEMETH TO HAVE!" Fail to use your possessions and opportunities and lose them! Doubtless this explains the loss of the Bible, The Ten Commandments, and The Lord's Prayer from our schools. It is not just the fault of The Supreme Court and others in high authority, but also on account of the neglect and resulting ignorance of probably a large percent of the about 75 million of our citizens that call themselves Christians: "BE SURE YOUR SIN WILL FIND YOU OUT" — Numbers 32:23. And in Hosea 4:6 we read: "MY PEOPLE ARE DESTROYED FOR LACK OF KNOWLEDGE: BECAUSE THOU HAS REJECTED KNOWLEDGE, I WILL ALSO REJECT THREE — SEEING THOU HAST FORGOTTEN THE LAW OF THY GOD, I WILL ALSO FORGET THY CHILDREN!" Another explanation why God's Book has been taken away from the public schools. "JESUS ANSWERED AND SAID UNTO THEM, YE DO ERR, NOT KNOWING THE SCRIPTURES, NOR THE POWER OF GOD." Matthew 22:29.

"I HAVE ESTEEMED THE WORDS OF THEY MOUTH MORE THAN MY NECESSARY FOOD," said Job, 23:12. The first verse of this Book says of him: "And that man was perfect and upright, and one that feared God, and eschewed evil."

If you could stand on some high place and look down a line of men that included all that have lived since Adam, those who stand out as giants and tower over the multitudes because of being of great blessing to their fellows are the ones who like Job and faith to "ESTEEM THE WORDS OF GOD MORE THAN THEIR NECESSARY FOOD." Noah heard God's Word, and moved with fear prepared an Ark to the saving of his house, and the race! There towers up Abraham, Moses, David—read the 119th Psalm and learn of David's attitude towards God's Law, Statutes, Commandments, Precepts, etc. Jesus Christ was The Word of God made flesh. The life and ministry of The Apostle Paul has blessed mankind for about two thousand years, and is still doing so. The secret of Luther's great life and power was the result of finding the Word of God and "esteeming it more than his necessary food," indeed, he offered his body to be burned in order to be obedient!

Luther said: "THAT THE BIBLE IS GOD'S WORD AND BOOK, I PROVE THUS: ALL THINGS THAT HAVE BEEN, AND ARE, IN THE WORLD, AND THE MANNER OF THEIR BEING, ARE DESCRIBED IN THE FIRST BOOK OF MOSES ON THE CREATION: EVEN AS GOD MADE AND SHAPED THE WORLD, SO DOES IT STAND TO THIS DAY. INFINITE POTENTATES HAVE RAGED AGAINST THIS BOOK, AND SOUGHT TO DESTROY AND UPROOT IT — KING ALEXANDER THE GREAT, THE PRINCES OF EGYPT AND BABYLON, THE MONARCHS OF PERSIA, OF GREECE, AND OF ROME, THE EMPERORS JULIUS AND AUGUSTUS.

BUT THEN NOTHING PREVAILED: THEY ARE GONE AND VANISHED, WHILE THE BOOK REMAINS, AND WILL REMAIN FOREVER AND EVER, PERFECT AND ENTIRE, AS IT WAS DECLARED AT FIRST, WHO HAS THUS HELPED IT — WHO HAS THUS PROTECTED IT AGAINST SUCH MIGHTY FORCES? NO ONE, SURELY, BUT GOD HIMSELF, WHO IS MASTER OF ALL THINGS. AND 'TIS NO SMALL MIRACLE HOW GOD HAS SO LONG PRESERVED AND PROTECTED THIS BOOK: FOR THE DEVIL AND THE WORLD ARE SORE FOES TO IT. I BELIEVE THAT THE DEVIL HAS DESTROYED MANY GOOD BOOKS OF THE CHURCH, AS, AFORETIME, HE KILLED AND CRUSHED MANY HOLY PERSONS, THE MEMORY OF WHOM HAS PASSED AWAY: BUT THE BIBLE HE WAS FAIN TO LEAVE SUBSISTING." Do you fear that unbelievers, scholars, false prophets, etc. will be able to do what such great men and powers have failed to do over such long periods of time? The late George Stuart likened those who fight against The Bible to a fool that went out to overturn Lookout Mountain with a crowbar; and those who feared The Bible would be destroyed to the bigger fool who put his shoulder against the other side of the mountain to keep it from being overturned!

John Wesley said: "I BEG LEAVE TO PROPOSE A SHORT, CLEAR AND STRONG ARGUMENT TO PROVE THE DIVINE INSPIRATION OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES. THE BIBLE MUST BE THE INVENTION OF GOOD MEN OR ANGELS, BAD MEN OR DEVILS, OR OF GOD.

1. IT COULD NOT BE THE INVENTION OF GOOD MEN OR ANGELS, FOR THEY COULD NOT MAKE A BOOK AND TELL LIES ALL THE TIME THEY WERE WRITING IT, SAYING, 'THUS SAITH THE LORD,' WHEN IT WAS THEIR OWN INVENTION.

2. IT COULD NOT BE THE INVENTION OF BAD MEN OR DEVILS, FOR THEY COULD NOT MAKE A BOOK WHICH COMMANDS ALL DUTY, FORBIDS ALL SINS, AND CONDEMNS THEIR OWN SOULS TO 'HELL FOR ALL ETERNITY!'

3. THEREFORE, DRAW THE CONCLUSION THAT THE BIBLE MUST BE GIVEN BY DIVINE INSPIRATION!"

Ecclesiastes 12: 12-14: "AND FURTHER, BY THESE, MY SON, BE ADMONISHED: OF MAKING MANY BOOKS THERE IS NO END; AND MUCH STUDY IS A WEARINESS OF THE FLESH. LET US HEAR THE CONCLUSION OF THE WHOLE MATTER: FEAR GOD AND KEEP HIS COMMANDMENTS: FOR THIS IS THE WHOLE DUTY OF MAN. FOR GOD SHALL BRING EVERY WORK INTO JUDGMENT, WITH EVERY SECRET THING, WHETHER IT BE GOOD, OR WHETHER IT BE EVIL."

How long has your favorite author or columnist or commentator been living, writing or talking? How much longer do you think he will live? How long do you suppose his notions, ideas, and writings will survive? Will they upset and overthrow one "jot or tittle" of God's Word? Christ said it would be easier for heaven and earth to pass away. Would it not be wise for you, me, and all of us like Job to "ESTEEM THE WORDS OF GOD'S MOUTH MORE THAN OUR NECESSARY FOOD — LAY IT UP IN OUR HEARTS THAT WE MIGHT NOT SIN AGAINST HIM?

No Rush Yet For Demo Nomination

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Hess Dyas' decision to seek election to the Senate next year instead of undertaking another House race has not triggered any stampede of Democratic prospects in the First Congressional District.

As his party's congressional nominee last year, Dyas was regarded as a cinch for renomination in 1976 if he chose to take a second crack at Republican Rep. Charles Thone.

Unless he changes his mind, Dyas is now pointed toward a Senate candidacy, seeking the seat which will be vacated by Republican Sen. Roman Hruska.

That determination has not produced any rush of Democratic hopefuls to replace him in the First District.

Party leaders currently know of no one who can be counted as a likely candidate against Thone.

The names most often mentioned are those of Allen O'Donnell of Wayne and Pauline Anderson of Lincoln.

Both were candidates for the Democratic state chairmanship in 1974.

O'Donnell, a political science professor at Wayne State College, was a county manager for Darrell Berg's 1972 congressional campaign.

Away from home for post-graduate studies, O'Donnell has been unavailable for an interview on whether he is actively considering a congressional race.

Mrs. Anderson, full-time coordinator for Berg's 1972 congressional bid, is out of the city and unavailable by telephone.

One party official listed four other persons who might make strong candidates if they could be enticed into the House contest. None has expressed interest.

They include Lincoln Mayor Helen Boosalis, former Senate candidate Wallace Peterson, State Administrative Services Director Stan Matzke and Bert Evans, a University of Nebraska economist and former congressional candidate.

The lack of intense Democratic interest may be the result of a number of factors.

The Dyas decision appears to be firm, but is not yet formal.

July of 1975 is too early for firm decisions by other prospects. The autumn or winter months are a more likely time for decision-making.

Thone is regarded as a tough man to beat.

All of those factors probably contribute to the lack of Democratic activity.

Even with the best organized and most generously financed Democratic campaign for a House seat in Nebraska history, Dyas was unable to overturn the Republican congressman in 1974.

A Republican ticket headed by a popular President in 1976 could make that task even more difficult.

And yet it was in a presidential election year, 1964, that Democrats last won a congressional race in the First District when Clair Callan triumphed over Ralph Beermann.

Future Value?

Even if Thone would be tough to handle next year, one Democratic leader noted, the Democratic nomination could prove to be of enormous future value.

Should 70-year-old Republican Sen. Carl Curtis follow Hruska's example and step aside in 1978, the following election year, Thone is expected to bid for his Senate seat.

That would leave the House seat open, and the 1976 Democratic congressional nominee might be in the most advantageous position to claim it.

Dyas Okays Formation Of Committee Backing Him For Senate

By United Press International

Hess Dyas of Lincoln has approved organization of a committee to support his candidacy for the U.S. Senate nomination in next year's Democratic primary election.

Dyas, unsuccessful First Congressional District candidate in last year's general election, said formation of the committee was not to be interpreted as a formal declaration of candidacy.

But he said it did rule out another try for the First Congressional District seat held by Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb.

Filing of the committee papers, Dyas said, served notice to other Democrats thinking about seeking the Seante seat that he is now committed to a Senate campaign. But he added he might decide later not to run.

He said a decision by Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky to enter the Democratic senatorial primary would not influence his ultimate decision on whether to enter the race.

Rep. John Y. McCollister, R-Neb., of Omaha and former State Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha have announced they will seek the GOP senatorial nomination.

Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., will not try for re-elction.

Exon also announced that Dr. Caroline Sedlacek, Omaha, has been appointed to the State Board of Examiners of Psychologists. He succeeds Dr. David Gruendel, Grand Island, and will serve a five-year term, ending June 13, 1980.

4 Members Sue NFO For $17,000

Four Lancaster County members of the National Farmers Organization are suing the NFO for $17,000.

The suit, filed Friday in Lancaster District Court, claims the NFO owes them the money for grain the four contracted with the NFO to sell.

They furnished the grain, the suit claims, but the NFO never paid them for it.

The suit was filed by Kenneth Thayer, Loren Kubes, Dean Pillard and Ralph Williams. The suit claims Thayer is owed $6,861, Kubes $850, Pillard $8,949 and Williams $1,123.

The suit contends that NFO officials intentionally misled the four when they had reservations about selling the grain to the NFO because of rumors that it was in financial difficulty.

The money from the sale of their grain was to be deposited in a custodial account established to protect funds belonging to its members.

Under the provisions of the account, according to the suit, no losses are possible from the custodial account unless the money was "misused or isappropriated."

Named as defendants in the suit were NFO president Oren Lee Staley, vice president Devon Woodland, secretary Arthur Phillips, treasurer Chris Walker, Robert Shoup, Willis Rowell, Robert Kessler, Edward Tvrdy and Gene Potter.

Court Rules Welfare Workers Must Choose Bargaining Agent

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A state court has ordered an election among Lancaster County welfare employes to determine if they want the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes to be their exclusive bargaining agent.

Ben Wall, a judge on the State Court of Industrial Relations, rejected the county's argument that the state should be named a codefendent in the suit and ordered a secret ballot election "within a reasonable period" of time.

Wall called a meeting for July 22 between union and county representatives to work out the details of the election.

The county claimed the state should be named in the suit since the county welfare workers are carrying out a state program.

In rejecting that argument, Wall wrote: "The evidence is overwhelming the state interferes in all the minutiae of the operations of the (welfare) devision . . .

"The state even goes so far as to keep one person on the premises at all times to maintain surveillance on the processing of welfare applications.

"Big Brother in this system thus comes in person, rather than through a two-way TV screen," Wall wrote.

Yet, he said, "We find that under the historical development of county government in the United States, and Nebraska in particular, that this manipulation of the tiniest detail of the county's handling of the program by the state is irrelevant to the determination of joint employers or of a joint bargaining unit."

The proposed bargaining unit will include all full-time and regular part-time county welfare workers except for administrators, investigators, legal secretaries, attorneys and supervisors.

LES To Become Part-Owner In Planned Nuclear Power Plant

By LYNN ZERSCHLING

The Lincoln Electric System (LES) jumped into the nuclear age Friday when the system agreed to become a part-owner in the proposed Fort Calhoun No. 2 nuclear power plant.

The plant will be constructed along the Missouri River by the Omaha Public Power District (OPPD). The LES Administrative Board agreed to buy 13% of the plant's 1,150-megawatt capacity.

That decision came despite strenous protests filed by some 30 people at an LES hearing Friday. One group contended LES wouldn't need the electricity generated by the plant if the city stepped up energy conservation efforts. Others questioned the safety of the nuclear plant.

1983 Power Scheduled

Fort Calhoun No. 2 is scheduled to begin producing power in January 1983.

The LES board unanimously agreed to participate in the plant in order to meet electrical needs in the 1980s.

The move to buy part of the plant was recommended by LES consulting engineers Black and Veatch of Kansas City. The consultants said that fuel costs for energy from nuclear plants is lower than energy produced from coal-fired units.

Since the consultants think this trend will continue, it will cost Lincoln less to buy nuclear power.

The estimated construction cost of the plant is $800 million, with a total cost of around $1 billion. LES probably will have to pay around $100 million. The City Council has agreed to budget $400,000 for 1975-76 to help foot the bill.

Board Satisfied

Board members said they were satisfied that all safety requirements will be met in the plant's construction, operation and eventual deactivation some 30 years henre.

Dan Schlitt, a physicist at the University of Nebraska, charged that nuclear plants pose "serious long-term implications for society" since the plants produce dangerous materials "which will be there for thousands of years."

Both Bashara and Schlitt pointed out that scientists are divided over the nuclear power plant issue.

Members said they were satisfied that the storage of radioactive, spent fuel would be taken care of according to government safety standards.

The contract with OPPD provides that the dismantaling plan must be in accordance with federal, state and local laws, and must also be acceptable to all owners, including LES.

University of Nebraska students, called the Nebraska University Public Interest Research Group, suggested LES should take a greater role in promoting conservation through stricter insulation standards. They also proposed LES restructure the rate schedule to penalize high electric users.

Board members said LES has initiated programs in both those areas.

2. IT COULD NOT BE THE INVENTION OF BAD MEN OR DEVILS, FOR THEY COULD NOT MAKE A BOOK WHICH COMMANDS ALL DUTY, FORBIDS ALL SINS, AND CONDEMNS THEIR OWN SOULS TO 'HELL FOR ALL ETERNITY!'

3. THEREFORE, DRAW THE CONCLUSION THAT THE BIBLE MUST BE GIVEN BY DIVINE INSPIRATION!"

Ecclesiastes 12: 12-14: "AND FURTHER, BY THESE, MY SON, BE ADMONISHED: OF MAKING MANY BOOKS THERE IS NO END; AND MUCH STUDY IS A WEARINESS OF THE FLESH. LET US HEAR THE CONCLUSION OF THE WHOLE MATTER: FEAR GOD AND KEEP HIS COMMANDMENTS: FOR THIS IS THE WHOLE DUTY OF MAN. FOR GOD SHALL BRING EVERY WORK INTO JUDGMENT, WITH EVERY SECRET THING, WHETHER IT BE GOOD, OR WHETHER IT BE EVIL."

How long has your favorite author or columnist or commentator been living, writing or talking? How much longer do you think he will live? How long do you suppose his notions, ideas, and writings will survive? Will they upset and overthrow one "jot or tittle" of God's Word? Christ said it would be easier for heaven and earth to pass away. Would it not be wise for you, me, and all of us like Job to "ESTEEM THE WORDS OF GOD'S MOUTH MORE THAN OUR NECESSARY FOOD — LAY IT UP IN OUR HEARTS THAT WE MIGHT NOT SIN AGAINST HIM?

Those Who Know Criticize PSC, Mail Shows

By EDWARD W. HOWARD
Associated Press Writer

Nebraskans who are aware of the functions of the Public Service Commission are also critical of that body, according to 41 letters received by the Associated Press.

Of the 41 letters received, 26 voiced criticism and more than a little cynicism towards the five-man elected bdy.

In brief: the critical letters contended in general (and usually in strong language) that commissioners are too greatly influenced by the utilities they are to regulate, and that the public has not forgotten reports that some commissioners took some gratuities, including tickets to NU football games, from some utilities.

Rasmussen Lauded

An important note: of the 10 most critical letters, all 10 authors went to some length to say they did not include commission chairman Eric Rasmussen in their generally low regard for the commission as a whole.

Rasmussen led efforts to have service provided by the Blair Telephone Co. improved. and rates cut in the Kennard exchange lowered.

Three letters specifically applauded Rasmussen for his stand against a commission decision (which was later rescinded) to fire engineer Gerald Sasek.

Twenty Nebraskans said they had read about the Sasek case, and indicated they thought there was something "fishy" about the initial decision to fire him.

Three writers said they would vote against their incumbent representative on the commission in the next election.

Knowledge Sketchy

Only four letter writers had any detailed knowledge of commission functions, and only those four knew the commissioners were elected from districts on a partisan basis.

Of the 26 writers who criticized the commission, all had some, if not complete, knowledge of the commission's functions.

Some of the criticisms of the commissioners were unprintable.

Many of the critical letters mentioned the Sasek incident, and then referred to past stories about some commissioners taking free trips and football tickets at the efpense of the utilities they regulate.

'So Dumb . . .'

One Lincoln man, referring to the series of PSC stories, said "I could not have thought that a group of men could be so...dumb in my life..."

One woman, critical of government in general, wrote that: "I have frequently felt represented by simpletons and-or scoundrels, but never more so than in the case of the current PSC."

There were 15 writers who had little or absolutely no knowledge of the PSC and its functions.

Support News Media

However, there were several letters which encouraged the news media to continue reporting jpsc activities, whether controversial or otherwise.

And, for those of you who asked: the commissioners are paid $17,500 a year. Finally: there was only one letter received which actually praised the commission, at least indirectly.

The thrust of the author's comment was that the PSC has been criticized because the press has had an ax to grind with commisioners. The writer concluded: "I could be wrong on the issue, as I say we have little that is reliable to evaluate from and you are right, I wasn't that interested."

Thanks for writing.

Board To Meet Sunday

The Lancaster County Board won't be going to church Sunday morning, but will be meeting instead to hammer out the county budget.

Commission Chairman Jan Gauger said the board will meet at 9 a.m. Sunday to put together the final county budget. The county's fiscal year started July 1.

Mrs. Gauger said the commissioners were holding the Sunday session because "we can't get any other block of time free for that long."

The commissioners won't meet Saturday, she said, because commissioner Bob Colin will be out-of-town.

The board will work on the budget Sunday "for as long as I can keep them (the board) together," Mrs. Gauger said Friday.

Youth Killed When Impaled On Hydrant

Granada Hills, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Hageman, 16, was killed by being impaled on a fire hydrant.

Police said Hageman was standing in the rear of a dune buggy, holding the roll bar, when it careened out of control and crossed a lawn. Hageman was thrown clear and landed on the hydrant.

The driver, Jeffrey Warren, 21, was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving.

Border Crossings Up

Ottawa (AP) — About three million Americans visited Canada and 2.8 million Canadians visited the United States during May, increases of 5.6% and 13.9% respectively over May 1974, the Canadian government reported.

Those Who Know Criticize PSC, Mail Shows

By EDWARD W. HOWARD
Associated Press Writer

Nebraskans who are aware of the functions of the Public Service Commission are also critical of that body, according to 41 letters received by the Associated Press.

Of the 41 letters received, 26 voiced criticism and more than a little cynicism towards the five-man elected bdy.

In brief: the critical letters contended in general (and usually in strong language) that commissioners are too greatly influenced by the utilities they are to regulate, and that the public has not forgotten reports that some commissioners took some gratuities, including tickets to NU football games, from some utilities.

Rasmussen Lauded

An important note: of the 10 most critical letters, all 10 authors went to some length to say they did not include commission chairman Eric Rasmussen in their generally low regard for the commission as a whole.

Rasmussen led efforts to have service provided by the Blair Telephone Co. improved, and rates cut in the Kennard exchange lowered.

Three letters specifically applauded Rasmussen for his stand against a commission decision (which was later rescinded) to fire engineer Gerald Sasek.

Twenty Nebraskans said they had read about the Sasek case, and indicated they thought there was something "fishy" about the initial decision to fire him.

Three writers said they would vote against their incumbent representative on the commission in the next election.

Knowledge Sketchy

Only four letter writers had any detailed knowledge of commission functions, and only those four knew the commissioners were elected from districts on a partisan basis.

Of the 26 writers who criticized the commission, all had some, if not complete, knowledge of the commission's functions.

Some of the criticisms of the commissioners were unprintable.

Many of the critical letters mentioned the Sasek incident, and then referred to past stories about some commissioners taking free trips and football tickets at the efpense of the utilities they regulate.

'So Dumb . . .'

One Lincoln man, referring to the series of PSC stories, said "I could not have thought that a group of men could be so...dumb in my life..."

One woman, critical of government in general, wrote that: "I have frequently felt represented by simpletons and-or scoundrels, but never more so than in the case of the current PSC."

There were 15 writers who had little or absolutely no knowledge of the PSC and its functions.

Support News Media

However, there were several letters which encouraged the news media to continue reporting jpsc activities, whether controversial or otherwise.

And, for those of you who asked: the commissioners are paid $17,500 a year. Finally: there was only one letter received which actually praised the commission, at least indirectly.

The thrust of the author's comment was that the PSC has been criticized because the press has had an ax to grind with commisioners. The writer concluded: "I could be wrong on the issue, as I say we have little that is reliable to evaluate from and you are right, I wasn't that interested."

Thanks for writing.

Board To Meet Sunday

The Lancaster County Board won't be going to church Sunday morning, but will be meeting instead to hammer out the county budget.

Commission Chairman Jan Gauger said the board will meet at 9 a.m. Sunday to put together the final county budget. The county's fiscal year started July 1.

Mrs. Gauger said the commissioners were holding the Sunday session because "we can't get any other block of time free for that long."

The commissioners won't meet Saturday, she said, because commissioner Bob Colin will be out-of-town.

The board will work on the budget Sunday "for as long as I can keep them (the board) together," Mrs. Gauger said Friday.

Youth Killed When Impaled On Hydrant

Granada Hills, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Hageman, 16, was killed by being impaled on a fire hydrant.

Police said Hageman was standing in the rear of a dune buggy, holding the roll bar, when it careened out of control and crossed a lawn. Hageman was thrown clear and landed on the hydrant.

The driver, Jeffrey Warren, 21, was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving.

Border Crossings Up

Ottawa (AP) — About three million Americans visited Canada and 2.8 million Canadians visited the United States during May, increases of 5.6% and 13.9% respectively over May 1974, the Canadian government reported.

Ambassador Survives Embassy Bombing

Washington (UPI) — A bomb exploded three feet from the Costa Rican ambassador to the United States Friday as he walked from the embassy here to a waiting car, but Ambassador Rodolfo Silva said he was unhurt by the explosive

The explosion occurred at 4 08 p m CDT at the embassy located in northwest Washington The UPI bureau in Miami received an anonymous telephone call about 90 minutes later from a man who called himself "The Cuban Scorpion" and claimed responsibility for the incident

"We are responsible for the blast in the Costa Rican Embassy Our goal is to punish anyone who recognizes Cuba," the caller said

Ambassador Silva, 42, said he was familiar with the group, and said the incident was related to the ongoing meeting of the Organization of American States in San Jose, Costa Rica, this week

"They are the same ones who set the bomb to the OAS building in April," Silva said The bomb did about $50,000 worth of damage to the main wing of the Panamerican Building here in that incident

Solzhenitsyn Has Open Invitation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford was reported ready for an early meeting with exiled Soviet writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn but apparently won t extend the written invitation the author is said to want

White House press secretary Ron Nessen told reporters on Friday that Ford ' considers that Solzhenitsyn has an open invitation to meet with him at the White House And the spokesman said he expected such a session would take place at some time

In response to a question, Nessen said some persons close to the outspoken critic of the Soviet regime report that ' a formal written invitation would be desired' by Solzhenitseyn

However Nessen said, ' That is not the normal way of doing business at the White House "

The President has been sharply criticized particularly by conservative Republicans, for a decision not to meet Solzhenitsyn when he first came to the city several weeks ago Secretary of State Henry A Kissinger has acknowledged he advised against a meeting because Solzhenitzen s views run counter to the administration s search for detente with the Soviet Union

Quints Born To Texans

Dallas (UPI) — A 20-year-old woman — her husband trapped in a hospital elevator — Friday gave birth to five healthy quintuplets during a six-minute caesarian delivery

The quintuplets were born six weeks prematurely but Dr Jack A Pritchard said all went normally during the delivery

They were born wide awake and everything is fine, he said

A hospital spokesman said the quintuplets were Mrs Davis first children and she had not been taking fertility drugs

Jerry Davis a mechanic for a trucking company did not know he had a son and four daughters until he stepped off the balky elevator at Parkland Hospital s delivery room

Davis 21 of Lewisville, Tex, wearing boots a pouch of chewing tobacco stuffed in a pocket of his western shirt said he was shocked at the news

I was stuck on the elevator for 30 or 45 minutes he said ' She (Debbie) just went into surgery as soon as I walked into the elevator When I got off I was told we had five babies I was real shocked I had told her I didn t care what we had as long as we had one boy

Nixon To Make Deposition

Washington (UPI) — A lawyer for Richard M Nixon said Friday the former president will make a sworn deposition late next week in his suit to regain custody of his presidential papers and tapes

' It s an incredibly important case from his standpoint and that of the institution of the presidency, R Stan Mortenson, one of Nixon s lawyers, told UPI

Two federal judges ordered Thursday that Nixon answer questions under oath at his California home within 10 days There was speculation, however, that he might avoid making the deposition by withdrawing the affidavit he submitted in the case in June

Mortensen said, At this moment there is no intention ' to withdraw the affidavit, which lawyers said would provide the basis for questioning when the deposition is taken

' It s important to have his testimony,' said Mortensen He is the only former president living We think it is vitally important that his testimony be considered '

Mortensen cited as subjects needing exploration the need for confidentiality of presdiential materials as well as separation of powers

Nixon would have to submit to cross-examination in the civil suit during questioning which presumably would be conducted in private

Two Watergate grand jurors interviewed him about criminal matters in San Clemente last month

In their one-page order, U S Circuit Judge Carl McGowan and District Judge Aubrey E Robinson Jr denied Nixon s motion opposing giving a deposition

Nixon s lawyers said in the July 9 motion that a deposition would create an unreasonable risk to his health

Nixon filed suit against the General Services Administration Dec 20, to declare unconstitutional a new law giving the GSA control over his presidential materials, including the controversial tapes

He has stressed that many of the materials were confidential and personal and that every president has retained his official materials after leaving office

Ambassador Survives Embassy Bombing

Washington (UPI) — A bomb exploded three feet from the Costa Rican ambassador to the United States Friday as he walked from the embassy here to a waiting car, but Ambassador Rodolfo Silva said he was unhurt by the explosive.

The explosion occurred at 4:08 p.m. CDT at the embassy located in northwest Washington. The UPI bureau in Miami received an anonymous telephone call about 90 minutes later from a man who called himself "The Cuban Scorpion" and claimed responsibility for the incident.

"We are responsible for the blast in the Costa Rican Embassy. Our goal is to punish anyone who recognizes Cuba," the caller said.

Ambassador Silva, 42, said he was familiar with the group, and said the incident was related to the ongoing meeting of the Organization of American States in San Jose, Costa Rica, this week.

"They are the same ones who set the bomb to the OAS building in April," Silva said. The bomb did about $50,000 worth of damage to the main wing of the Panamerican Building here in that incident.

It's A Struggle For Him

This little sedan was struggling under quite a load along the fast lane of Interstate 8 in San Diego, Calif. The car-top load included mattress, bedstead, fishing poles, trunk and pictures. The car was equally packed on the inside.

Solzhenitsyn Has Open Invitation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford was reported ready for an early meeting with exiled Soviet writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn but apparently won't extend the written invitation the author is said to want.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen told reporters on Friday that Ford "considers that Solzhenitsyn has an open invitation" to meet with him at the White House. And the spokesman said he expected such a session would take place "at some time."

In response to a question, Nessen said some persons close to the outspoken critic of the Soviet regime report that "a formal written invitation would be desired" by Solzhenitseyn.

However, Nessen said, "That is not the normal way of doing business at the White House."

The President has been sharply criticized, particularly by conservative Republicans, for a decision not to meet Solzhenitsyn when he first came to the city several weeks ago. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has acknowledged he advised against a meeting because Solzhenitzen's views run counter to the administration's search for detente with the Soviet Union.

Quints Born To Texans

Dallas (UPI) — A 20-year-old woman — her husband trapped in a hospital elevator — Friday gave birth to five healthy quintuplets during a six-minute caesarian delivery.

The quintuplets were born six weeks prematurely, but Dr. Jack A. Pritchard said all went normally during the delivery.

"They were born wide awake and everything is fine," he said.

A hospital spokesman said the quintuplets were Mrs. Davis' first children and she had not been taking fertility drugs.

Jerry Davis, a mechanic for a trucking company, did not know he had a son and four daughters until he stepped off the balky elevator at Parkland Hospital's delivery room.

Davis, 21, of Lewisville, Tex., wearing boots, a pouch of chewing tobacco stuffed in a pocket of his western shirt, said he was shocked at the news.

"I was stuck on the elevator for 30 or 45 minutes," he said. "She (Debbie) just went into surgery as soon as I walked into the elevator. When I got off I was told we had five babies. I was real shocked. I had told her I didn't care what we had as long as we had one boy."

Nixon To Make Deposition

Washington (UPI) — A lawyer for Richard M. Nixon said Friday the former president will make a sworn deposition late next week in his suit to regain custody of his presidential papers and tapes.

"It's an incredibly important case from his standpoint and that of the institution of the presidency," R. Stan Mortenson, one of Nixon's lawyers, told UPI.

Two federal judges ordered Thursday that Nixon answer questions under oath at his California home within 10 days. There was speculation, however, that he might avoid making the deposition by withdrawing the affidavit he submitted in the case in June.

Mortensen said, "At this moment there is no intention" to withdraw the affidavit, which lawyers said would provide the basis for questioning when the deposition is taken.

"It's important to have his testimony," said Mortensen. "He is the only former president living. We think it is vitally important that his testimony be considered."

Mortensen cited as subjects needing exploration the need for confidentiality of presdiential materials as well as separation of powers.

Nixon would have to submit to cross-examination in the civil suit during questioning which presumably would be conducted in private.

Two Watergate grand jurors interviewed him about criminal matters in San Clemente last month.

In their one-page order, U.S. Circuit Judge Carl McGowan and District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson Jr. denied Nixon's motion opposing giving a deposition.

Nixon's lawyers said in the July 9 motion that a deposition "would create an unreasonable risk to his health."

Nixon filed suit against the General Services Administration Dec. 20, to declare unconstitutional a new law giving the GSA control over his presidential materials, including the controversial tapes.

He has stressed that many of the materials were confidential and personal and that every president has retained his official materials after leaving office.

Financial Institutions Play Giveaway Game

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

First, "free checking" swept through Lincoln banks. Now, more than half a dozen local financial institutions are playing "giveaway." And so are their customers.

A family with $40,000 in hand recently walked into a local institution and asked for 10 free gifts.

Family members said they would either deposit the $40,000 in a lump sum or take out 10 accounts, ranging from $500 to $5,000, but they definitely wanted 10 free gifts.

When they left, they had enough gadgets to furnish a kitchen, plus that $40,000 was earning interest in a savings account.

One Lincoln family, which asked not to be identified, has taken advantage of giveaways for several years now. Family members have collected toasters, silverware, can opener, a clock, blenders, vacuum bottles, blankets, plants, crock pots and a wristwatch, to name a few.

The rules are simple: customers must deposit anywhere from $100 to $10,000 or more in a new checking account or savings account. Those deposits qualify individuals to select either a free gift or pay a little extra and receive a more valuable premium.

Wide Range

Lincoln depositors have a wide-range of gift items to choose from, depending on where they deposit their money.

—First National Bank currently offers purses and billfolds, ladies tote bags and men's club bags.

—Commercial Federal/Union is attracting depositors with Timex watches.

—First Savings Co. of Lincoln advertises desk, table and accent lamps.

—First Federal Lincoln is dangling pearl, jade and onyx jewelry.

—National Bank of Commerce is wooing depositors with pewter bowls, plates, mugs, goblets and candlesticks by International Silver Co

—State Federal is cooking with kitchenware.

—The Commonwealth Company's gift selection ranges from crock pots and ice chests to golf putters.

Besides these gifts, recent promotions have offered such premiums as houseplants, bedding, wigs, even dictionaries and Valentino's pizza.

Gerald Dolson at NBC said he thinks banks are beginning to accept promotion programs as a way to gain deposits

"All types of people" from all income brackets are taking advantage of the pewter offer, he said. "The word 'free' is still very powerful."

George Howard, First Savings Co. employe, estimated that between one-third and one-half of the new depositors at First Savings were coming in for the lamps. Several businesses have even deposited money in a couple of accounts and selected matching sets, he said.

Business Part

Nick Jones, branch manager for downtown State Federal Savings & Loan, said he thinks giveaways "have become a very real part of the savings business."

The savings and loan business has become extremely competitive, he said, and since all financial institutions are regulated as to what interest they can pay, "the only thing one association has to offer over another is service.

"Premiums come under a service category," said Jones.

Howard agreed: "Premiums are a way of paying customers a little extra."

Ann Wallace, advertising representative for First National Bank, noted that once a promotion program like this starts in a certain marketplace, "competition is almost 'forced' to offer a similar program.

Given a choice between a free gift plus interest or just interest, "most choose the free gift, wouldn't you?" she queried.

Still, there are limits as to what financial institutions can give away to attract deposits.

Banks and savings and loans can offer gifts that cost them as much as $5 for opening or increasing an account up to $5,000, according to Charles Mitchell, deputy director of the State Banking Dept. For accounts in excess of $5,000, gifts can't exceed $10 in wholesale cost.

And industrial companies can give away gifts that cost them as much as $7 for opening or increasing accounts up to $5,000, he said; for $5,000 to $10,000, they can give away $12; for $10,000 on up, $15 is the limit.

Tired Of Game

A few companies have grown tired of the game.

Dennis Barker, vice president of The Commonwealth Co., said he thinks Commonwealth is "going to try to lay off on promotions for awhile," at least after the current one tapers off.

"We've had so much business lately," Barker remarked, "I don't think we need it for a month or so."

Promotions "kind of wear off after so long," he noted. "They're not as big a deal as they used to be."

A spokesman for State Securities said his company quit offering premiums several months ago because "we didn't have a heavy need for more money at this time. It still seems to be coming in," he added.

Overall, he said, "I don't think that everybody offering free gifts brings more (money) in" to the community.

Financial institutions "seem to be offering them in self defense," he concluded.

Maximize The Money Your Savings Earn

Evidently Lincolnites are "biting the bullet," and "tightening their belts" because recent financial reports indicate they are saving more money these days.

Savers now face the "pleasant" problem of what to do in order to keep inflation from pounding the living daylights out of those dollars set aside for tomorrow.

Short-term investments — where the money is needed in a year or so — will probably earn the best interest in certificates of deposit, according to Dr. Keith Broman, chairman of the Finance Department at the University of Nebraska.

Nick Jones, branch manager for State Federal Savings & Loan, offered similar advice.

"Long-range savings account (certificates of depost) do just about as good as anything" to keep up with inflation, he said.

Beat Inflation

Figures released this week by the U.S. Commerce Dept. show prices rose at an annual rate of 5.8% in April through June, down from a peak of 12.7% last summer. If they invest wisely, people can again save money without losing ground to inflation.

Ken Ward at Cornhusker Bank said savings there have jumped 15 to 20% since the first of the year. Another Lincoln bank reported savings deposits up 10 to 15%, and Dennis Barker, vice president of The Commonwealth Co., said deposits (actually certificates of indebtedness) have increased $9 million, or close to 30%, in the past six months.

A certificate of deposit, or CD, works very much like a savings bond. It matures in a stated period of time — usually three months to four years — and pays a fixed rate of interest. The going rates for one-year CDs ranges from 6% at commercial banks to 6.50% at savings and loans and 6.75% at industrial companies.

Charles Mitchell, deputy director of the State Banking Dept. , explained that banks "have a more competitive edge in attracting deposits" since many people find it convenient to deposit money in their savings accounts and checking accounts at the same time.

Therefore, savings and loans can pay a little higher interest rate to attract customers.

Because industrial companies are not insured, they can pay even higher interest, Mitchell continued.

Watch Date

If a saver does decide to invest in a savings certificate, he does have to watch the maturity dates. If they slip by without the investor knowing it, the penalty can be a loss of interest.

A one-year certificate matures exactly 12 months after it is issued. Some certificates may stop earning interest altogether after they mature and for others, the rate could drop to the going passbook rate.

In other words, your certificate might collect little more than dust, unless you're careful.

Most Lincoln financial institutions, however, offer multiple maturity certificates, which are automatically renewed if the holder doesn't act within a certain time, usually 10 days.

Here again, you must be careful. Automatic renewal can tie up your money at 6%-a-year interest, when the going rate is 6.75% a year.

This can and does happen because most institutions don't send a special notice warning that the certificate is about to be renewed.

It's your job to keep track, spokesmen for financial institutions say.

If you forget your certificate has been renewed and decide to withdraw the money later, financial institutions are required to assess stiff penalties.

You'll either have to leave your money in until the certificate again matures or suffer the consequences.

Lose Interest

According to Mitchell, savers who withdraw their certificates of deposit early loose as much as 90 days interest, plus the interest rate on the money withdrawn drops to the regular passbook rate.

Jones explained that the penalty is "to discourage you from taking your money out early.

"Any financial institution plans the use of its money," Jones said. And if your money is in a one-year certificate, "more than likely we've already committed that money, too."

Long-term investments are a whole new story, according to Dr. Broman.

"For anything of length — and definitely for any investment for five years or more — common stock should make the bulk of an individual's investment," he advised.

In the past 30 years, common stock returned an average of 8 to 9% a year, whereas CDs returned 4 to 5%, Broman said, stressing that those figures are "crude estimates."

"I'm trying to say that the last three years have been atypical," said Broman. "My feeling is that in the long run, common stock investment will return to this higher reward."

Tunesmith Uses Musical Formula

London (UPI) — If you think you've heard that song before, but don't know its title, Denys Parsons will be glad to tell you what it is.

He says he is able to do this because of one of those rare flashes of inspiration that produce an idea so simple the recipient keeps doubting his good luck.

"You tell yourself there must be something wrong with it, some catch you have overlooked," said Parsons, who is press officer of the British library.

The proof that there was nothing wrong with the idea, that it passed every test, has just appeared. It is called "the directory of tunes and musical themes" (Spencer Brown), and it contains 15,000 pop and classical melodies that anyone without an iota of musical knowledge can look up.

Parsons is no stranger to unusual ideas. As a scientist he spent some time investigating the eerie and the baffling for the Society of Psychical Research, meanwhile producing one of the best reference books on London (What's Where in London).

In a nice healthy, rather than supernatural way, his new book takes him back to some of the studies of his psychical research days. Where do dazzling insights come from? What surged up from the subconscious to send Archimides leaping from the bath shouting "Eureka!"

"I was compiling a new directory of musical themes," Parsons recalled, "and I intended to follow an American method of identifying an unknown tune by transposing it into the key of C and writing down the actual notes. It requires a fair degree of musical knowledge.

"After giving the matter some thought, I made the completely unexpected discovery that a single feature — the up-and-down pattern of the melody — was enough to differentiate any number of tunes.

"All the searcher has to do is hum the tune and decide whether the consecutive notes of the melody go up or down. He would start the tune with an asterisk to represent the first note and then write U for up and D for down or R for repeat as the rest of the tune goes. For most melodies nine or 12 notes are sufficient."

Parsons said he tried melody, after melody, always suspecting the formula would crumble, but it worked time after time with 10,000 classical and 5,000 pop tunes from Beethoven to the Beatles.

"Take the Star-Spangled Banner, for example", he said. "It starts with an asterisk, then two notes going down, then four notes going up, three notes down and one up. You write that down like this, assuming you know the tune but not the title:

"Asterisk DDUUU UDDU . . .

"The first note is always represented by an asterisk. Then you simply turn to the directory's "DD" section and find the entry that matches what you've written down. In most cases you not only get the title of the song but the composer and when it was written."

To Sue Or Not To Sue . . .

St. Louis (UPI) — Louis G. Mackris wishes the city would make up its bureaucratic mind on a building he owns.

The building has been condemned, and Mackris has been threatened with prosecution if he doesn't demolish it. But the city's landmarks and urban design commission says the building is in the central west end historic district and shouldn't be demolished.

Mackris, who is 81, doesn't live in the building and doesn't care whether it stands or falls but he doesn't want to be prosecuted. He has filed suit in circuit court to ask for an injunction against being prosecuted until the various city agencies make a collective decision on the building.

Wedding Ring Caused This Tragic Accident

DEAR ABBY: I am the plant manager of a large industrial company employing over 3,000 men, and their safety is my concern.

Enclosed is a letter that, I am told, appeared in your column about 10 years ago.

How much would you charge us to reprint this letter in our company paper? It could prevent accidents and perhaps save lives. Respectfully,

CHICAGOAN

The column:

"DEAR ABBY: I am one of those foolish wives who insisted that my husband wear his wedding ring at all times. My husband is a maintenance mechanic, and this is what happened. Yesterday, I received a call informing me that my husband was at the hospital! While jumping off a construction truck, he caught his ring on a piece of metal, and his finger was practically torn off. I was told he was lucky he wasn't killed since he lost his balance and fell under the wheels of the truck.

"Abby, please print this in your column as a warning to other women who want their husbands to wear their wedding rings to work.

AL'S WIFE

"DEAR WIFE: Thank you for your letter. And while we're on the subject, read this one:

"DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married we had a double-ring ceremony, and he promised he would never take his wedding ring off. And he never did. After a few years he gained a little weight and couldn't get it off. My husband was an electrician.

"Well, to make a long and very tragic story short, his wedding ring wore a tiny hole through his insulated glove and a fatal contact was made. He died instantly. When his lifeless body was examined, the only sign of injury was a small burn where his wedding ring encircled his finger.

ELECTRICIAN'S WIDOW

"So . . . dear wife, if your husband works around machines or electricity, tell him to leave ALL rings at home — if you really love him, that is.

"Rings and other types of jewelry for women and men working with machinery and electricity are a major problem in industry. Sentiment is a poor excuse for wearing a ring when it can cause the loss of a finger, hand, arm or even a life."

DEAR CHICAGOAN: Be my guest. No charge. (P.S. And the same goes for any other company that would fine it useful.)

DEAR ABBY: When a man and his wife have both broken the marriage vows through adultery and want to start over again and keep their marriage vows sacred, do they have to get married again?

Wouldn't they be living in an adulterous relationship if they lived together as man and wife after having broken their marriage vows?

When a vow is broken, what can be done to make it right again?

BROKEN VOWS

DEAR BROKEN: Though adultery has been committed, the marriage is still considered legal and valid in the eyes of God and man. However, if a couple wants to start fresh, I think renewing their marriage vows is an excellent idea.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Opening lead — ten of diamonds.

It is not difficult to defeat four spades if you see all 52 cards. West leads his singleton diamond and East returns a diamond after taking the ace. West ruffs, returns a heart to East's ace, and ruffs another diamond to put the contract down one.

But this is the proper method of defense even if East-West do not see each other's hands. True, they have several hurdles along the way, but they are not really hard to negotiate.

First comes the question of West's opening lead. With such a poor hand facing a partner who passed as dealer, West should reason that there is no possibility of stopping four spades on high-card strength alone, and that the only real chance lies in obtaining diamond ruffs. Accordingly, he should lead a diamond.

Second, when East wins the ace, he should not be tempted to play the ace of hearts before returning a diamond. If he falls into this error, South makes the contract.

Also, in returning a diamond at trick two, East must not lead any old diamond — he should lead his highest diamond, the nine. In selecting this card, East applies the suit-direction convention to guide West to a heart play next rather than a club.

The high-diamond return directs West to lead the higher-ranking suit, as between hearts and clubs. If East held the ace of clubs instead of the ace of hearts, he would return the deuce of diamonds to direct the low-suit return of a club.

When West ruffs the diamond at trick two, he therefore returns a heart.

Clear thinking and close cooperation enable East-West to find the right defense as if guided by radar. They don't have to see all 52 cards.

"Asterisk DDUUU UDDU . . .

"The first note is always represented by an asterisk. Then you simply turn to the directory's "DD" section and find the entry that matches what you've written down. In most cases you not only get the title of the song but the composer and when it was written."

St. Louis (UPI) — Louis G. Mackris wishes the city would make up its bureaucratic mind on a building he owns.

The building has been condemned, and Mackris has been threatened with prosecution if he doesn't demolish it. But the city's landmarks and urban design commission says the building is in the central west end historic district and shouldn't be demolished.

Mackris, who is 81, doesn't live in the building and doesn't care whether it stands or falls but he doesn't want to be prosecuted. He has filed suit in circuit court to ask for an injunction against being prosecuted until the various city agencies make a collective decision on the building.

Wedding Ring Caused This Tragic Accident

DEAR ABBY: I am the plant manager of a large industrial company employing over 3,000 men, and their safety is my concern.

Enclosed is a letter that, I am told, appeared in your column about 10 years ago.

How much would you charge us to reprint this letter in our company paper? It could prevent accidents and perhaps save lives. Respectfully,

CHICAGOAN

The column:

"DEAR ABBY: I am one of those foolish wives who insisted that my husband wear his wedding ring at all times. My husband is a maintenance mechanic, and this is what happened. Yesterday, I received a call informing me that my husband was at the hospital! While jumping off a construction truck, he caught his ring on a piece of metal, and his finger was practically torn off. I was told he was lucky he wasn't killed since he lost his balance and fell under the wheels of the truck.

"Abby, please print this in your column as a warning to other women who want their husbands to wear their wedding rings to work.

AL'S WIFE

"DEAR WIFE: Thank you for your letter. And while we're on the subject, read this one:

"DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married we had a double-ring ceremony, and he promised he would never take his wedding ring off. And he never did. After a few years he gained a little weight and couldn't get it off. My husband was an electrician.

"Well, to make a long and very tragic story short, his wedding ring wore a tiny hole through his insulated glove and a fatal contact was made. He died instantly. When his lifeless body was examined, the only sign of injury was a small burn where his wedding ring encircled his finger.

ELECTRICIAN'S WIDOW

"So . . . dear wife, if your husband works around machines or electricity, tell him to leave ALL rings at home — if you really love him, that is.

"Rings and other types of jewelry for women and men working with machinery and electricity are a major problem in industry. Sentiment is a poor excuse for wearing a ring when it can cause the loss of a finger, hand, arm or even a life."

DEAR CHICAGOAN: Be my guest. No charge. (P.S. And the same goes for any other company that would fine it useful.)

DEAR ABBY: When a man and his wife have both broken the marriage vows through adultery and want to start over again and keep their marriage vows sacred, do they have to get married again?

Wouldn't they be living in an adulterous relationship if they lived together as man and wife after having broken their marriage vows?

When a vow is broken, what can be done to make it right again?

BROKEN VOWS

DEAR BROKEN: Though adultery has been committed, the marriage is still considered legal and valid in the eyes of God and man. However, if a couple wants to start fresh, I think renewing their marriage vows is an excellent idea.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Opening lead — ten of diamonds.

It is not difficult to defeat four spades if you see all 52 cards. West leads his singleton diamond and East returns a diamond after taking the ace. West ruffs, returns a heart to East's ace, and ruffs another diamond to put the contract down one.

But this is the proper method of defense even if East-West do not see each other's hands. True, they have several hurdles along the way, but they are not really hard to negotiate.

First comes the question of West's opening lead. With such a poor hand facing a partner who passed as dealer, West should reason that there is no possibility of stopping four spades on high-card strength alone, and that the only real chance lies in obtaining diamond ruffs. Accordingly, he should lead a diamond.

Second, when East wins the ace, he should not be tempted to play the ace of hearts before returning a diamond. If he falls into this error, South makes the contract.

Also, in returning a diamond at trick two, East must not lead any old diamond — he should lead his highest diamond, the nine. In selecting this card, East applies the suit-direction convention to guide West to a heart play next rather than a club.

The high-diamond return directs West to lead the higher-ranking suit, as between hearts and clubs. If East held the ace of clubs instead of the ace of hearts, he would return the deuce of diamonds to direct the low-suit return of a club.

When West ruffs the diamond at trick two, he therefore returns a heart.

Clear thinking and close cooperation enable East-West to find the right defense as if guided by radar. They don't have to see all 52 cards.

Extension Of Voting Rights Act OKd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved on Friday a 10-year extension of the Voting Rights Act, generally considered the nation's most effective weapon against racial discrimination.

But Southern conservatives vowed an extended fight when the bill comes to the floor of the Senate later this month. A similar extension has been approved by the House.

The Judiciary Committee, voting in a rare open session, recommended approval of the bill by a 10-4 margin. The vote followed several unsuccessful attempts by Republican Sens. William L. Scott of Virginia and Strom Thurmond of South Carolina to water down the law.

"This is just a damned nuisance," Scott said of one section of the law which requires the affected states and their cities and counties to get approval from the Justice Department before changing election laws.

"It is a punitive measure against the (affected) states, most of which were part of the Confederacy," Scott added. "The (Civil) War has been over a long time and I'm glad the North won because it made us one nation."

A William Scott-Thurmond effort to eliminate the section requiring Washington's approval for election-law changes failed on a 5-2 vote with Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., abstaining.

The law, passed in 1965 at the height of the civil-rights movement, and due to expire on Aug. 5, applies to Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Virginia, most of North Carolina and some cities and counties in various other states.

The extension approved by the committee applies the Voting Rights Act for the first time for minorities that do not speak English, including Spanish-Americans, Indians, native Alaskans and Asian-Americans.

The law bars the use of literacy tests to determine voter eligibility and allows federal examiners to register voters in the affected states.

The law is aimed specifically at preventing the denial of voting rights on grounds of race. Since its enactment, hundreds of thousands of blacks have been registered for the first time and black officials have been elected in every state.

A significant part of the bill approved by the Judiciary Committee would require states, cities and counties to print ballots and other election materials in two languages in areas where there are large number of non-English-speaking voters.

Voting for the extension of the law were Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.; James Abourezk, D-S.D.; Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; John V. Tunney, D-Calif.; Quentin Burdick, D-N.D.; Hugh Scott, R-Pa.; Charles Mathias, R-Md.; Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, and Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.

Opposing the measure were William Scott, Thurmond, and Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark. and Roman Hruska, R-Neb.

Little Attorneys Ask Charges Dismissed

Raleigh, N.C. (UPI) — Defense attorneys requested Friday that murder charges against Joan Little, a 21-year-old black woman, be dismissed on grounds lie detector tests had borne out her story that she killed a white jailer while fighting off a rape attempt.

Her attorneys said in a motion filed with Superior Court Judge Hamilton Hobgood that she was given lie detector tests within the past 30 days by two polygraph specialists.

"The results of aid tests prove that Joan Little was truthnul about her account of events on the night of Aug. 27, 1974," the defense attorneys said in an affidavit attached to the motion.

The defense also contended that District Atty. William C. Griffin had agreed during a pretrial hearing last April to dismiss the first-degree murder indictment if three polygraph tests showed she was telling the truth.

The attorneys said the defense was to arrange for two of the tests, which it had done, and that Griffin was to have arranged for the state to administer the third test, but had not done so.

Judge Hobgood gave Griffin until Monday to respond to the motion.

Miss Little, a 21-year-old former construction worker, has admitted stabbing jailer Clarence Alligood 11 times with an icepick at the Beaufort County Jail in Washington, N.C., last August, but has maintained that she killed him to fend off a rape attempt.

Alligood's body was found in her cell nude from the waist down, except for socks.

The defense said the lie detector tests showed Miss Little did not plan to kill Alligood, a white-haired, 62-year-old father of six.

"She did not bring a weapon, particularly an ice pick, into her cell at any time, and Clarence Alligood was killed in self defense as he was forcing the defendant through threats with an icepick to have sex with him," said the motion.

Life Begins At Forty

Grandparent Project Benefits Old People

By JOANNE FARRIS

Summer still has many more warm days and mild nights to offer us. Still, it is not too soon to begin to formulate plans for the fall. For those of you who wish to reach out into your communities to be of service there are many options.

One of my personal favorites is the Foster Grandparent program. Sponsored by the federal ACTION agency, the program varies depending on where you live. In every case however, it involves a one to one relationship between a foster grandparent and a child.

One program I know of takes the foster grandparent into the school system. A grandparent spends 20 hours a week at school, giving four children an hour a day each of his or her undivided attention.

Sometimes this means just talking to the youngster. Other times it involves instructional assistance such as encouraging a slow reader.

But always there is an exchange of warmth between the older person and the young one. And both of them benefit from the closeness they share for that one hour each day.

The Foster Grandparent program in Broward County, Fla., for example, is eight years old. Present participants include 16 men and 124 women who range in age from 60 to 82, with the average age 74.

Each of the foster grandparents must fall within federally established income guidelines which entitle them to work in this program for the pay of $1.60 an hour, as established by Congress.

Costs of getting to and from the job are provided, and each day the grandparent eats a hot midday meal with one of his or her children.

Two weeks vacation with pay is provided at Christmastime. Certain paid holidays are recognized and each person working in the program is allowed up to 12 sick days per year.

The Broward County program, which operated in the schools at first and then moved into non-school settings such as migrant centers, trainable centers for children with IQs of 50 or less, and nursery schools, has now phased out of these areas into a hospital centered program.

Each foster grandparent works two hours a day with one child and then two more hours each day with another child. All the work is done in hospitals, day-care centers, a pediatric center, and a center for handicapped children.

The work involved is playing with the children, reading to them or listening to them, simply being a responsive foster grandparent who shares with the child a full portion of tender loving care.

There are 60 Foster Grandparent programs in Florida alone, which gives you a good idea of how widespread the need is. For any reader who feels qualified to work in a Foster Grandparent setting I suggest that you contact ACTION in your community or local county seat, or call United Way and ask them for information about the availability of the program in your area.

If no one that you call can help you, write to Mary C. Crum, P.O. Box 2606, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 33315, in care of Foster Grandparents of Broward County, Inc., and she will tell you where to turn for guidance.

He is a mighty small man—almost too small to leave his footprints in the sand. But he is starting out on his own. He is exploring, seeking, learning. Where will his footsteps ultimately lead him?

There are so many courses a child may take—so many that a person of any age can follow. But it is never too late to change direction, even if it seems as if a dead end has been reached. The beauty of life is that the word itself is synonomous with hope.

If the direction your footsteps have been taking you is disappointing, then turn toward the Church. Remember, the Church has survived for centuries against odds that would have annihilated a lesser force. That in itself is reason enough to give it a chance—to see what it has to offer.

The Foster Grandparent program in Broward County, Fla., for example, is eight years old. Present participants include 16 men and 124 women who range in age from 60 to 82, with the average age 74.

Each of the foster grandparents must fall within federally established income guidelines which entitle them to work in this program for the pay of $1.60 an hour, as established by Congress.

Costs of getting to and from the job are provided, and each day the grandparent eats a hot midday meal with one of his or her children.

Two weeks vacation with pay is provided at Christmastime. Certain paid holidays are recognized and each person working in the program is allowed up to 12 sick days per year.

The Broward County program, which operated in the schools at first and then moved into non-school settings such as migrant centers, trainable centers for children with IQs of 50 or less, and nursery schools, has now phased out of these areas into a hospital centered program.

Each foster grandparent works two hours a day with one child and then two more hours each day with another child. All the work is done in hospitals, day-care centers, a pediatric center, and a center for handicapped children.

The work involved is playing with the children, reading to them or listening to them, simply being a responsive foster grandparent who shares with the child a full portion of tender loving care.

There are 60 Foster Grandparent programs in Florida alone, which gives you a good idea of how widespread the need is. For any reader who feels qualified to work in a Foster Grandparent setting I suggest that you contact ACTION in your community or local county seat, or call United Way and ask them for information about the availability of the program in your area.

If no one that you call can help you, write to Mary C. Crum, P.O. Box 2606, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 33315, in care of Foster Grandparents of Broward County, Inc., and she will tell you where to turn for guidance.

Meet Carrier Steve Slagel

Steve Slagel of Lincoln is one of those lucky businessmen who receive no complaints — just compliments.

Steve Slagel

Service Is Excellent

A carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star, Steve's route has increased considerably since he assumed its management three months ago. And his excellent service and punctual habits have earned him high praise from customers and supervisor alike.

Steve is currently saving most of his route profits for an anticipated trip to Mexico.

A student at Lincoln Northeast High School, Steve carries a good grade average and is a member of the school's tennis team. His future educational plans include medical school and becoming a doctor.

Steve attends Faith Methodist Church where he is active in the Youth Fellowship program.

His favorite spare time activities include camping, reading and collecting Hardy Boys books.

Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Slagel.

He is a mighty small man—almost too small to leave his footprints in the sand. But he is starting out on his own. He is exploring, seeking, learning. Where will his footsteps ultimately lead him?

There are so many courses a child may take—so many that a person of any age can follow. But it is never too late to change direction, even if it seems as if a dead end has been reached. The beauty of life is that the word itself is synonomous with hope.

If the direction your footsteps have been taking you is disappointing, then turn toward the Church. Remember, the Church has survived for centuries against odds that would have annihilated a lesser force. That in itself is reason enough to give it a chance—to see what it has to offer.

Grain-Fed Cattle Supplies Lagging Behind Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supplies of grain-fattened cattle are still lagging behind depressed inventories of a year ago, but there are signs that consumers may see some increase in feedlot beef within a few months, according to the Agriculture Department.

As of July 1, the department said Friday, the feedlot inventory of cattle in 23 major beef states was 8,542,000 head, down 15% from the same date last year. It was the smallest July 1 inventory since 1967, officials said.

But the report also showed that the number of cattle placed in feedlots for fattening during the April-June quarter was up 17% from the second quarter of last year. Most of those animals will be slaughtered for beef later this summer and in the fall.

Even so, the report said that sales of cattle from the 23 states' feedlots during July-September will total 5,231,000 head, 5 per cent fewer than in the third quarter of 1974.

One indication that the grainfed beef supply may pick up later in the fall were figures in the report showing that in seven key states feedlots had 6,006,000 cattle in fattening pens on July 1.

Although those were down 16% from July 1 last year, the seven-state inventory was up 3% from June 1 of this year.

Market prices of choice-grade cattle rose to around $54 per 100 pounds at Midwest points in June, the most in nearly two years. Those prices have been dropping since mid-June but stil are substantially above a year ago.

Department experts say that if 1975 grain crops turn out as large as now expected, the big harvest of corn and other grains will mean cheaper feed and help stimulate feedlot operations again.

Meanwhile, another USDA report Friday showed that the recent decline in live cattle prices has not yet caught up with consumers. A weekly review of meat prices showed that retail beef prices in early July continued to rise to an estimated record average of more than $1.63 per pound on all-cut basis.

For the entire month of June retail beef prces averaged a record of almost $1.58 per pound, up from less than $1.49 in May and about $1.32 a pound in June 1974.

State Cattle On Feed Down 15% From 1974

Nebraska cattle feeders had 950,000 head of cattle on feed July 1, down 15% from last year and 2% below last month, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Cattle on feed weighing 900 pounds or more on July 1 totaled 351,000, a decrease of 22% from a year earlier, the report said. Those in the 700-899 pound group numbered 379,000, a decrease of 25%. However, those in the under-700-pound category at 220,000 were up 34% from a year earlier, the bureau stated.

Feeders intend to market 650,000 head during the July-September quarter, 10% fewer than the number marketed in this same period last year, the report said.

Nebraska feeders marketed 705,000 fed cattle during the April-June quarter, down 25% from last year, while placements during the period, at 720,000, were down 3%, according to the bureau's report.

GECC Undecided On Size Of ABP Help, Source Says

Omaha (UPI) — General Electric Credit Corp., the largest secured creditor in the bankrupcty proceedings of American Beef Packers Inc is yet undecided on how much money it plans to pump back into the meatpacker's operation, it was learned Friday.

A source at GECC who is involved in the negotiations towards developing a plan to repay some $30 million in bad ABP debts said, however, the firm was "still standing by our offer to stay with the company."

"There are still a lot of details to be worked out that have to go with that," the source said. "There are different alternatives and what they mean to American Beef."

Wednesday, American Beef's chief attorney, Douglas Reno of Omaha, told Bankruptcy Judge David Crawford negotiations were "very close" towards developing a repayment plan for creditors.

However, the GECC source said, "I wouldn't say that."

"Everybody's trying to work towards a plan, but it's much too early to speculate on its status," the source said. "Everybody's asked for more information all around."

When asked how much money the Stamford, Conn., lender plans to plow back into ABP, the source said, "I would prefer not to talk about that."

A source for the creditors committee, the third group involved in the repayment plan negotiations, said he was "extremely disappointed in GECC's statements."

"I would intend to agree with Mr. Reno," the creditors' source said. "I think we're very close to achievement of a plan."

Another meeting is scheduled between the three sides next week.

The plan was due to be submitted to the Omaha Bankruptcy Court next Wednesday, but Reno has said he will ask for a continuance.

In addition, negotiations are continuing with attorneys for ABP Board Chairman and President Frank R. West to determine his future status in the company.

West has resigned pending the fulfillment of six conditions, including a satisfactory repayment plan and his remaining with the meatpacker in an advisory capacity.

Kaneb Gas Must Refund Money—Court

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. is going to have to refund thousands of dollars to its customers in western Kansas as a result of a Kansas Supreme Court decision handed down Thursday.

Among a half-dozen major decisions, the court overturned a Finney County District Court ruling granting Kansas-Nebraska an additional $100,000 interim rate hike in September 1973. The Kansas Corporation Commission previously had denied the interim request while it had a rate increase application pending.

The high court said the KCC's power to grant or deny such a request is absolute unless it can be shown the commission's decision is not lawful or reasonable.

The unanimous decision reversed a ruling last Aug. 9 and came in a case in which Kansas-Nebraska challenged the KCC's May 1974 ruling that the interim rate increase wasn't justified.

Man Wanted For Escape Misidentified

Wahoo (UPI) — The Saunders County sheriff's office said one of three persons wanted for escape from the county jail here was misidentified by New Mexico authorities following arrest of the three near Orogrande, N.M., Monday.

Those who escaped the night of July 11 were Melvin Tweedy, Carl D. Hegwood and a juvenile whose name was not released. Tweedy was identified as another person (Charlie Barber) in accounts of the arrest.

The three were taken into custody after they allegedly filled their car with gasoline at a service station and left without paying.

New Mexico officials said a later check showed they were wanted for jail escape at Wahoo and that their car had been stolen at Fremont.

Tractor Mishap Kills Henry Hild

Murray (UPI) — A Plattsmough man, cutting grass on the shoulder of a Cass County road, was killed Friday in a tractor accident four miles southwest of Murray.

Authorities said Henry Hild, 67, was pinned beneath the tractor when it slid down the incline and rolled over.

Prime Rate Rise Hurts Stock Mart

NEW YRK (AP) — A further rise in the bank prime lending rate put another dent in stock prices Friday, although cautious buying late in the session repaired some of the early damage.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down about 6 a its midday low, wound up with a 1.87 loss at 862.41.

That left the closely followed indicator with a net 8.68 decline for the week, off 19.40 points from the 15-month closing high it reached Tuesday.

Losers outnumbered gainers 79 to 648 among the 1,82 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume slowed to its lightest total of the week at 16.87 million shares, compared with 21.42 million Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index was off .17 at 50.07, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dipped .43 to 93.20.

The tone for the session was set at the opening, when New York's First National City Bank announced a quarter point increase in the prime rate for the third straight week, raising the basic charge on business loans at the nation's second largest bank to 7½ per cent.

A number of other big banks meanwhile were boosting their primes from 7 to 7¼ per cent—among them California's Bank of America, the country's largest.

Brokers said recent increases in borrowing costs appeared to have raised fears of a return to high inflation and interest rates accompanying the expected economic recovery.

Market-watchers found little news behind the tentative upturn in prices near the close, ascribing it primarily to bargain hunting after nearly three full days of declines.

Citicorp, First National City's parent holding company, was the day's most active issue, up ⅜ at 36 on turnover of 257,200 shares.

Unitrode was also active, falling 2⅞ to 6¼. On Thursday the company and United Technologies announced they were dropping plans to merge. United Technologies dipped ¼ to 57⅜.

Polaroid bucked the market trend, rising 1½ to 40½ in seventh place on the active list. The company reported sharply higher second quarter profits on Thursday.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .03 a 95.67.

The NASDAQ composite index for the ocer-the-counter market closed at 87.02, d n .11.

Grain Futures Hit By Selling

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures came under strong selling pressure on the Chicago Board of Trade again Friday and lost from 6 to 17 cents a bushel.

July corn and July oats, both of which expire Tuesday, fell to limits as recent longs took profits in the belief prices may still go lower before the contracts go off the board. The corn limit is 10 cents and oats 6 cents a bushel.

Soybeans lost 17 cents, wheat more than 12, soybean meal about $7 a ton and soybean oil around 75 points.

Domestic gold futures were steady to about 50 cents an ounce higher in very dull trade.

Hog Mart Trading Weakens

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Hogs slumped on the Omaha livestock market Friday after early-week advances, but the downturn was not unexpected after Thursday's topsy-turvy pork trade.

The hog run totaled about 3,000 head, with barrows and gilts seeing moderately active trade. However, the trend was $1.00-to-$2.00 lower than Thursday's uneven trade, or 75-cents to mostly $1.00 off Thursday's close on top-graded 210-to-250 pound offerings.

Sows trended $1.00-to-$2.50 lower on bulk tickets marked from $49.00-$51.50.

The cattle trade was dull, as about 1,300 of the estimated 1,500 animals on hand were feeders for Friday's auction.

The slaughter trade on cows was limited and called weak, but there were hardly enough sales to fully establish a trend. A few utility and commercial cows cleared from $18.50-$20.50, while canners and cutters brought $14.50-$18.50.

Sheep were nominal.

Looking briefly at the overall, weekly trends:

Barrows and gilts, despite Friday's losses, ended steady to 25-cents higher, while sows were largely $1.00, and instances $1.25-to-$2.00 higher.

Better-fed choice and prime steers trended $1.50-to-$2.00 higher, while other steer classes were mostly 50-cents to $1.00 higher. Some standard and low-good Holsteins were steady. Heifers were mostly $1.00 higher, and cows trended $2.00-to-$3.00 lower.

Spring slaughter lambs traded firm to 75-cents higher, and slaughter ewes were $1.00 higher.

Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)(USDA)—Livestock quotations Friday:

Hogs: 3,000; barrows and gilts moderately active, 1.00-2.00 lower than Thursday's uneven trade, or 75 to mostly 1.00 off Thursday's close on offerings from 210-250 lb; U.S. 1-3, 210-250 lb 57.00-57.50; 25 head U.S. 1-2, 225 lb 57.65; sows 1.002.50 lower; 330-600 lb 49.00-51.50.

Cattle and calves: 1,500; supply primarily feeder cattle for auction; limited trade on cows weak, but hardly enough sales to fully establish a trend; few utility and commercial cows 18.50-20.50; canner and cutter 14.50-18.50.

Sheep: none.

Estimated receipts Monday:

Cattle and calves 6,500; hogs 4,500; sheep 500.

Sioux City

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP) (USDA) - Hogs 3,500; butchers steady to 50 lower than Thursday close, 50-1.00 lower than opening trade; U.S. 1-3 200-250 lbs 57.50-58.00; sows 50-1.00 lower, U.S. 1-3 350-450 lbs 50.5051.25.

Basement Fire Damages Home

Fire did considerable damage to the basement of the Steward Rhoades home at 1010 Carlos Dr. Friday morning, fire officials said.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in a basement storage cabinet, then spread through the basement, doing considerable damage there and smoke damage to other parts of the house.

The fire had burned itself out, apparently due to lack of oxygen, when firemen arrived. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Grain-Fed Cattle Supplies Lagging Behind Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supplies of grain-fattened cattle are still lagging behind depressed inventories of a year ago, but there are signs that consumers may see some increase in feedlot beef within a few months, according to the Agriculture Department.

As of July 1, the department said Friday, the feedlot inventory of cattle in 23 major beef states was 8,542,000 head, down 15% from the same date last year. It was the smallest July 1 inventory since 1967, officials said.

But the report also showed that the number of cattle placed in feedlots for fattening during the April-June quarter was up 17% from the second quarter of last year. Most of those animals will be slaughtered for beef later this summer and in the fall.

Even so, the report said that sales of cattle from the 23 states' feedlots during July-September will total 5,231,000 head, 5 per cent fewer than in the third quarter of 1974.

One indication that the grainfed beef supply may pick up later in the fall were figures in the report showing that in seven key states feedlots had 6,006,000 cattle in fattening pens on July 1.

Although those were down 16% from July 1 last year, the seven-state inventory was up 3% from June 1 of this year.

Market prices of choice-grade cattle rose to around $54 per 100 pounds at Midwest points in June, the most in nearly two years. Those prices have been dropping since mid-June but stil are substantially above a year ago.

Department experts say that if 1975 grain crops turn out as large as now expected, the big harvest of corn and other grains will mean cheaper feed and help stimulate feedlot operations again.

Meanwhile, another USDA report Friday showed that the recent decline in live cattle prices has not yet caught up with consumers. A weekly review of meat prices showed that retail beef prices in early July continued to rise to an estimated record average of more than $1.63 per pound on all-cut basis.

For the entire month of June retail beef prces averaged a record of almost $1.58 per pound, up from less than $1.49 in May and about $1.32 a pound in June 1974.

State Cattle On Feed Down 15% From 1974

Nebraska cattle feeders had 950,000 head of cattle on feed July 1, down 15% from last year and 2% below last month, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Cattle on feed weighing 900 pounds or more on July 1 totaled 351,000, a decrease of 22% from a year earlier, the report said. Those in the 700-899 pound group numbered 379,000, a decrease of 25%. However, those in the under-700-pound category at 220,000 were up 34% from a year earlier, the bureau stated.

Feeders intend to market 650,000 head during the July-September quarter, 10% fewer than the number marketed in this same period last year, the report said.

Nebraska feeders marketed 705,000 fed cattle during the April-June quarter, down 25% from last year, while placements during the period, at 720,000, were down 3%, according to the bureau's report.

GECC Undecided On Size Of ABP Help, Source Says

Omaha (UPI) — General Electric Credit Corp., the largest secured creditor in the bankruptcy proceedings of American Beef Packers Inc is yet undecided on how much money it plans to pump back into the meatpacker's operation, it was learned Friday.

A source at GECC who is involved in the negotiations towards developing a plan to repay some $30 million in bad ABP debts said, however, the firm was "still standing by our offer to stay with the company."

"There are still a lot of details to be worked out that have to go with that," the source said. "There are different alternatives and what they mean to American Beef."

Wednesday, American Beef's chief attorney, Douglas Reno of Omaha, told Bankruptcy Judge David Crawford negotiations were "very close" towards developing a repayment plan for creditors.

However, the GECC source said, "I wouldn't say that."

"Everybody's trying to work towards a plan, but it's much too early to speculate on its status," the source said. "Everybody's asked for more information all around."

When asked how much money the Stamford, Conn., lender plans to plow back into ABP, the source said, "I would prefer not to talk about that."

A source for the creditors committee, the third group involved in the repayment plan negotiations, said he was "extremely disappointed in GECC's statements."

"I would intend to agree with Mr. Reno," the creditors' source said. "I think we're very close to achievement of a plan."

Another meeting is scheduled between the three sides next week.

The plan was due to be submitted to the Omaha Bankruptcy Court next Wednesday, but Reno has said he will ask for a continuance.

In addition, negotiations are continuing with attorneys for ABP Board Chairman and President Frank R. West to determine his future status in the company.

West has resigned pending the fulfillment of six conditions, including a satisfactory repayment plan and his remaining with the meatpacker in an advisory capacity.

Kaneb Gas Must Refund Money—Court

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. is going to have to refund thousands of dollars to its customers in western Kansas as a result of a Kansas Supreme Court decision handed down Thursday.

Among a half-dozen major decisions, the court overturned a Finney County District Court ruling granting Kansas-Nebraska an additional $100,000 interim rate hike in September 1973. The Kansas Corporation Commission previously had denied the interim request while it had a rate increase application pending.

The high court said the KCC's power to grant or deny such a request is absolute unless it can be shown the commission's decision is not lawful or reasonable.

The unanimous decision reversed a ruling last Aug. 9 and came in a case in which Kansas-Nebraska challenged the KCC's May 1974 ruling that the interim rate increase wasn't justified.

Man Wanted For Escape Misidentified

Wahoo (UPI) — The Saunders County sheriff's office said one of three persons wanted for escape from the county jail here was misidentified by New Mexico authorities following arrest of the three near Orogrande, N.M., Monday.

Those who escaped the night of July 11 were Melvin Tweedy, Carl D. Hegwood and a juvenile whose name was not released. Tweedy was identified as another person (Charlie Barber) in accounts of the arrest.

The three were taken into custody after they allegedly filled their car with gasoline at a service station and left without paying.

New Mexico officials said a later check showed they were wanted for jail escape at Wahoo and that their car had been stolen at Fremont.

Tractor Mishap Kills Henry Hild

Murray (UPI) — A Plattsmough man, cutting grass on the shoulder of a Cass County road, was killed Friday in a tractor accident four miles southwest of Murray.

Authorities said Henry Hild, 67, was pinned beneath the tractor when it slid down the incline and rolled over.

Prime Rate Rise Hurts Stock Mart

NEW YRK (AP) — A further rise in the bank prime lending rate put another dent in stock prices Friday, although cautious buying late in the session repaired some of the early damage.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down about 6 a its midday low, wound up with a 1.87 loss at 862.41.

That left the closely followed indicator with a net 8.68 decline for the week, off 19.40 points from the 15-month closing high it reached Tuesday.

Losers outnumbered gainers 79 to 648 among the 1,82 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume slowed to its lightest total of the week at 16.87 million shares, compared with 21.42 million Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index was off .17 at 50.07, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dipped .43 to 93.20.

The tone for the session was set at the opening, when New York's First National City Bank announced a quarter point increase in the prime rate for the third straight week, raising the basic charge on business loans at the nation's second largest bank to 7½ per cent.

A number of other big banks meanwhile were boosting their primes from 7 to 7¼ per cent—among them California's Bank of America, the country's largest.

Brokers said recent increases in borrowing costs appeared to have raised fears of a return to high inflation and interest rates accompanying the expected economic recovery.

Market-watchers found little news behind the tentative upturn in prices near the close, ascribing it primarily to bargain hunting after nearly three full days of declines.

Citicorp, First National City's parent holding company, was the day's most active issue, up ⅜ at 36 on turnover of 257,200 shares.

Unitrode was also active, falling 2⅞ to 6¼. On Thursday the company and United Technologies announced they were dropping plans to merge. United Technologies dipped ¼ to 57⅜.

Polaroid bucked the market trend, rising 1½ to 40½ in seventh place on the active list. The company reported sharply higher second quarter profits on Thursday.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .03 a 95.67.

The NASDAQ composite index for the ocer-the-counter market closed at 87.02, d n .11.

Grain Futures Hit By Selling

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures came under strong selling pressure on the Chicago Board of Trade again Friday and lost from 6 to 17 cents a bushel.

July corn and July oats, both of which expire Tuesday, fell to limits as recent longs took profits in the belief prices may still go lower before the contracts go off the board. The corn limit is 10 cents and oats 6 cents a bushel.

Soybeans lost 17 cents, wheat more than 12, soybean meal about $7 a ton and soybean oil around 75 points.

Domestic gold futures were steady to about 50 cents an ounce higher in very dull trade.

Hog Mart Trading Weakens

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Hogs slumped on the Omaha livestock market Friday after early-week advances, but the downturn was not unexpected after Thursday's topsy-turvy pork trade.

The hog run totaled about 3,000 head, with barrows and gilts seeing moderately active trade. However, the trend was $1.00-to-$2.00 lower than Thursday's uneven trade, or 75-cents to mostly $1.00 off Thursday's close on top-graded 210-to-250 pound offerings.

Sows trended $1.00-to-$2.50 lower on bulk tickets marked from $49.00-$51.50.

The cattle trade was dull, as about 1,300 of the estimated 1,500 animals on hand were feeders for Friday's auction.

The slaughter trade on cows was limited and called weak, but there were hardly enough sales to fully establish a trend. A few utility and commercial cows cleared from $18.50-$20.50, while canners and cutters brought $14.50-$18.50.

Sheep were nominal.

Looking briefly at the overall, weekly trends:

Barrows and gilts, despite Friday's losses, ended steady to 25-cents higher, while sows were largely $1.00, and instances $1.25-to-$2.00 higher.

Better-fed choice and prime steers trended $1.50-to-$2.00 higher, while other steer classes were mostly 50-cents to $1.00 higher. Some standard and low-good Holsteins were steady. Heifers were mostly $1.00 higher, and cows trended $2.00-to-$3.00 lower.

Spring slaughter lambs traded firm to 75-cents higher, and slaughter ewes were $1.00 higher.

Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)(USDA)—Livestock quotations Friday:

Hogs: 3,000; barrows and gilts moderately active, 1.00-2.00 lower than Thursday's uneven trade, or 75 to mostly 1.00 off Thursday's close on offerings from 210-250 lb; U.S. 1-3, 210-250 lb 57.00-57.50; 25 head U.S. 1-2, 225 lb 57.65; sows 1.002.50 lower; 330-600 lb 49.00-51.50.

Cattle and calves: 1,500; supply primarily feeder cattle for auction; limited trade on cows weak, but hardly enough sales to fully establish a trend; few utility and commercial cows 18.50-20.50; canner and cutter 14.50-18.50.

Sheep: none.

Estimated receipts Monday:

Cattle and calves 6,500; hogs 4,500; sheep 500.

Sioux City

Basement Fire Damages Home

Fire did considerable damage to the basement of the Steward Rhoades home at 1010 Carlos Dr. Friday morning, fire officials said.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in a basement storage cabinet, then spread through the basement, doing considerable damage there and smoke damage to other parts of the house.

The fire had burned itself out, apparently due to lack of oxygen, when firemen arrived. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Camping Old Hat To This Scout

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Humboldt — Like scores of his young scout friends, Noel Bissell is a first-timer at the Cornhusker Council Scout Reservation.

But camping itself is hardly a new experience for the 60-year-old professional scouter. All told, he has been in "the business" for 39 years and has pitched his tent in perhaps three dozen camps in several states.

Yet the Lincoln-based district executive for eight counties since last October is as exuberant as a Cub Scout over his assignment as archery instructor. For a change he didn't draw the job of camp director and he's getting a chance to mix with his favorite raw material — youth.

'Teaching Fun'

"For 19 summers I ran camps similar to this, but unfortunately, a professional scouter spends a lot more time in administration than with the boys," said Bissell, a former Marine. "It's kind of fun trying to teach the kids — they're full of questions these days — when I'm not chasing their lost arrows through the weeds."

According to camp director John Fullmer of Lincoln and Leo Prokop, a Swanton native who is now resident manager of the 880-acre reservation, Bissell also serves as unofficial adviser. Some 500 boys from scores of southeast Nebraska troops are getting a week s outing during the June 14-July 19 encampment.

Impressed as he is with "one of the most beautiful camps I've seen anywhere," Bissell has similar appreciation for the boys registered. He doesn't subscribe to the opinion of many that modern youth doesn't measure up to the scouts of the past.

Youth Unchanged

"Today's kid is smarter, and for his age he's bigger than his dad was," said Bissell, "but I honestly don't think he's much different otherwise. And I'm convinced he really wants discipline . . . if he's not getting it elsewhere, he finds it in scouting."

Bissell also believes the "scouting basics" are unchanted since the program began in 1910. Despite some modernization (merit badges are offered now even in computers and atomic energy), "we're still trying to build the same things in boys that they were 65 years ago."

Moving to the Cornhusker Council position after spending 21-months recuperating from an auto accident near McCook, Bissell is hardly a stranger to Nebraska. His hop-scotching career included stints in the Alliance, Omaha and North Platte areas.

He also has served either as a field director or district executive at three locations in Kansas and three in Iowa. Prior to his 28 years in professional scouting, he sepnt 11 as a volunteer scoutmaster and assistant.

With three grown daughters but no sons, he and his wife are now raising a cerebal palsy-victim, 10-year-old Leon, in their Lincoln home.

Staff Professional

This summer's camp, incidentally, boasts an unusual amount of professionalism on the staff. Besides Bissell and Fullmer, who is ordinarily the council's program director, there are two other full-time staff members. They are the district executive, Mike Moseman of Crete, and Terry Stunden of Lincoln, associate district executive.

Notably missing for the first time in several years is Gene Hulbert of Falls City, former resident manager and camping director. Resigning after he was elected Richardson County treasurer, he still slips out to the camp on some evenings and weekends.

Fullmer said this summer's staff has been trimmed to 18 from the usual 28-30. Increasing interest in "high adventure bases" in other states also cut the total number of registrations about one-third from last year's 750.

An innovation this summer is the abolition of scheduled activities. The director said this provides more flexibility, expedites individual merit badge work and "puts a boy more on his own initiative."

EPA Head Sees No Need For Long-Term Trade-Off

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The head of the federal Environmental Protection Agency said Friday he sees no need for a long-term trade-off of environmental protection in order to have the energy the country needs or for economic reasons.

"We do take energy and economic considerations into account," Russell Train told a news conference which wound up a tour which took him into Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Train said such trade-offs may be necessary for a year or two.

"But implementation and enforcement of evironmental statutes have proceeded at a pretty good pace," he said.

Train said the automobile industry has some secere problems, largely os its own making, and it is committed to a size of automobile that the American people don't want any more.

Emission control equipment is responsible for only a small part of the higher prices on cars, Train said.

"The air conditioner costs more and uses as much or nore energy," he said.

Men's Lib Strikes 4-H

Kenesaw (AP) — Women have been making plenty of inroads into a "man's world," but the street goes two ways.

In the past several years, young men have been participating in 4-H clothing contests and some have done well enough to win.

Mike Torske, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Torske of Kenesaw, is the latest in the line.

Mike won the Adams County 4H clothing judging contest and will be the first male to compete in the judging contest at the state level, according to Gail Skimmer, Extension clothing specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"Some of those girls will never live this down," said young Torske of his county-level victory.

Just goes to show, men have taste too.

4-H Clubs Can Reap Benefits From Your Junk Car Donation

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

You can get rid of your junk car or worn-out combine and help the 4-H clubs of Lancaster, Seward and Saline counties increase funds for a 4-H camp program near Gretna.

"We have a company that will come out and pick up junk cars, trucks and larger farm machinery. They will also accept things like refrigerators and freezers, but these smaller items must be delivered to the crushing site," said Lancaster County Agent Allen Boetcher.

The company brings a portable crushing unit, and uses a $78,000 cherry-picker device to collect cars and machines, loading them to haul to crusher sites.

So far, 200 cars have been collected in Saline and Seward Counties, with only 75 cars in Lancaster County. The Lancaster County area that can be served is outside of Lincoln because the city has a longstanding arrangement with the National Guard to pick up cars regularly.

"Even outside of Lincoln there has to be at least 500 junkers sitting around on farms, on acreages and in road ditches. These things harbor rats, are overgrown with weeds and are a danger to children. This is an opportunity to get rid of them and put a little money into the 4-H program at the same time," Boettcher said.

The machine the company uses smashes three cars into a huge ball of scrap for transportation to a steel mill, where it is recycled into new autos and other products.

Persons living in Lincoln with junk cars to move can contact the city police for information on how to get rid of them, according to Boettcher. All of the non-Lincoln communities outside of the city are participating in the 4-H program which will be completed in about two weeks.

Anyone interested in having a car picked up must sign a release form which can be obtained from the Lancaster County Extension office. Boettcher suggested the car or machine to be removed be marked to be sure the truck picks up the right piece of equipment or auto.

Doane Launches Drive To Raise $300,000

Doane College in Crete has launched the "Century II Lincoln Fund Campaign," a drive to raise $300,000 in pledges from Lincoln alumni, trustees, businesses and foundations over the next three years.

Robert Dobson, Lincoln businessman and Doane College board chairman, announced the drive Friday in a Lincoln news conference.

Warren (Bud) Johnson, a Lincoln attorney and Doane board member, is chairman of the campaign. It is part of the century II Fund with a $4 million goal that Doane began last year.

Doane President Philip Heckman, confident of meeting the goal, said half of that total will be used for operations and the rest to increase the college endowment.

The fund's name comes from Doane's 100th birthday in 1972, the year in which Heckman said the college's successful Centennial Building Campaign completed building needs; new classroom, athletic, library and administration buildings.

Programs Consolidated

From 1972 to 1974, he said, Doane consolidated its programs to adjust to enrollment declines. Now, as enrollment has stabilized at about 600 students with 40 faculty, Heckman said the purpose of the Century II Fund is "to build a firm financial foundation."

No capital gifts are sought in the Century II Fund, he said. Rather, it's directed at providing scholarship aid for students, new programs and endowment growth.

The college completed the fiscal year ending June 30 with a balanced operating budget of nearly $2.3 million. Tuition pays for 60% (as opposed to one-third at public schools) and endowment monies and gifts, the remainder.

Doane has an endowment fund of $3.37 million, and gifts last year exceeded $500,000.

Boosts Economy

"The Lincoln business community has a stake in the success of Doane College and its Century II Fund," Heckman said, adding that college expenditures since 1965 for salaries, services, supplies and building construction exceeded $20 million — nearly all of which went into the area economy.

But "we need help" to maintain leadership in a liberal arts emphasis that also values vocational preparation, for students from 34 states and 13 foreign countries, he said.

Heckman noted that the gap between tuition at public and private colleges is widening, and Doane intends to keep fees "within reach of the Nebraska student" rather than serving only the well-off elite. He added that 68% of the enrollment are ebraska students.

Campaign chairman Johnson said he considers Doane "part of the greater Lincoln community." A reporting luncheon is set Aug. 15 and final reports of Century II Lincoln Fund contributions due Sept. 2.

Vietnamese Children Enjoy Days Of Fun At Iowa Ranch

Boone, Iowa (UPI) — Beaming South Vietnamese youngsters, laughing and chattering away in their native language, tasted American culture here this weekend as they rode horses, splish-splashed in a crowded swimming pool and generally enjoyed themselves on a Midwestern ranch.

Seventeen smiling Vietnamese young people from Omaha, demonstrated that "kids will be kids" and fun is the international language as they romped around the white-trimmed Lark's Ranch nestled in the green Des Moines River valley near here.

"I like this ranch because I like animals, the fresh air and the many things to do here," said 13-year-old Pham Do Dung, one of only a few of the youths who could speak any English. "I had never ridden horses before."

The 17 youngsters, ranging up to 14 years old, are the children of Vietnamese physicians who entered the United States about three months ago and currently are undergoing medical retraining and culture orientation and taking English courses at Creighton University and the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha. The physicians scurried out of South Vietnam when it fell into Communist hands.

The boys and girls were brought to spacious Lark's Ranch here for a three-day outing by Dan Offenberger, Creighton's assistant athletic director.

"One of the major reasons we came here was to get the youngsters out in the country to have some fun," Offenberger said. "We think exposing them to towns like Boone will give them a look at the size of the towns they will be settling in after their parents finish retraining in Omaha."

And fun the youngsters had!

Laughing and shouting with glee, they rode gentle horses named Buckwheat, Chocolate and Diablo in a dusty horse arena. Then the cheerful boys and girls hopped aboard a big yellow bus and headed for the Boone municipal swimming pool.

There, the black-haired Vietnamese children splashed right alongside blond-haired American kids who paid little attention to differences in skin shade of language. Good times broke all cultural barriers while overhead loudspeakers blared "The Pepsi Generation" theme.

But, the youngsters didn't have all the fun. Mrs. Truong Thi Phuor, an attractive 27-year-old mother of two, took her turn riding horses and swam with the kids in the pool.

"I was scared on that horse," said Lucky, as Mrs. Thi Phuor is known to her friends. "It was all right when the horse was walking but when he started trotting, oh, wow!"

Mrs. Thi Phuor, who speaks fluent English and has one year of study remaining to obtain a law degree, said she and her family will be settling in Sutherland, Neb., after her husband completes his retraining in Omaha in "about a year." She said her first impressions of America have been good.

"Americans have been kind and friendly people to us and always help us," she said. "I haven't run into any bad reaction yet."

After completing courses in Omaha, 27 Vietnamese physicians will settle in medium-size communities across Nebraska, Offenberger said. Besides Sutherland, the towns include Ponca, Beatrice, Imperial, Lincoln and Bellevue.

The youngsters arrived ar Lark's Ranch, a summer camp for girls, on Thursday, and were scheduled to return to Omaha late Saturday. At the ranch exit gate stood a Western sign reading "so long pahd'ner," bidding a friendly goodbye to the new Americans.

In commemoration of its bicentennial, the Corps of Engineers has renovated the Sgt. Floyd into a floating museum.

Omaha School Won't See Students This September

Omaha (AP) — The Lewis and Clark Junior High School, heavily damaged by the May 6 tornado that left three dead, will not be sufficiently repaired to house its 1,300 students when school reopens in September.

Nick Stolzer, director of building and grounds for the Omaha School District, said the earliest the school's east academic wing can be completed is Oct. 15.

No firm decision yet has been made on where the students will attend school until the wing is completed, but officials believe it will probably be Norris Junior High School.

Because of the tornado damage, students of both Lewis and Clark and Norris attended split sessions at Norris during the final weeks of the last school year.

Damage to Lewis and Clark was estimated at more than $2.1 million, and $800,000 in contracts for repair work have been let.

Another contract will be presented to the Board of Education next Monday.

Stolzer said the project was delayed for about a week by a roofers strike, but the roofers are now back on the job, and should complete their work within a week.

"Our prime concern at this time is the interior finishes in the academic wing," Stolzer said.

Meanwhile, exterior work is continuing, which will allow workmen to complete the interior jobs when the weather turns colder.

LCS Social Planning Group Has Organizational Meeting

The Comprehensive Social Planning Committee of Lincoln Community Services (LCS) had its organizational meeting Thursday evening.

The new committee is charged with evaluating the community's social welfare needs and establishing priorities for spending United Fund dollars raised through LCS.

The committee's work is expected to be completed in six months to a year, said Rich Norby, LCS spokesperson.

Barbara Henderson is the committee's chairperson.

Paschold Appointed New 3-County Home Ec Agent

Wilber — Mrs. Bonnie Navratil Paschold has been selected by the Wilber Area Extension Board for the position of area extension agent in home economics for Jefferson, Saline and Seward Counties. She will assume her duties approximately August 1 after completing a training period.

A native of Lincoln, Mrs. Paschold has, this past year, taught junior and senior high home economics at Wilber-Clatonia Public School. She is a 1974 graduate of the University of Nebraska with a B.S. degree in home economics education.

Mrs. Paschold's previous involvement with the Extension Srevice includes 12 years as a 4-H member, and summer work as a 4-H aide with the Lancaster County Extension Office.

The newly appointed extension agent will be working with Beth Birnstihl, district extension home economics supervisor for Southeast Nebraska, in providing and disseminating home economics information.

Miss Kearney, Miss NU Win In Preliminary

Kearney (AP) — Miss Kearney and Miss University of Nebraska were preliminary winners Friday night as the Miss Nebraska Pageant continued at Kearney High School.

The contestants were divided into two groups again Friday night and Shannon Lewis, Miss Kearney, won the talent competition in the "Melody Group." Her talent presentation was an organ recital.

Catherine Ann Fricke, Miss University of Nebraska, was named swim suit winner in the "Lyric Group."

Twenty-six Nebraska beauties are in competition for the September trip to Atlantic City to represent the state in the Miss America Pageant.

The contestants were also divided into two groups Thursday night. A talent winner was named from the "Lyric Group" and a swim suit winner from the "Melody Group."

They were Debra Ridge, 17, Hastings, and Janet Goode, 18, Omaha.

The suspense will be ended Saturday night.

Ten semi-finalists will be named and later in the evening, one of the ten will be named Miss Nebraska.

Omaha Woman Identified As Auto Accident Victim

By The Associated Press

The Omaha woman killed late Thursday afternoon when she was trapped between two cars in her driveway was identified Friday as Martha L. Cich, 46.

She was killed when another car parked in her driveway rolled back and crushed her against her car.

The Omahan suffered massive internal injuries and was dead on arrival at an Omaha hospital, according to investigating officers.

Omaha police are not counting her death as a traffic fatality since it occurred on private property.

Hail, Heavy Rain Fall South Of Broken Bow

Marble-size hail and a heavy rain fell Friday night about 14 miles south of Broken Bow as a weak cold front pushed into northern Nebraska.

Thundershowers were also reported in central and northeastern Nebraska during the evening.

Hot weather prevailed over the state Friday with winds continuing in the eastern portion. And the National Weather Service forecast more of the same for Saturday.

Omaha's 100 degree temperature Friday was the state's highest with 99 at Burwell, 97 at Lincoln, Norfolk and McCook and 96 at Beatrice, North Platte and Grand Island.

Friday marked Lincoln's 25th consecutive day without any moisture. The last precipitation recorded here was a mere tenth of an inch received June 23.

Agricultural observers believe Nebraska's dryland corn can withstand the dry speel for at least another five days without suffering damage. Irrigated crops are in no danger unless a prolonged dry period occurs, the ag specialists say.

A slight cooling trend is indicated in Sunday's forecast as highs will range from the mid 80s in the north to the low 90s in the south after Saturday highs are likely to reach the upper 80s in the north to mid 90s in the south.

The Monday through Wednesday extended forecast calls for a daily chance of afternoon and nighttime thundershowers with continued warm temperatures, from the mid 80s to low 90s.

Bike Theft Helps Mayor Prove Point

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Mayor Bill McCormick is such a bicycle buff he rides one to work, and chains it to a post on the City Hall parking lot.

He has been campaigning for construction of bike racks, and escorted some fellow city officials to the lot to show them how much safer it would be to lock his bike to a rack than chain it to a post.

He proved his point. The bicycle was gone. Stolen.

Camping Old Hat To This Scout

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Humboldt — Like scores of his young scout friends, Noel Bissell is a first-timer at the Cornhusker Council Scout Reservation.

But camping itself is hardly a new experience for the 60-year-old professional scouter. All told, he has been in "the business" for 39 years and has pitched his tent in perhaps three dozen camps in several states.

Yet the Lincoln-based district executive for eight counties since last October is as exuberant as a Cub Scout over his assignment as archery instructor. For a change he didn't draw the job of camp director and he's getting a chance to mix with his favorite raw material — youth.

'Teaching Fun'

"For 19 summers I ran camps similar to this, but unfortunately, a professional scouter spends a lot more time in administration than with the boys," said Bissell, a former Marine. "It's kind of fun trying to teach the kids — they're full of questions these days — when I'm not chasing their lost arrows through the weeds."

According to camp director John Fullmer of Lincoln and Leo Prokop, a Swanton native who is now resident manager of the 880-acre reservation, Bissell also serves as unofficial adviser. Some 500 boys from scores of southeast Nebraska troops are getting a week's outing during the June 14-July 19 encampment.

Impressed as he is with "one of the most beautiful camps I've seen anywhere," Bissell has similar appreciation for the boys registered. He doesn't subscribe to the opinion of many that modern youth doesn't measure up to the scouts of the past.

Youth Unchanged

"Today's kid is smarter, and for his age he's bigger than his dad was," said Bissell, "but I honestly don't think he's much different otherwise. And I'm convinced he really wants discipline . . . if he's not getting it elsewhere, he finds it in scouting."

Bissell also believes the "scouting basics" are unchanted since the program began in 1910. Despite some modernization (merit badges are offered now even in computers and atomic energy), "we're still trying to build the same things in boys that they were 65 years ago."

Moving to the Cornhusker Council position after spending 21-months recuperating from an auto accident near McCook, Bissell is hardly a stranger to Nebraska. His hop-scotching career included stints in the Alliance, Omaha and North Platte areas.

He also has served either as a field director or district executive at three locations in Kansas and three in Iowa. Prior to his 28 years in professional scouting, he sepnt 11 as a volunteer scoutmaster and assistant.

With three grown daughters but no sons, he and his wife are now raising a cerebal palsy-victim, 10-year-old Leon, in their Lincoln home.

Staff Professional

This summer's camp, incidentally, boasts an unusual amount of professionalism on the staff. Besides Bissell and Fullmer, who is ordinarily the council's program director, there are two other full-time staff members. They are the district executive, Mike Moseman of Crete, and Terry Stunden of Lincoln, associate district executive.

Notably missing for the first time in several years is Gene Hulbert of Falls City, former resident manager and camping director. Resigning after he was elected Richardson County treasurer, he still slips out to the camp on some evenings and weekends.

Fullmer said this summer's staff has been trimmed to 18 from the usual 28-30. Increasing interest in "high adventure bases" in other states also cut the total number of registrations about one-third from last year's 750.

An innovation this summer is the abolition of scheduled activities. The director said this provides more flexibility, expedites individual merit badge work and "puts a boy more on his own initiative."

EPA Head Sees No Need For Long-Term Trade-Off

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The head of the federal Environmental Protection Agency said Friday he sees no need for a long-term trade-off of environmental protection in order to have the energy the country needs or for economic reasons.

"We do take energy and economic considerations into account," Russell Train told a news conference which wound up a tour which took him into Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Train said such trade-offs may be necessary for a year or two.

"But implementation and enforcement of evironmental statutes have proceeded at a pretty good pace," he said.

Train said the automobile industry has some secere problems, largely os its own making, and it is committed to a size of automobile that the American people don't want any more.

Emission control equipment is responsible for only a small part of the higher prices on cars, Train said.

"The air conditioner costs more and uses as much or nore energy," he said.

Men's Lib Strikes 4-H

Kenesaw (AP) — Women have been making plenty of inroads into a "man's world," but the street goes two ways.

In the past several years, young men have been participating in 4-H clothing contests and some have done well enough to win.

Mike Torske, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Torske of Kenesaw, is the latest in the line.

Mike won the Adams County 4H clothing judging contest and will be the first male to compete in the judging contest at the state level, according to Gail Skimmer, Extension clothing specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"Some of those girls will never live this down," said young Torske of his county-level victory.

Just goes to show, men have taste too.

4-H Clubs Can Reap Benefits From Your Junk Car Donation

Marvin Kivett, director of the Nebraska State Historical Society and state historic preservation officers, said the buildings were McCormick Hall, built in 1883 and Ringland Hall, constructed in 1884.

Trio Recovering From Burns

Loup City — Three Loup City men are recovering from burns received in an explosion on the Basil Zouha farm east of here. Don Kaminski and Don Iske had been cutting alfalfa with a windrower and were cleaning the radiator with gasoline when the explosion occurred. Both were taken to Grand Island hospitals for treatment. Louis Kaslon, who was nearby at the time of the blast, was treated for minor burns.

Boat Open For Inspection

Omaha — The Omaha District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers announces the inspection boat Sgt. Floyd will be open to the public at Sioux City July 23 from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m., and from July 24 through July 26, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. The vessel will dock across from the Marina Inn. In commemoration of its bicentennial, the Corps of Engineers has renovated the Sgt. Floyd into a floating museum.

Miss Kearney, Miss NU Win In Preliminary

Kearney (AP) — Miss Kearney and Miss University of Nebraska were preliminary winners Friday night as the Miss Nebraska Pageant continued at Kearney High School.

The contestants were divided into two groups again Friday night and Shannon Lewis, Miss Kearney, won the talent competition in the "Melody Group." Her talent presentation was an organ recital.

Catherine Ann Fricke, Miss University of Nebraska, was named swim suit winner in the "Lyric Group."

Twenty-six Nebraska beauties are in competition for the September trip to Atlantic City to represent the state in the Miss America Pageant.

The contestants were also divided into two groups Thursday night. A talent winner was named from the "Lyric Group" and a swim suit winner from the "Melody Group."

They were Debra Ridge, 17, Hastings, and Janet Goode, 18, Omaha.

The suspense will be ended Saturday night.

Ten semi-finalists will be named and later in the evening, one of the ten will be named Miss Nebraska.

Omaha Woman Identified As Auto Accident Victim

By The Associated Press

The Omaha woman killed late Thursday afternoon when she was trapped between two cars in her driveway was identified Friday as Martha L. Cich, 46.

She was killed when another car parked in her driveway rolled back and crushed her against her car.

The Omahan suffered massive internal injuries and was dead on arrival at an Omaha hospital, according to investigating officers.

Omaha police are not counting her death as a traffic fatality since it occurred on private property.

Hail, Heavy Rain Fall South Of Broken Bow

Marble-size hail and a heavy rain fell Friday night about 14 miles south of Broken Bow as a weak cold front pushed into northern Nebraska.

Thundershowers were also reported in central and northeastern Nebraska during the evening.

Hot weather prevailed over the state Friday with winds continuing in the eastern portion. And the National Weather Service forecast more of the same for Saturday.

Omaha's 100 degree temperature Friday was the state's highest with 99 at Burwell, 97 at Lincoln, Norfolk and McCook and 96 at Beatrice, North Platte and Grand Island.

Friday marked Lincoln's 25th consecutive day without any moisture. The last precipitation recorded here was a mere tenth of an inch received June 23.

Agricultural observers believe Nebraska's dryland corn can withstand the dry speel for at least another five days without suffering damage. Irrigated crops are in no danger unless a prolonged dry period occurs, the ag specialists say.

A slight cooling trend is indicated in Sunday's forecast as highs will range from the mid 80s in the north to the low 90s in the south after Saturday highs are likely to reach the upper 80s in the north to mid 90s in the south.

The Monday through Wednesday extended forecast calls for a daily chance of afternoon and nighttime thundershowers with continued warm temperatures, from the mid 80s to low 90s.

Omaha School Won't See Students This September

Omaha (AP) — The Lewis and Clark Junior High School, heavily damaged by the May 6 tornado that left three dead, will not be sufficiently repaired to house its 1,300 students when school reopens in September.

Nick Stolzer, director of building and grounds for the Omaha School District, said the earliest the school's east academic wing can be completed is Oct. 15.

No firm decision yet has been made on where the students will attend school until the wing is completed, but officials believe it will probably be Norris Junior High School.

Because of the tornado damage, students of both Lewis and Clark and Norris attended split sessions at Norris during the final weeks of the last school year.

Damage to Lewis and Clark was estimated at more than $2.1 million, and $800,000 in contracts for repair work have been let.

Another contract will be presented to the Board of Education next Monday.

Stolzer said the project was delayed for about a week by a roofers strike, but the roofers are now back on the job, and should complete their work within a week.

"Our prime concern at this time is the interior finishes in the academic wing," Stolzer said.

Meanwhile, exterior work is continuing, which will allow workmen to complete the interior jobs when the weather turns colder.

LCS Social Planning Group Has Organizational Meeting

The Comprehensive Social Planning Committee of Lincoln Community Services (LCS) had its organizational meeting Thursday evening.

The new committee is charged with evaluating the community's social welfare needs and establishing priorities for spending United Fund dollars raised through LCS.

The committee's work is expected to be completed in six months to a year, said Rich Norby, LCS spokesperson.

Barbara Henderson is the committee's chairperson.

Bike Theft Helps Mayor Prove Point

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Mayor Bill McCormick is such a bicycle buff he rides one to work, and chains it to a post on the City Hall parking lot.

He has been campaigning for construction of bike racks, and escorted some fellow city officials to the lot to show them how much safer it would be to lock his bike to a rack than chain it to a post.

He proved his point. The bicycle was gone. Stolen.

Unpredictable Shot Stops Schwartzkopf Comeback

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Omaha — An "unpredictable shot" ended Mrs. Dorothy Schwartzkopf's comeback bid on the 17th hole of Friday's championship match of the Nebraska Women's State Golf Tournament.

The veteran Lincoln gofer had been four down to 17-year-old Theresa Wanek of Omaha with six holes to play, but had narrowed the margin to one down going to the 17th tee.

Her tee shot on the 147-yard, par three hole landed on the outer edge of the sand trap on the left front of the green. Grass showed through the sand.

"I'd rather have been in the trap because I would have known how to hit the shot then," Schwartzkopf said. "If I swing at it too hard I'm over the green."

As it turned out, the shot moved a few feet into the trap. She got on eight feet past the pin on hte next shot, but before her turn came to putt, Wanek ran in a 20-foot putt. When Schwartzkopf missed, the match was over, 2 and 1.

"Theresa really putted very well," the four-time state champion said. "That was the difference. Anybody who can putt like that deserves to win."

Young Miss Wanek agreed her "putting stayed hot." She made three long ones in her semifinal victory over Lynne Merwald of Omaha on Thursday and just kept sinking them in the championship match.

The two golfers halved the first three holes and then Wanek put her putter to work. She sank putts of 12, 6 and 42 feet to win the next three holes and never trailed the rest of the match.

On the front nine, which she toured in two-over par, she had six one-putt greens. She led 3-up at the turn and Schwartzkopf won only the seventh hole on which Wanek shanked her third shot.

Wanek played the 10th and 12 holes perfectly to win them and Schwartzkopf had an excellent 11th hole wo win it. Wanek picked up after taking five shots to reach the green on the par-four 13th.

Schwartzkopf won the 14th with a par, halved the 15th and sank a nine-foot putt to win 16 as Wanek's 10-foot putt rimmed the cup.

On the final hole, Wanek, like Schwartzkopf, had problems. She put her second shot in the trap on the right of the green, but made up for it with her long putt.

"I was scared I was letting it (the match) slide away," Wanek recalled of her dwindling lead after the 16th. "I was never down in the match and I was confident. I didn't have a chance to get nervous until the last couple of holes."

A golf tournament isn't complete unless there is a borrowed putter. Wanek's wasn't necessarily borrowed, but it was loaned to her by Wes Malnack, pro at Oak Hills where Wanek plays.

He told her the putter she was using looked "scuzzy," which she admitted. She said it only cost her $2.50 and looked like it was made out of tin.

Malnack provided a new model "bullseye" putter, which Wanek said "is a pretty heavy putter." Walnack, who watched the match, told her she could keep the putter after winning the tournament.

Schwartzkopf didn't hit the ball as well as she had in early-round matches. "I did some very poor swings for some reason," she said. After hitting bad shots on the eighth and ninth holes, she said she "decided just to swing away."

She said she wasn't unhappy with her putting, which was good except on qualifying day.

Schwartzkopf's championship came in 1959, 1963, 1964 and 1965 and she now has been runnerup five times.

Her title in 1965 was won over her home course, Lincoln's Hillcrest Country Club where next year's state meet will be played.

Schwartzkopf, however, won't be a Hillcrest member then. She plans to pick a club in Omaha after she and her husband, Sam Schwartzkopf, former Lincoln mayor, move here. He is director of the new Omaha lottery.

Wanek, a member of Marian High School's Nebraska state girls' championship golf team, qualified with a 78 and got to the championship test with wins over Bobbie Hopp of Hastings, 4 and 2. defending champion Jean Hyland of Lincoln, 3 and 1, and Lynne Merwald of Omaha, 3 and 2.

Schwartzkopf qualified Monday with an 81 and defeated medalist Betty Marchese of Omaha, 4 and 3, Laurie Glass of Beatrice, 1-up, and Anne Maruicci of Omaha 4 and 3 to gain the final match.

Flying Shoulda, Barnes Win

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

It didn't take Terry Barnes long to know he was a winner riding Flying Shoulda.

"I knew after the first jump, I had a winner," he said after steering Flying Shoulda to an easy seven-length victory Friday in the $4,140 Tassel Stakes at the State Fairgrounds.

"You know, you have to work hard for anything you get," said the track's leading rider. "When I looked back down the stretch, I didn't realize she was in front by so many. She's a real nice filly."

Flying Shoulda led every jump of the 4-furlong chase that attracted seven 2-year-old fillies. Barnes put her in front the break which was somewhat surprising.

"She broke a lot better than I thought she would," he noted. "I had to switch to start hitting her left-handed just before the turn for home since she was trying to get in a little. Then she starting galloping real easy and I just gave her a hand ride down the stretch."

The Jim Lynch-owned speedster experienced a real struggle with Harold Kleinschmidt's Go Lite Go down the backstretch. Barnes only had a half-length advantage entering the stretch, but that's when he let Flying Shoulda start flying.

She drew off to her seven-length edge in the first stakes race this season in Lincoln.

Barnes was quick to praise his agent, Ken Washburn of Ashland. "He's one of the finest agents in the country," Barnes said.

Nevertheless, it was Barnes and Flying Shoulda who claimed the winner's share of $2,484. That boosted Flying Shoulda's 1975 earnings to $14,427 on two triumphs, two seconds and two thirds in 11 appearances.

As the 1.10-1 favorite of the crowd of 5,218, Flying Shoulda returned $4.20, $3.20, and $2.40 for her victory accomplished in :47 4-5. Go Lite Go, ridden by Dan Switzer, held on for second to pay $9.00 and $4.40.

Tom Sisson's P. Dean, two lengths behind Go Lite Go, showed for $2.80.

The victory on Flying Shoulda was Barnes' second Friday as he scored in the sixth race on the Napier Bros. Inc.'s Gold Buggy ($9.80). He was the only rider achieving two winners.

King Wins

Dave King, who is to begin a five-day suspension on Saturday for careless riding in the fifth race on Tuesday, made his last appearance Friday a winning one.

He scored a win aboard C. E. Johnson and Bennett Raduziner's Marching Mark in the ninth race. Marching Mark paid $24.20 to win and started a $228.30 exacta when James Kelley's Yor Little finished second.

Through the first four days, King had four winners, three seconds and five thirds. That put him in second place behind Terry Barnes.

Crowds Improve

Through the first four days of Lincoln racing, crowds are up more than 9 per cent over a corresponding period in 1974.

Last year's races attracted 19,133 while this year's crowds have been 21,009.

The 9 per cent figure is one of the highest attendance increases of any race track in the country this season.

Shouldabe Hasty Feature Favorite

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Shouldabe Hasty has been a victim of circumstances.

In his 11 outings this season, the 5-year-old gelding has been facing the best sprinters Fonner Park and Ak-Sar-Ben have provided. Yet he's never been the favorite with the betting public and he only has one win.

Nevertheless, he's always been close to the leaders despite being "outclassed" on numerous occasions.

That may change Saturday at the State Fairgrounds when the pride of Charles Murnan faces six foes over 6 furlongs in the $4,000 Capital City Handicap.

Shouldabe Hasty gained the favor of one important official — racing secretary Bob Pollock, who assigned him top-weight of 121 pounds. That's a concession of from two to 10 pounds.

As an indication of his ability, in a May 2 sprint, he was beaten just six lengths by Stake Driver, Ak-Sar-Ben's top sprinter this year.

His record sports one win, two seconds, four thirds and one fourth for earnings of $11,402. He will be ridden by Tom Greer.

He ran second, just a head behind Lake Nail last Thursday in the $15,000 Nebraskaland Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben. He defeated three horses he will meet Saturday — Arian Ray, Queen's Turn and Little L.M.

Ray Guzinski's Arian Ray, second top-weighted at 119 pounds, was third just a head behind Shouldabe Hasty in the Nebraskaland. Arian Ray won a May 17 sprint, stopping Shouldabe Hasty by one-half length.

The Wayne Riney-trained speedster shows a 1975 record of $17,280 on four triumphs, two seconds and three thirds.

Queen's Turn, a 4-year-old filly, ran poorly in the Nebraskaland, finishing fifth and never really challenging.

Yet she could prove quite troublesome Saturday as she is coupled with Roman Doc as a Kemling Bros. Inc. entry.

Both have fine records — Queen's Turn has three wins and one second in 10 runs for winnings of $16,546 while Roman Doc has two wins, one second and three thirds in 10 appearances for earnings of $10,627 this season.

Don Rees' Little L.M. set a track record at Fonner Park when he zipped over the 5½-furlongs in 1:04 2-5, indicating he certainly has enough speed to compete with this field.

That win on April 12 was his last trip to the winner's circle. He scored a second and a third in seven Ak-Sar-Ben trips.

Queen's Turn gets 116 pounds and Rodolfo Calderon, while Roman Doc has been assigned 118 pounds. Little L.M. earned 114 pounds, including Terry Barnes.

Mart Tompkins' Oklahoma Sheik (111 and Perry Compton) and James Woodward's Bet's Robin Jac (114 and Fred Ecoffey) complete the field.

Misty, Valentino's Lose In Tourney

By BOB MOYER

Lincoln teams were given a rude welcome by the visitors as the second Lincoln AAA Fast Pitch Softball League Invitational tournament began at Ballard Field Friday night.

Council Bluffs Stork Club took the measure of Misty Lounge in the meet's opener, 5-2, and then Kearney Cattleman's Mining Co. topped Valentino's, 4-1, in the finale.

A third Lincoln entry, Citizens State Bank, advanced due to a forfeit.

Stork Club broke open a close 2-1 game in the sixth inning in the opener with a three-run outburst.

The Council Bluffs club manufactured the runs on a hit batsman, a walk, an error and two base hits off losing Misty hurler Paul Ude.

Mel Knopp brought Misty to 5-2 in the top of the seventh inning with his third hit of the game, a home run, but it wasn't enough and Stork Club hurler Tom Main was able to retire the remainder of the Misty lineup.

"We're just not hitting," noted Misty manager Stan Kaltenberger of his team six-hit production. "I don't know what it is. We're just in a bad slump."

In the evening's finale, Kearney broke open a 0-0 contest in the top of the fourth inning with three runs on five hits, capped by Mike Brimlow's two-run single.

Valentino's rallied for a run in the bottom of the fourth on Bruce Waters' sacrifice fly to make the score 3-1, but in the top of the fifth inning, Kearney got the run back on three more singles, including an RBI base hit by winning pitcher Jim Blessen which completed the game's scoring

Blessen, meanwhile, stymied Valentino's on just four hits to lift Kearney to the victory.

The tournament will resume Saturday at two fields, Ballard and University Place. Games will get under way at 10 a.m. at Ballard and 2.30 p.m. at Uni Field. No winner's bracket games will be played at University Place.

The tourney winds up Sunday at Ballard, with finals set for 7 p.m.

Saturday's first round games include:

Pizza Hut v. St. Joseph, Mo., Gentry Co. Bank, 10 a m , Broken Bow v St. Joe Boosters, 11 30 a.m.; Dick Flynn Buick v St Joe Walnut Products, 1 p.m., Citizens State Bank v. Falstaff, 4 p m , Stan's Lounge v. Broken Bow-St. Joe Boosters winner, 5 30 p m

Swim Records Fall In Meet's Opener

By RYLY JANE RUSSELL
Star Sports Writer

Gusting winds and bright sunlight didn't seem to bother the swimmers at the 13th Annual Great Plains Swimming and Diving Meet Friday at Woods Pool.

Four records and one national qualifying time were established during the first session of the three-day meet.

Suzanne Fahey of the Celebrity Swim Team in Denver, Colo., was clocked in 5:14.159 in the 400-meter individual medley. The national qualifying time is 5:14.46, so the 17-year-old senior-to-be will travel to the national meet in Kansas City late in August.

"It was a pretty smooth race," Fahey said. "The only thing I didn't like were the placements of the blocks. It made my turns kind of hard."

But not hard enough. Fahey was swimming against Renee Magee of Bellevue, who is nationally ranked in the 400 IM, and Judy Anderson and Sarah James of the Bloomington Aquatic Club, both strong swimmers.

Magee led the first 50 meters in the butterfly, but Fahey moved up on her in the first lap of the backstroke.

"I was really surprised with my backstroke," Fahey said. "Usually that's my weakest stroke."

In the two laps of the breaststroke, Fahey's specialty, she built a three-length lead over the field. By this time, Anderson, 15, had surged into second.

"The main reason I came to this meet was to try and qualify for nationals in the 400 IM," Fahey said. "I already qualified in the 200 IM and the 200 breaststroke."

Magee who is spending her last summer in Nebraska will be moving to Houston this fall for her junior year in high school.

"I was just a little worn down," Magee said. "I just swam the 400 freestyle, and also I've changed my stroke in the breaststroke."

Magee is under the tutelage of Jack Jackson of the Bellevue Swim Club.

"She's been working hard. Last week she swam a 5:14 (same as the winning time Friday) in Houston," Jackson said between cheers. "So I'm not worried about her. She automatically qualifies for nationals by her placing this last winter."

In the rewriting of the record books, Anne Watland of the Omaha Westside Swim Club (OWSC) bettered her record from 1973 in the women's 400-meter freestyle. Her 4:31.1 sliced :13.85 off her old record.

Another record-setter was a double winner, Chuck Sharpe, also of the OWSC, who shaved :16.7 off the record in the men's 400-meter freestyle set by John Ebuna in 1972. Sharpe also won the 400-meter IM.

The other two records came in the boys and girls 400-meter freestyle. Tenley Fisher of the Metropolitan Omaha Swim Team (MOST) erased Watland's record with a time of 4:50.150. Ty Richard set the standard with a 4:35.585 clocking. The old mark, set by Jesse Gray, was 4:39.451.

There were six new meet events Friday, including the senior 400-meter individual medleys, the 10 and under 200-meter freestyle and the senior 1500-meter freestyle, for both boys and girls.

Unpredictable Shot Stops Schwartzkopf Comeback

THE LINCOLN STAR
Sports
Saturday, July 19, 1975 13

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Omaha — An "unpredictable shot" ended Mrs. Dorothy Schwartzkopf's comeback bid on the 17th hole of Friday's championship match of the Nebraska Women's State Golf Tournament.

The veteran Lincoln gofer had been four down to 17-year-old Theresa Wanek of Omaha with six holes to play, but had narrowed the margin to one down going to the 17th tee.

Her tee shot on the 147-yard, par three hole landed on the outer edge of the sand trap on the left front of the green. Grass showed through the sand.

"I'd rather have been in the trap because I would have known how to hit the shot then," Schwartzkopf said. "If I swing at it too hard I'm over the green."

As it turned out, the shot moved a few feet into the trap. She got on eight feet past the pin on hte next shot, but before her turn came to putt, Wanek ran in a 20-foot putt. When Schwartzkopf missed, the match was over, 2 and 1.

"Theresa really putted very well," the four-time state champion said. "That was the difference. Anybody who can putt like that deserves to win."

Young Miss Wanek agreed her "putting stayed hot." She made three long ones in her semifinal victory over Lynne Merwald of Omaha on Thursday and just kept sinking them in the championship match.

The two golfers halved the first three holes and then Wanek put her putter to work. She sank putts of 12, 6 and 42 feet to win the next three holes and never trailed the rest of the match.

On the front nine, which she toured in two-over par, she had six one-putt greens. She led 3-up at the turn and Schwartzkopf won only the seventh hole on which Wanek shanked her third shot.

Wanek played the 10th and 12 holes perfectly to win them and Schwartzkopf had an excellent 11th hole wo win it. Wanek picked up after taking five shots to reach the green on the par-four 13th.

Schwartzkopf won the 14th with a par, halved the 15th and sank a nine-foot putt to win 16 as Wanek's 10-foot putt rimmed the cup.

On the final hole, Wanek, like Schwartzkopf, had problems. She put her second shot in the trap on the right of the green, but made up for it with her long putt.

"I was scared I was letting it (the match) slide away," Wanek recalled of her dwindling lead after the 16th. "I was never down in the match and I was confident. I didn't have a chance to get nervous until the last couple of holes."

A golf tournament isn't complete unless there is a borrowed putter. Wanek's wasn't necessarily borrowed, but it was loaned to her by Wes Malnack, pro at Oak Hills where Wanek plays.

He told her the putter she was using looked "scuzzy," which she admitted. She said it only cost her $2.50 and looked like it was made out of tin.

Malnack provided a new model "bullseye" putter, which Wanek said "is a pretty heavy putter." Walnack, who watched the match, told her she could keep the putter after winning the tournament.

Schwartzkopf didn't hit the ball as well as she had in early-round matches. "I did some very poor swings for some reason," she said. After hitting bad shots on the eighth and ninth holes, she said she "decided just to swing away."

She said she wasn't unhappy with her putting, which was good except on qualifying day.

Schwartzkopf's championship came in 1959, 1963, 1964 and 1965 and she now has been runnerup five times.

Her title in 1965 was won over her home course, Lincoln's Hillcrest Country Club where next year's state meet will be played.

Schwartzkopf, however, won't be a Hillcrest member then. She plans to pick a club in Omaha after she and her husband, Sam Schwartzkopf, former Lincoln mayor, move here. He is director of the new Omaha lottery.

Wanek, a member of Marian High School's Nebraska state girls' championship golf team, qualified with a 78 and got to the championship test with wins over Bobbie Hopp of Hastings, 4 and 2. defending champion Jean Hyland of Lincoln, 3 and 1, and Lynne Merwald of Omaha, 3 and 2.

Schwartzkopf qualified Monday with an 81 and defeated medalist Betty Marchese of Omaha, 4 and 3, Laurie Glass of Beatrice, 1-up, and Anne Maruicci of Omaha 4 and 3 to gain the final match.

Flying Shoulda, Barnes Win

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

It didn't take Terry Barnes long to know he was a winner riding Flying Shoulda.

"I knew after the first jump, I had a winner," he said after steering Flying Shoulda to an easy seven-length victory Friday in the $4,140 Tassel Stakes at the State Fairgrounds.

"You know, you have to work hard for anything you get," said the track's leading rider. "When I looked back down the stretch, I didn't realize she was in front by so many. She's a real nice filly."

Flying Shoulda led every jump of the 4-furlong chase that attracted seven 2-year-old fillies. Barnes put her in front the break which was somewhat surprising.

"She broke a lot better than I thought she would," he noted. "I had to switch to start hitting her left-handed just before the turn for home since she was trying to get in a little. Then she starting galloping real easy and I just gave her a hand ride down the stretch."

The Jim Lynch-owned speedster experienced a real struggle with Harold Kleinschmidt's Go Lite Go down the backstretch. Barnes only had a half-length advantage entering the stretch, but that's when he let Flying Shoulda start flying.

She drew off to her seven-length edge in the first stakes race this season in Lincoln.

Barnes was quick to praise his agent, Ken Washburn of Ashland. "He's one of the finest agents in the country," Barnes said.

Nevertheless, it was Barnes and Flying Shoulda who claimed the winner's share of $2,484. That boosted Flying Shoulda's 1975 earnings to $14,427 on two triumphs, two seconds and two thirds in 11 appearances.

As the 1.10-1 favorite of the crowd of 5,218, Flying Shoulda returned $4.20, $3.20, and $2.40 for her victory accomplished in :47 4-5. Go Lite Go, ridden by Dan Switzer, held on for second to pay $9.00 and $4.40.

Tom Sisson's P. Dean, two lengths behind Go Lite Go, showed for $2.80.

The victory on Flying Shoulda was Barnes' second Friday as he scored in the sixth race on the Napier Bros. Inc.'s Gold Buggy ($9.80). He was the only rider achieving two winners.

King Wins

Dave King, who is to begin a five-day suspension on Saturday for careless riding in the fifth race on Tuesday, made his last appearance Friday a winning one.

He scored a win aboard C. E. Johnson and Bennett Raduziner's Marching Mark in the ninth race. Marching Mark paid $24.20 to win and started a $228.30 exacta when James Kelley's Yor Little finished second.

Through the first four days, King had four winners, three seconds and five thirds. That put him in second place behind Terry Barnes.

Crowds Improve

Through the first four days of Lincoln racing, crowds are up more than 9 per cent over a corresponding period in 1974.

Last year's races attracted 19,133 while this year's crowds have been 21,009.

The 9 per cent figure is one of the highest attendance increases of any race track in the country this season.

Shouldabe Hasty Feature Favorite

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Shouldabe Hasty has been a victim of circumstances.

In his 11 outings this season, the 5-year-old gelding has been facing the best sprinters Fonner Park and Ak-Sar-Ben have provided. Yet he's never been the favorite with the betting public and he only has one win.

Nevertheless, he's always been close to the leaders despite being "outclassed" on numerous occasions.

That may change Saturday at the State Fairgrounds when the pride of Charles Murnan faces six foes over 6 furlongs in the $4,000 Capital City Handicap.

Shouldabe Hasty gained the favor of one important official — racing secretary Bob Pollock, who assigned him top-weight of 121 pounds. That's a concession of from two to 10 pounds.

As an indication of his ability, in a May 2 sprint, he was beaten just six lengths by Stake Driver, Ak-Sar-Ben's top sprinter this year.

His record sports one win, two seconds, four thirds and one fourth for earnings of $11,402. He will be ridden by Tom Greer.

He ran second, just a head behind Lake Nail last Thursday in the $15,000 Nebraskaland Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben. He defeated three horses he will meet Saturday — Arian Ray, Queen's Turn and Little L.M.

Ray Guzinski's Arian Ray, second top-weighted at 119 pounds, was third just a head behind Shouldabe Hasty in the Nebraskaland. Arian Ray won a May 17 sprint, stopping Shouldabe Hasty by one-half length.

The Wayne Riney-trained speedster shows a 1975 record of $17,280 on four triumphs, two seconds and three thirds.

Queen's Turn, a 4-year-old filly, ran poorly in the Nebraskaland, finishing fifth and never really challenging.

Yet she could prove quite troublesome Saturday as she is coupled with Roman Doc as a Kemling Bros. Inc. entry.

Both have fine records — Queen's Turn has three wins and one second in 10 runs for winnings of $16,546 while Roman Doc has two wins, one second and three thirds in 10 appearances for earnings of $10,627 this season.

Don Rees' Little L.M. set a track record at Fonner Park when he zipped over the 5½-furlongs in 1:04 2-5, indicating he certainly has enough speed to compete with this field.

That win on April 12 was his last trip to the winner's circle. He scored a second and a third in seven Ak-Sar-Ben trips.

Queen's Turn gets 116 pounds and Rodolfo Calderon, while Roman Doc has been assigned 118 pounds. Little L.M. earned 114 pounds, including Terry Barnes.

Mart Tompkins' Oklahoma Sheik (111 and Perry Compton) and James Woodward's Bet's Robin Jac (114 and Fred Ecoffey) complete the field.

Misty, Valentino's Lose In Tourney

By BOB MOYER

Lincoln teams were given a rude welcome by the visitors as the second Lincoln AAA Fast Pitch Softball League Invitational tournament began at Ballard Field Friday night.

Council Bluffs Stork Club took the measure of Misty Lounge in the meet's opener, 5-2, and then Kearney Cattleman's Mining Co. topped Valentino's, 4-1, in the finale.

A third Lincoln entry, Citizens State Bank, advanced due to a forfeit.

Stork Club broke open a close 2-1 game in the sixth inning in the opener with a three-run outburst.

The Council Bluffs club manufactured the runs on a hit batsman, a walk, an error and two base hits off losing Misty hurler Paul Ude.

Mel Knopp brought Misty to 5-2 in the top of the seventh inning with his third hit of the game, a home run, but it wasn't enough and Stork Club hurler Tom Main was able to retire the remainder of the Misty lineup.

"We're just not hitting, " noted Misty manager Stan Kaltenberger of his team six-hit production. "I don't know what it is. We're just in a bad slump."

In the evening's finale, Kearney broke open a 0-0 contest in the top of the fourth inning with three runs on five hits, capped by Mike Brimlow's two-run single.

Valentino's rallied for a run in the bottom of the fourth on Bruce Waters' sacrifice fly to make the score 3-1, but in the top of the fifth inning, Kearney got the run back on three more singles, including an RBI base hit by winning pitcher Jim Blessen which completed the game's scoring.

Blessen, meanwhile, stymied Valentino's on just four hits to lift Kearney to the victory.

The tournament will resume Saturday at two fields, Ballard and University Place. Games will get under way at 10 a.m. at Ballard and 2:30 p.m. at Uni Field. No winner's bracket games will be played at University Place.

The tourney winds up Sunday at Ballard, with finals set for 7 p.m.

Saturday's first round games include:

Pizza Hut v. St. Joseph, Mo., Gentry Co. Bank, 10 a.m.; Broken Bow v. St. Joe Boosters, 11:30 a.m.; Dick Flynn Buick v. St. Joe Walnut Products, 1 p.m.; Citizens State Bank v. Falstaff, 4 p.m.; Stan's Lounge v. Broken Bow-St. Joe Boosters winner, 5:30 p.m.

Swim Records Fall In Meet's Opener

By RYLY JANE RUSSELL
Star Sports Writer

Gusting winds and bright sunlight didn't seem to bother the swimmers at the 13th Annual Great Plains Swimming and Diving Meet Friday at Woods Pool.

Four records and one national qualifying time were established during the first session of the three-day meet.

Suzanne Fahey of the Celebrity Swim Team in Denver, Colo., was clocked in 5:14.159 in the 400-meter individual medley. The national qualifying time is 5:14.46, so the 17-year-old senior-to-be will travel to the national meet in Kansas City late in August.

"It was a pretty smooth race," Fahey said. "The only thing I didn't like were the placements of the blocks. It made my turns kind of hard."

But not hard enough. Fahey was swimming against Renee Magee of Bellevue, who is nationally ranked in the 400 IM, and Judy Anderson and Sarah James of the Bloomington Aquatic Club, both strong swimmers.

Magee led the first 50 meters in the butterfly, but Fahey moved up on her in the first lap of the backstroke.

"I was really surprised with my backstroke," Fahey said. "Usually that's my weakest stroke."

In the two laps of the breaststroke, Fahey's specialty, she built a three-length lead over the field. By this time, Anderson, 15, had surged into second.

"The main reason I came to this meet was to try and qualify for nationals in the 400 IM," Fahey said. "I already qualified in the 200 IM and the 200 breaststroke."

Magee who is spending her last summer in Nebraska will be moving to Houston this fall for her junior year in high school.

"I was just a little worn down," Magee said. "I just swam the 400 freestyle, and also I've changed my stroke in the breaststroke."

Magee is under the tutelage of Jack Jackson of the Bellevue Swim Club.

"She's been working hard. Last week she swam a 5:14 (same as the winning time Friday) in Houston," Jackson said between cheers. "So I'm not worried about her. She automatically qualifies for nationals by her placing this last winter."

In the rewriting of the record books, Anne Watland of the Omaha Westside Swim Club (OWSC) bettered her record from 1973 in the women's 400-meter freestyle. Her 4:31.1 sliced :13.85 off her old record.

Another record-setter was a double winner, Chuck Sharpe, also of the OWSC, who shaved :16.7 off the record in the men's 400-meter freestyle set by John Ebuna in 1972. Sharpe also won the 400-meter IM.

The other two records came in the boys and girls 400-meter freestyle. Tenley Fisher of the Metropolitan Omaha Swim Team (MOST) erased Watland's record with a time of 4:50.150. Ty Richard set the standard with a 4:35.585 clocking. The old mark, set by Jesse Gray, was 4:39.451.

There were six new meet events Friday, including the senior 400-meter individual medleys, the 10 and under 200-meter freestyle and the senior 1500-meter freestyle, for both boys and girls.

University of Maryland basketball and tennis standout John Lucas said he was considering pro in both sports but plans to return to school next fall. Lucas was drafted in the first round by the New York Nets of the ABA and has been approached by the Phoenix Racquets of World Team Tennis, this year.

The Tournament of Champions has been moved into the slot immediately following the Masters on the pro golf tour schedule next year.

Canadian school girl Cindy Nicholas, 17, gave up her attempt to set a New England to France swimming record three hours and 45 minutes after plunging into the English Channel, due to rough seas.

Graham Hill, two time world auto racing champion announced his retirement from racing. Hill, the only driver who has won two world championships, the Indianapolis 500, and LeMans events, said he would concentrate on managing his own Formula One team.

Gregg Otte, 25, has been appointed sports editor of the York News-Times. He will succeed Don Vodarka, who is taking a position with the Wayne Herald.

Czechoslovakia and Sweden were both one match away from reaching their respective European Zone Davis Cup tennis finals after establishing 2-0 leads in their best three-of-five semifinal matches.

Goodwin Loses Use Of Eye

Ray Lee Goodwin, who led the point standings for sprint car racing at Midwest Speedway and Knoxville, Ia., has lost the sight in his right eye as a result of an accident at Knoxville.

"He redamaged part of the brain which had been injured in his accident at Knoxville on June 28 of last year," Goodwin's wife Alice Jane said.

"The doctor said it would be crazy for him to race again. There was a little damage to his left eye, too, and he is wearing glasses," she added.

"It is very hard on Raymond to quit racing. It has been part of his life for the last 15 years and he doesn't want to give it up, but he relaizes the situation," Mrs. Goodwin said.

Goodwin, 35, from Polo, Mo., who drives a truck hauling heavy equipment for a Kansas City construction firm, was the winner in the 1968 supermodified nationals at Knoxville.

Although sprint car racing has been cancelled until further notice at Midwest Speedway there have been plans to resume racing in the area.

Harvey Kropp of Eagle Raceway plans to hold a full-slate of sprint car racing Sunday night at 8 p.m. Many local drivers are expected to compete.

Mason Named To ISU Post

AMES, Iowa (AP) — The new offensive line coach at Iowa State University is Glen Mason, former football player at Ohio State University.

Mason, 26, succeeds Bob Seaman who resigned in May to enter private business.

For the past year, Mason was at Ball University where he was an assistant coach in charge of the defensive line.

He had previously coached one year at Allegheny College as a defensive coordinator, and had also been a graduate assistant at Ball State where he coached linebackers and middle guards.

Mason, a native of Colonia, N.J., earned all-state prep honors in football before going to Ohio State.

Rotter Set For Doane

Crete — Doane College Athletic Director Bob Erickson Friday announced the hiring of Kristine Rotter as women's physical education instructor at the Crete school.

Rotter is a 1973 graduate of Peru State College and this spring received her Master's degree from Northwest Missouri State University.

NWU Cage Clinic At Santee

Irv Peterson, Nebraska Wesleyan basketball coach, will conduct a basketball clinic at Santee July 27-29.

He said the clinic will be for both boys and girls and is being arranged by Faye and Jim Jones of Santee.

Peterson will be assisted by John Strain and Tom Maupin, former Nebraska Wesleyan players.

Firearm Deer Permits Remain

The remaining Nebraska firearm deer permits, located in the Sand Hills Unit and the Upper Platte sub-unit, are being distributed on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Game and Parks officials said they did not know how many permits were remaining.

They said non-Nebraska residents could apply for the remaining permits after Aug. 1.

Aunt Priscilla Seeking Streak

I knew Friday would be my lucky day at the State Fairgrounds.

I shouldn't tell this, but I stayed up real late Thursday night playing poker (that really hurts my image doesn't it??). However, I won 35 cents playing with some lady friends of mine.

Aunt Priscilla Wins 60¢

That's why I was in such a good frame of mind Friday playing ponies. My Baby Chinook ran second (the poor darling tried so hard, too) in the third race, but then Miss Spy's Dream ran so easily in winning the fifth race.

I earned $4.60 on Miss Spy's Dream so I was a 60-cent winner for the day. It boosted my $104 spree fund to $115.20.

On Saturday, I'm going to put my $2 win tickets on Big Barry Brien in the fourth and on Shouldabe Hasty in the seventh.

Bishop Boosts Town And Country

John Bishop scattered four hits and collected two himself to help Town and Country topple Gerry's 2-0 in Legion baseball action Friday night at Sherman Field.

Brian Moreland started things off for Town and Country with a triple in the fourth inning, and then scored on a throwing error. Bishop scored the other run, when he doubled, advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on a squeeze bunt by Greg Smith.

Charlie Metzger, who took the loss for Gerry's allowed only three hits, in seven innings.

A Sports Roundup

FOOTBALL

The Baltimore Colts acquired linebackers Jim Cheyunski and Al Cowlings for undisclosed draft choices from the Buffalo Bills.

Missouri fullback Annise DAvis has been suspended from the squad after being charged with possession of marijuana.

Drake football coach Jack Wallace is reported in excellent condition after undergoing heart surgery Friday.

The New York Jets traded cornerback Earlie Thomas to the Buffalo Bills for a future draft choice.

The World Football League postponed its "color experiment" where player's wear different colored pants to help identify their position.

The Chicago Bears cut running backs Walter Hartfield and Tom Boatright.

The San Diego Chargers placed three rookies on waivers including Chip Salvestrini of Yankton College.

Notre Dame reinstated five of the six football players, suspended last year after rape allegations were brought up against them. Criminal charges were never brought.

A pro football player from the Shreveport Steamer of the WFL was arrested on charges he stole $12,000 in tickets when he left the club and peddled them on the street for a lower price.

OTHER SPORTS

The assault trial of Dave Forbes of the Boston Bruins — the first trial of a hockey player for his actions in a game — ended with a hung jury late Friday. Forbes was indicted by a grand jury after a fight last January with Henry Boucha of the Minnesota North Stars, Boucha suffered a cut and a fracture of the facial bones and claims he suffers double vision.

Baltimore Orioles pitcher Jim Palmer has suffered a recurring rib injury and probably won't pitch until late next week.

The manager of King County stadium in Seattle said he remains optimistic a major league baseball team will be moved to Seattle for the 1976 season.

National Hockey League approval to transfer the California Golden Seals to Seattle or disbandment of the franchise appeared imminent Friday, unless the San Francisco Redevelopment agency can reach agreement on a proposed new 19,000 seat stadium.

University of Maryland basketball and tennis standout John Lucas said he was considering pro in both sports but plans to return to school next fall. Lucas was drafted in the first round by the New York Nets of the ABA and has been approached by the Phoenix Racquets of World Team Tennis, this year.

The Tournament of Champions has been moved into the slot immediately following the Masters on the pro golf tour schedule next year.

Canadian school girl Cindy Nicholas, 17, gave up her attempt to set a New England to France swimming record three hours and 45 minutes after plunging into the English Channel, due to rough seas.

Graham Hill, two time world auto racing champion announced his retirement from racing. Hill, the only driver who has won two world championships, the Indianapolis 500, and LeMans events, said he would concentrate on managing his own Formula One team.

Gregg Otte, 25, has been appointed sports editor of the York News-Times. He will succeed Don Vodarka, who is taking a position with the Wayne Herald.

Czechoslovakia and Sweden were both one match away from reaching their respective European Zone Davis Cup tennis finals after establishing 2-0 leads in their best three-of-five semifinal matches.

Goodwin Loses Use Of Eye

Ray Lee Goodwin, who led the point standings for sprint car racing at Midwest Speedway and Knoxville, Ia., has lost the sight in his right eye as a result of an accident at Knoxville.

"He redamaged part of the brain which had been injured in his accident at Knoxville on June 28 of last year," Goodwin's wife Alice Jane said.

"The doctor said it would be crazy for him to race again. There was a little damage to his left eye, too, and he is wearing glasses," she added.

"It is very hard on Raymond to quit racing. It has been part of his life for the last 15 years and he doesn't want to give it up, but he relaizes the situation," Mrs. Goodwin said.

Goodwin, 35, from Polo, Mo., who drives a truck hauling heavy equipment for a Kansas City construction firm, was the winner in the 1968 super-modified nationals at Knoxville.

Although sprint car racing has been cancelled until further notice at Midwest Speedway there have been plans to resume racing in the area.

Harvey Kropp of Eagle Raceway plans to hold a full-slate of sprint car racing Sunday night at 8 p.m. Many local drivers are expected to compete.

Mason Named To ISU Post

AMES, Iowa (AP) — The new offensive line coach at Iowa State University is Glen Mason, former football player at Ohio State University.

Mason, 26, succeeds Bob Seaman who resigned in May to enter private business.

For the past year, Mason was at Ball University where he was an assistant coach in charge of the defensive line.

He had previously coached one year at Allegheny College as a defensive coordinator, and had also been a graduate assistant at Ball State where he coached linebackers and middle guards.

Mason, a native of Colonia, N.J., earned all-state prep honors in football before going to Ohio State.

Rotter Set For Doane

Crete — Doane College Athletic Director Bob Erickson Friday announced the hiring of Kristine Rotter as women's physical education instructor at the Crete school.

Rotter is a 1973 graduate of Peru State College and this spring received her Master's degree from Northwest Missouri State University.

NWU Cage Clinic At Santee

Irv Peterson, Nebraska Wesleyan basketball coach, will conduct a basketball clinic at Santee July 27-29.

He said the clinic will be for both boys and girls and is being arranged by Faye and Jim Jones of Santee.

Peterson will be assisted by John Strain and Tom Maupin, former Nebraska Wesleyan players.

Firearm Deer Permits Remain

The remaining Nebraska firearm deer permits, located in the Sand Hills Unit and the Upper Platte sub-unit, are being distributed on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Game and Parks officials said they did not know how many permits were remaining.

They said non-Nebraska residents could apply for the remaining permits after Aug. 1.

Aunt Priscilla Seeking Streak

I knew Friday would be my lucky day at the State Fairgrounds.

I shouldn't tell this, but I stayed up real late Thursday night playing poker (that really hurts my image doesn't it??). However, I won 35 cents playing with some lady friends of mine.

Aunt Priscilla Wins 60¢

That's why I was in such a good frame of mind Friday playing ponies. My Baby Chinook ran second (the poor darling tried so hard, too) in the third race, but then Miss Spy's Dream ran so easily in winning the fifth race.

I earned $4.60 on Miss Spy's Dream so I was a 60-cent winner for the day. It boosted my $104 spree fund to $115.20.

On Saturday, I'm going to put my $2 win tickets on Big Barry Brien in the fourth and on Shouldabe Hasty in the seventh.

Bishop Boosts Town And Country

John Bishop scattered four hits and collected two himself to help Town and Country topple Gerry's 2-0 in Legion baseball action Friday night at Sherman Field.

Brian Moreland started things off for Town and Country with a triple in the fourth inning, and then scored on a throwing error. Bishop scored the other run, when he doubled, advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on a squeeze bunt by Greg Smith.

Charlie Metzger, who took the loss for Gerry's allowed only three hits, in seven innings.

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Saturday

Cancer is the Moon and number 2 Cancer is the fourth zodiacal sign and the mother Here is strength double-harness, co-operation protection the ability to multiply assets to succeed in business and to get a roof over head Cancer gets bogged down with another under the same sign has a secret fear of Gemini, can make money with Leo sign contracts with Capricorn be physically drawn to Scropio and take long trips with Pisces Cancer has an innate understanding of food and shelter is basically warm but very tough when it comes to defending home and hearth

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Spotlight on educational requirements materials You learn what is real what is supposed, what is fantasy and what actually is creative Aquarius Leo and Scorpio persons are in picture A journey is on agenda and so is important correspondence

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Look beneath surface indications Questions will be answered if persistent Refuse to accept "tidy' explanations Go after reasons — become aware of motives

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You find out how much you can depend on one with legal commitment Key is to be responsible for yourself Improve domestic harmony home comforts and security Anything that comes from partner mate should be considered in bonus category You ll understand!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) See people as they are — don't become victim of deception One who whispers sweet nothings should be tolerated with amusement not necessarily trusted Keep promises to yourself concerning health, work and unique services

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Involvement is name of game for you Member of opposite sex weaves an intriguing web Know it and enjoy it but don't think you can "get away" without paying price Emotions come high and, if you are "fooling around," you have some hard lessons to digest

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Finish what you start Don't feel that you must be limited or restricted You can broaden horizons Legal type ties loose ends and you are beneficiary One who has experience shares with you You will feel more secure wanted, desired and, most important, loved

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 22) Social activity accelerates Details are put aside for another time You get calls messages, visits and requests Forces tend to be scattered Maintain your own emotional balance

SCROPIO (Oct 23-Nov 21) Money, extravagance, inflation figure in your personal picture Means among other things that you become acutely aware of costs payments and promissory notes You will be put in position of that of "teacher"

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 Dec 21) Family obligation may slow pace to slight degree Means all is not "beer and skittles" Cycle is high, but the past seems to blend with present Know it and prepare Journey is probably necessary — and constructive

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) Someone shares a secret with you Realize there could be price tag Being naive now could be costly Relative who claims to know it all may be riddled with doubts fears Know it and heed your own counsel

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 18) Friends lead you to course that can be profitable —in more than one way Your inquiries are answered Submission of ideas, manuscripts is favored Gemini Virgo figure prominently You receive meaningful compliment — and a challenge

PISCES (Feb 19-March 20) You make significant gains Influential people pay more attention to you There is room at top — and someone up there likes you Home adjustment luxury items are in picture If single, there is talk of marriage

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative independent passionate and stubborn Leo Aquarius persons play important roles in your life In August, you are offered a "different" position You can rise above the petty and perceive potential Forces are scattered this year, which has featured friendship, frolic, travel and a degree of disillusionment

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Saturday

Cancer is the Moon and number 2. Cancer is the fourth zodiacal sign and the mother. Here is strength, double-harness, co-operation, protection, the ability to multiply assets, to succeed in business and to get a roof over head. Cancer gets bogged down with another under the same sign, has a secret fear of Gemini, can make money with Leo, sign contracts with Capricorn, be physically drawn to Scropio and take long trips with Pisces. Cancer has an innate understanding of food and shelter, is basically warm but very tough when it comes to defending home and hearth.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Spotlight on educational requirements, materials. You learn what is real, what is supposed, what is fantasy and what actually is creative. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio persons are in picture. A journey is on agenda and so is important correspondence.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Look beneath surface indications. Questions will be answered if persistent. Refuse to accept "tidy" explanations. Go after reasons — become aware of motives.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You find out how much you can depend on one with legal commitment. Key is to be responsible for yourself. Improve domestic harmony, home comforts and security. Anything that comes from partner, mate should be considered in bonus category You'll understand!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): See people as they are — don't become victim of deception. One who whispers sweet nothings should be tolerated with amusement, not necessarily trusted. Keep promises to yourself concerning health, work and unique services.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Involvement is name of game for you. Member of opposite sex weaves an intriguing web. Know it and enjoy it, but don't think you can "get away" without paying price. Emotions come high and, if you are "fooling around," you have some hard lessons to digest.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Finish what you start. Don't feel that you must be limited or restricted. You can broaden horizons. Legal type ties loose ends, and you are beneficiary. One who has experience shares with you. You will feel more secure, wanted, desired and, most important, loved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Social activity accelerates. Details are put aside for another time. You get calls, messages, visits and requests. Forces tend to be scattered. Maintain your own emotional balance.

SCROPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Money, extravagance, inflation figure in your personal picture. Means, among other things, that you become acutely aware of costs, payments and promissory notes. You will be put in position of that of "teacher."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Family obligation may slow pace to slight degree. Means all is not "beer and skittles." Cycle is high, but the past seems to blend with present. Know it and prepare. Journey is probably necessary — and constructive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Someone shares a secret with you. Realize there could be price tag. Being naive now could be costly. Relative who claims to know it all may be riddled with doubts, fears. Know it and heed your own counsel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friends lead you to course that can be profitable —in more than one way. Your inquiries are answered. Submission of ideas, manuscripts is favored. Gemini, Virgo figure prominently. You receive meaningful compliment — and a challenge.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You make significant gains. Influential people pay more attention to you. There is room at top — and someone up there likes you. Home adjustment, luxury items are in picture. If single, there is talk of marriage.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative, independent, passionate and stubborn. Leo, Aquarius persons play important roles in your life. In August, you are offered a "different" position. You can rise above the petty and perceive potential. Forces are scattered this year, which has featured friendship, frolic, travel and a degree of disillusionment.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
